Hafer Endorses Grass Clippings Program And Pledges To Be Farm Advocate

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — After breakfast with agricultural leaders at Willow Valley Center on Thursday morning, Republican gubernatorial candidate Barbara Hafer visited the Robert Groff farm to endorse an innovative pilot program that diverts grass clippings from the landfill to fertilize farm fields.

"Here is a simple solution to a difficult problem," Hafer said. "If we don't take things out of our landfills, we will be burried in our own garbage."

The feasibility study to turn grass clippings into fertilizer for farmers was initiated by the Lancaster County Solid Waste Management Authority. Garth Becker, environmental planner, said the project includes three farms. And the farmers are pleased with the early results.

Mike Brubaker, agronomist, who has been retained by the Authority to study the environmental impact of grass clippings on farm fields, reported that the grass had a higher nitrogen level than expected but the release into the soil for plant utilization was much slower than was anticipated. Brubaker reported that the studies look very favorable. The material flows very evenly through a conventional manure spreader and the material comes to the farm very clean. If this good report continues, the authority expects to have a workable plan in effect as early as next year.

Ken Rutt, Hafer's farm policy coordinator, said local farm leaders hope the recyclying of grass clippings and newsprint onto the farm will show an environmental good will by farmers and add to the farm economy as well.

"We don't want farms to be a dumping ground for every person in the state," Rutt said. "But if you pay to put recyclable materials in the landfill, maybe you need to compensate the farmer for using his land to help the environment.

"Through PDA and the state government, we can make sure the materials are safe to put on the land and that economic value is derived for farmers," Rutt said.

Hafer pledged that if elected in the fall, her adminstration would be an advocate for the farmer.

While here to receive input from the farm leaders about their concerns and questions related to farm representation in a Republican adminstration, Hafer took the

Management Skills Need To Be Taught In Ag Classes

VAL VANTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

BERNVILLE (Berks Co.) — Berks agricultural businesses are putting a top priority on management skills according to a survey conducted by the Tulpehocken High School Agriculture Department. The survey, which took over two years to revise, send and compile, offered some insights into what producers and businessmen would like to have taught in high school agriculture.

A total of 44 of the 51 respondents agreed or strongly agreed that record keeping should be part of ag. It was closely followed by leadership, a traditional FFA stronghold. There was a tie for third between computer and marketing training. Basic job skills, such as interviewing, placed fourth with sales principles rounding out the top five. There was only a difference of 11 responses between the first and fifth place topic area.

The producers and businessmen also endorsed classroom education in agriculture. "A total of 34 respondents stated that ag education would be beneficial for their

Forage Day Classes Held At Eisenhower Farm

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.)— More than 100 farmers gathered at the farm of the late Dwight and Mamie Eisenhower June 14 for a Forage Field Day. The farm, now called the Eisenhower National Historical Site, is worked by a neighboring farmer and overseen by the National Park Service.

Visiting farmers spent the day attending seven different agriculturally-related classes, ranging from Pasture Management to Hay Harvesting to the Safe Use of Farm Chemicals.

Farmers Should Beware Of 'Oligopoly'

ANDY ANDREWS

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — There were some loaded questions for Pennsylvania agribusiness at the PennAg dinner here Monday night. Questions such as: What is the future for farms? Will "big business" contract producers drown out the small producers? What is happening to the "small" packers?

H. Louis Moore, Penn State professor of ag economics, gave his personal views on some of these questions. Moore's "futurist" forecasts portray an increasingly competitive economic climate that will demand increasing efficiency and customer relations for Pennsylvania agribusiness. Better business management will be vital to survival.

Moore spoke to about 200 millers, manufacturers, feed and fertilizer companies, grain brokers, seedsmen, food processors, agrilending institutions, and others at PennAg Industries Association's annual grain meeting.

Moore's future prognosis for most of Pennsylvania agriculture is optomistic, because of the diversity of farming and better economic times for agriculture as a whole.

Packers exert control

However, a growing concern, according to Moore, is the increasingly large amount of control a few packers are exerting over a large portion of the cattle market.

"Agriculture is still our most competitive industry in this country," said Moore. "And despite all the things we hear that are going Trucklot buying interest was mixed and irregular. Supplies of skinned boneless breasts were uneven but fully adequate for most buyers needs. Whole breasts were adequate to fully adequate for a light buyer interest and bids and an occasional sale were noted at lower levels. Legs were fully adequate to ample with spot offerings in the mid-thirties in load volume. Demand for leg quarters continued to build and supplies tightened but remained adequate overall. Wings were in closest balance but about adequate. Giblets were fully adequate to ample.

Delmarva Broiler-Fryer Market

Thursday, June 21, 1990

Movement of ready to cook whole fryers was generally fair. Supplies were irregularly distributed and ranged close to fully adequate. Less than trucklot asking prices were higher at 55-67 cents. Live supplies were adequate with average live weights in a desirable range. Processing schedules today were heavy. The sentiment was fully steady at most points. In the parts complex, supplies of cutlets and legs were fully adequate, whole breasts were at least adequate for the cautious buyer interest, leg quarters were adequate and confidently held, and wings were about adequate and clearing but buyer interest slowed from early week.

N.Y. & Phila. Frozen Eggs

June 19, 1990

The market tone was fully steady to firm on both whole eggs and yolks while barely steady to weak on whites. Trading was spotty as buyers resisted the higher asking prices and sellers were reluctant to waver Raw materials increased in their availability but further processors were selective and had sufficient stocks to maintain desired schedules. Current inventories were generally adequate for trade requirements.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, Mo.
Wednesday, June 20, 1990

USDA DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN MARKET SUMMARY GRAIN PRICES MIXED, MOSTLY HIGHER WEDNESDAY. WHEAT PRICES MIXED, HARD RED WINTER PRICES LOWER IN KANSAS CITY, AS WINTER WHEAT HARVEST COMPLETE IN TEXAS AND OVER HALF COMPLETE IN OKLAHOMA. HOWEVER, REPORTED CROP DAMAGE IN SOFT RED WHEAT BELT BOOSTED PRICES. CHINA'S RECENT PURCHASE ALSO SUPPORTED SOFT WHEAT PRICES. CORN PRICES FELL, PRESSURED BY LIGHT EXPORT DEMAND. CONCERNS OVER CROP DAMAGE FROM RECENT HEAVY RAINS, FAILED TO BOOST CORN PRICES. CONCERNS THAT SOYBEAN CROPS SUFFERED DAMAGE AFTER SEVERE STORMS RECENTLY SWEPT ACROSS THE MIDWEST, PUSHED PRICES MODERATELY HIGHER. ALSO, REPORTS THAT JAPAN WILL PURCHASE U.S. SOYBEANS INSTEAD OF BRAZILIAN BEANS, GAVE MARKET SUPPORT.

EXPORT NEWS: CHINA BOUGHT 359,800 METRIC TONS OF SOFT RED WINTER WHEAT FOR OCTOBER SHIPMENT UNDER EXPORT BONUS PROGRAM.

National Egg Market

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady. Demand at all levels was light to moderate, mostly moderate. Supplies were adequate. Retail features were scattered. Breakers became more selective as shell egg offers increased; prices were generally unchanged to slightly lower.

New York Egg Market

Thursday, June 21, 1990

Prices edged lower on mediums, unchanged on the heavier eggs. Trade sentiment was barely steady. Cartoned egg movement was slow and disappointing. Supplies were building in several areas and some dealers canceled incoming loads to avoid accumulating unwanted inventories.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

JUNE 25-JULY 1, 1990

July 1, Dominion Day, Canada.

June 25, 1876, "Custer's Last Stand" at the Little Big Horn . June 26, 1797, a cast-iron plow is patented by Charles Newbold, but farmers are reluctant to replace their wooden plows, fearing soil contamination by the new implement June 28, 1904, Helen Keller graduates with honors from Radcliffe College .. Our Hope's the Joy and Comfort of our life, 'tis sweet in sorrow and our peace in strife

Ask the Old Farmer: How can I restore the color to my red fireplace bricks? J L , Ind

First wash the bricks and allow them to dry, then apply boiled linseed oil sparingly with a brush so that it is completely absorbed

Home Hints: Reduce the number of flies buzzing around doorways by planting mint Flies dislike the smell of mint and will not hang around the entrance

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: A cooler than average June gives way to a warmer than average July. The week begins clear, changing to rain midweek, finishing clear and warm.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Clear and pleasantly warm, a bit of rain, then clearing again July comes in warm and sunny with showers in the south.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Nice weather starts the week. pleasant and clear, then partly cloudy and some rain July rolls in with thundershowers.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: A cool start changes to sunny and mild. Then rain, light in the west, changes to showers, heavy in the west

OPINION

Precautions and Procedures

This week we again saw a field of corn where an unclean field sprayer inflicted crop damage to corn because of residues left in the tank from the previous spraying operation. Farmers should be careful to clean the sprayer before using a different material in a different field.

The Alliance For A Clean Rural Environment (ACRE) suggests that farmers dispose of all excess chemicals in the sprayer by adding water and spraying on the crop for which it was intended.

In addition, you should not rinse out the sprayer at the same site repeatedly unless water containment facilities are used. To protect wells, be sure they are properly constructed to minimize contamination risks, locate storage, mix-load and container disposal sites away from wells, sinkholes or surface water. Never calibrate or clean spray equipment near wells.

Spraying equipment should be properly prepared. Check tanks for leaks, accurately measure all chemicals, mix only enough product for the job at hand. Also, never over-fill the tank and keep fill hose out of the solution.

Certainly, farmers would not want to go back to earlier days when grass and weeds in the fields could only be controled with hand hoes and tractor cultivators. Chemicals have made the farmers' lives easier and contributed to the abundant food supply we enjoy. And when farmers handle their chemicals with common sense and use the label recommendations to determine application rates, they help insure these chemicals will continue to be available in the future.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Prepare For Grain Harvest

We are preparing to harvest barley and winter wheat in only a couple of weeks. Both of these crops require mechanical harvesting equipment and good weather. From the amount of volunteer grain I've seen growing after barley and wheat harvests, the last several years, it is evident that too much grain is being left in the field.

I am concerned that high combine speed might be part of the reason that grain is thrown out with the straw. The manufacturer recommendations should be followed in this respect. Also, there are times when the grain may be too tough to combine. This is often the case when the crop is quite weedy. The important thing is to have the combine adjusted to the best of your knowledge and drive at recommended speeds. You'll need every bushel of grain and every bale of straw from your crop.

To Clean Pesticide Sprayers

The use of various kinds of spray materials in one sprayer is risky. This is especially true when you are using any type of weed killer. In too many cases the sprayer carries sufficient residual weed killer material to injure a susceptible crop. Farmers who are spraying corn fields with weed killers one day and then spraying alfalfa or tobacco plants the next day with the same equipment had better do a real thorough job of cleaning the sprayer.

Some materials can be cleaned by using warm water and soap detergent. However, materials such as 2,4-D had better be cleaned with one pint of household ammonia in 25 gallons of HOT water. Allow the mix to remain in the sprayer overnight and then spray it out through the system on the lane or driveway. Don't be guilty of harming good plants. One of the best practices with small sprayers is to have one for weed killers and another for other purposes.

To Control Pasture Weeds

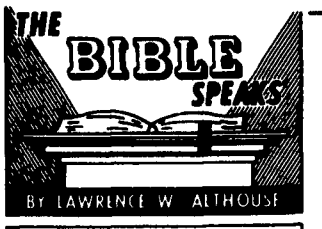
Pastures can be more productive if weed competition is reduced, and if rotational grazing is practiced. Rotational grazing also makes pasture management tasks easier to perform. When cattle have grazed one pasture, and are rotated into another, clip the grazed area. Besides keeping the vegetation more productive, it will also help reduce weed competition. However, some weeds cannot be controlled solely by clipping. The use of herbicides may be necessary. A mixture of 2,4-D and dicamba (Banvel) is effective in killing the most pasture weeds, as well as legumes. Repeated applications may be needed for some weeds. Be sure to comply with label instructions.

To Consider Lightning Rods on Trees

How many times have you driven past a pasture field or exercise lot and noticed dozens of cattle or other livestock grouped together under one or two large trees? During severe thunderstorms, livestock will gather under these trees. If lightning strikes the tree, many of the animals will be killed. A number of farmers in the county can attest to that. For the protection of valuable livestock, we suggest that some of these individual trees be fitted with a lightning rod system. If there is a woodlot or a number of trees in the pasture, it may not be practical.

There is a Lightning Protection Institute at Harvard, IL 60033 that lists the Certified installers in your area. You can call them collect through their LPI Hotline 815--943-7221.

Liming and fertilizing is also a good weed control practice; it helps the grass to become more competitive with the weeds.



AMBUSHING YOURSELF!

June 24, 1990

Background Scripture:
Proverbs 1.
Devotional Reading:
Philippians 2:1-11.

Several months ago the city of Dallas was rocked by the arrest of a number of star football players in a local high school that won the state championship. The charges against them were based on a string of armed robberies in the community. What was most surprising of all was that none of these young men came from underprivileged homes. Economic deprivation was not the reason for their crime spree.

I won't pretend to be able to fully understand their motivations, but a substantial clue may have surfaced when one of the repentant young men admitted that he had gone along in these robberies because it seemed "the smart thing to do." Smart, not in terms of wisdom, but of cleverness. These football players were the idols of their student body; they were the really "smart" guys of the community. While they pursued their extracurricular lives of crime, they were amazed at how easy it was. They believed they were outsmarting everyone and that was what appealed to them so much. Actually, although they were very clever, they were not that smart, not really. Too late they realized their stupidity and they are having ample opportunity to contemplate their cleverness behind bars.

DRUNK ON CLEVERNESS

The key to their downfall is the same as it is for many people today. Many of those who criminally lie, cheat and steal do so, it seems, because they were intoxicated by their own cleverness. Chuck Coulson and John Ehrlichmann, two of the prominent Nixon administration figures who were convicted in the Watergate scandals, have both indicated that they were caught up in their own cleverness. It is strange but true that often our cleverness keeps us from seeing how truly stupid we are behaving. Cleverness is arrogant, never humble, and no matter how intelligent we may be, arrogance negates intelligence.

If arrogance spawns criminal activity in a few of us, it also tends to generate legal but stupid behavior in many of the rest of us. How much of the troubles we experience in life are the result of being too smart, too clever, but unwise? There have been times in my life when I have been barely unable to restrain my glee in some clever plan or project. I have been so "full of myself" that I have failed to see that SMART doesn't equal WISE.

CLEVERNESS VS. WISDOM

What about you? Are you ever done in by your own cleverness? Many years ago I had a parishioner who was in trouble most of the time. Because of the way in which he conducted himself, he lost his job. Destitute, he decided on what he thought was a clever plan for getting some money; he literally shot himself in the foot. But after he had seriously wounded himself — preventing him from working for many weeks — he discovered that his insurance policy did not cover the injury!

Few of us are ever that stupid. But how stupid have you been? When did you last "shoot yourself in the foot"? The Psalmist has another analogy: "...these men lie in wait for their own blood, they set an ambush for their own lives" (1:18).

So the message of Proverbs is not for the village idiot so much as it is for those who are oh-so-clever. "How long, O simple ones, will you love being simple?" (v.22).

CHICKEN FEED IS BIG MONEY

Don't Waste It!

For fifty years BIG DUTCHMAN CHAIN has been carrying feed to chickens. And for fifty years poultry equipment companies, including Big Dutchman, have tried to find a better way. There isn't one...only other ways.

If you are a poultryman who is tiring of "pie in the sky" claims of extra cage rows per house and truckloads of feed savings... then look to Big Dutchman, the leader in poultry cage equipment systems. Take a "hands on" look at time-tested fully proven cage systems, to find out why producers are continually putting layers into new Big Dutchman installations. Then look to the really successful poultry farms world wide and you will find Big Dutchman Chain carrying the load.

Level 3 Of Pork Program Unveiled

DES MOINES, Iowa — Level III of the Pork Quality Assurance Program was unveiled here at the World Pork Expo.

The Pork Quality Assurance Program is the industry's management education program designed to reduce drug residues. Currently, more than 3,300 producers from 46 states are participating in Levels I and II of the voluntary program.

Level III involves a three-step verification process to aid a producer in checking his facilities, his dogs and his own knowledge to find and eliminate possible sources of residues. Once a producer completes the checks, he selects an ag professional to review the checklists and verify quality management. The verifier might be his veterinarian, extension agent, ag teacher, or an industry specialist.

"Involving other pork industry professionals in the verification process not only adds to the strength of the program, but helps make those people more aware of what's involved in preventing drug residues," said Mike Wehler, National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) president and co-chairman of the pork Quality Assurance Committee.

Besides providing the checklists to help identify possible sources of residues, Level III includes other special features. Optional computer software makes it easy to keep accurate drug use records and aids in the selection and proper use of medications for specific disease problems.

"Level III may take some time by the producer, but this may be our last chance at a voluntary, producer-designed program," according to NPPC Vice President Tim Rose, a producer from Lyons, KS, who is co-chairman of the Pork Quality Assurance Committee. "The alternative of a government mandated and designed program makes me very nervous."

Pork Quality Assurance Program material can be obtained by contacting state or national pork producer organizations.

Dairy Promotion Is Year Long Activity

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

KISSEL HILL — The shear number and diversity of dairy promotion activities is evidence that June truly is dairy month.

An equally large number of ice-cream and dairy promotions lined up for July also attests that educating the public to dairy products is a never-ending job.

Both June and July annually receive the official designation via gubernatorial decree. But more so than by governmental proclamation, recognition of Dairy and Ice Cream months is carried out through dairy promotions.

The promotions range from local community efforts, those on a state or regional basis, to those widely viewed at a national level.

The reason for the various level organizations is to allow for as complete a penetration of information into the public as possible: local programs pit people in a one-to-one situation; state programs are directed at large audiences and transient crowds; and national programs try for even larger audiences.

Through this variety of effort, June has seen cow milking contests at baseball games, dairy food give-aways, ice-cream samples in well-known public places, free frozen yogurt offered in malls, milk punch and vegetable dip stands in grocery stores, ice cream eating contests in shopping malls, and radio and television commercials.

Friday and today, in celebration of Dairy Month, the Franklin County dairy promotion program is holding its main observance with a "Dairy Days At The Mall."

An ice cream contest, with local high school athletes was held Friday afternoon.

Today, cooking demonstrations by members of the Franklin County Society of Farm Women Groups and free samples of frozen yogurt are on scheduled.

As the second highest county in Pennsylvania in milk production, John Shearer, county agent said the promotion recognizes the county's $90 million-a-year dairy industry.

But promotions such as these are just a few of the promotions that have been taking place across the state.

Summer and fall, with county fairs and more people outside, are popular seasons for dairy promotion, but year 'round promotional events are conducted to some extent by all dairy promotion agencies.

Furthermore, each county's promotion effort can also include selecting a dairy princess, usually done during June, to represent the dairy industry at various functions.

Later in the year, from the realm

JACOB GUFFEY
Bradford County Agent

Dairying is the leading industry in Bradford County producing in excess of seventy five million dollars annual income from milk sales.

Bradford is the second largest dairy county in Pennsylvania with approximately 700 commercial dairy farms. Most of Bradford County's milk is marketed in the New York milkshed through federal order two.

In recent years the Eastern Milk - Leprino Cheese Plant has provided a local market for large quantities of milk. At the present time dairymen are not able to meet the milk supply needs of this plant plus the fluid milk market.

A closely related industry is veal production. Veal growers pay a premium price for bob calves and utilize milk powder in feed. Accurate figures on income from veal are not available, but estimates indicate a $70 million business.

Climate and soils limit the alternatives in agriculture. Since Bradford County's climate and soils are more suited to forage production, alternatives to ruminant agriculture are limited.

Bradford County produces a surplus of forage crops in an average year, but must import most of the concentrates fed.

Dairying remains for the most part a family operation. Average herd size is about 60 milking cows per farm. Dairying is good for Bradford County, but it is not without problems or opportunities for improvement.

High on the problem list is poor forage quality. Production per cow is limited by poor forage quality. Weather conditions and tradition restrict harvesting of hay crop forages at correct stage of maturity. Improving forage quality will greatly improve dairy farm income.

Higher quality forage reduces the need for concentrate supplementation but, most importantly, improves production per cow.

In a normal year we need to try to cut hay crop forages in very late May or early June to harvest at correct stage of maturity. Many hesitate to cut at this time fearing getting it rained on. Rained on or not as grasses and legumes mature, feeding values drop rapidly.

Making hay crop silage will enable earlier cutting as less drying time is needed. Forage quality will be higher and silage lends itself more to mechanization than does a high hay ration.

Another problem is inadequate use of forage testing. Forage testing with feed programming is an essential management tool that enables dairymen to increase production per cow, decrease feed costs per cwt of milk and increase net farm income.

Interest in forage testing has waned. I don't know of one good reason why a dairyman does not have forages tested. I guess we become complacent as income improves.

A third problem is Somatic Cell Counts (SCC) averages have stopped their downward trend in Bradford County, again indicating complacency.

Considerable depression on pounds of milk produced result from the higher somatic cell averages. We need to improve our milking procedures and provide our cows with a more sanitary environment.

The potential for increased production in Bradford County is substantial. Management can be improved. Improving in one of the above three areas would have a major impact.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

Dairy Promotion

of the chosen dairy princesses, a state pageant is held to select a state princess who then is responsible for dairy promotion at that level.

Funding these promotions requires a sizeable budget.

Each dairy promotion agency draws upon direct financial support from every dairyman. Many county-level efforts also receive additional money from dairy bottlers and others who depend on milk or milk products in the manufacture of dairy-based products.

In the past, each milk-producing region, called a federal order, was represented by an independent dairy promotion agency. Last year, three of the four agencies representing Pennsylvania dairymen signed a cooperative pact to align promotional efforts.

According to Laura Lesher, spokesperson with the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP), the combined effort has been working well.

Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Agency (MAMMA), which chose not to pool funds with the other three promotion agencies, is also doing well.

According to Patricia Purcell, MAMMA communications director, June and July have had a heavy schedule of milk promotions.

In addition to a variety of cooperative efforts with professional baseball teams, including pregame milking contests and third inning banna split fests, MAMMA's schedule includes a June 28, "Everyday Is Sundae" free ice cream festival in Philadelphia on Independence Mall.

Set from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., the event is in its fourth year and has been successful every time, Purcell said. More than a dozen ice cream vendors are to be on hand to distribute free ice cream samples. The rain date is June 29.

Also, some big events on the schedule for MAMMA in July inlcude "Sundae Safari," in Baltimore, Md. It is the state's second ice cream festival and is to be held at the Baltimore Zoo. About 4,000 people are expected, Purcell said. Set to be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., ice cream samples are free. Any other proceeds benefit the zoo. Rain date is July 22.

On July 27, a baseball game promotion is scheduled starting 6 p.m. on City Island with a game including the Harrisburg Senators, a farm team of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Lesher, with PDPP, said their schedule is just as full.

"Obviously, June is a big thing and we have been buying radio and TV (air time)," she said.

According to Lesher, some of the promotions of late have centered not only on the health qualities of drinking milk, but have picked up on some of the statistical data that makes Pennsylvania unique.

For example, she said that since the Commonwealth is second in the nation in terms of ice cream production, promoting ice cream sales in-state should be given extra emphasis.

The combined effort has also come up with some dairy promotion and educational materials for use in each areas region.

"Between the three of us, we developed food service kits with logos and posters distributed to retailers," she said. She said that milk price boards have been made available to area retailers.

"Maybe you don't see it on the forefront all the time, but we are continually working to improve the public's knowledge of dairy products. We are trying," she said.

For the fifth year, PDPP and the others are conducting the Summer Love Sundae Tuesday (SLST) programs, in which the public gets to make their own free sundaes.

The whole SLST is focused on July 17, with nine separate SLST events occuring simultaneously around the state.

The schedule of events for July includes a month-long coupon redemption program at the Armstrong County area Dairy Queen. Also scheduled to continue all month are ice cream radio advertising in Mercer County.

From July 10-17, ice cream radio advertising will be conducted in Centre County.

July 12 — Perry County public library story hour.

July 15 — Ice Cream Extravaganza in Adams County.

July 17 — SLST at McDonald's in Wexford, Butler County.

— SLST at Townville Old Home, in Crawford County.

— Radio station sundae party in Erie County.

— SLST at the McKean County courthouse.

— SLST at the blood mobile in Dallas, a combined effort by PDPP and Columbia and Luzerne counties.

— SLST at Shriner's Hospital, in Erie County.

— SLST at the Easter Seals Camp in Somerset, a joint effort by PDPP and Cambria County.

July 18 — SLST day at Altoona Amusement Park, Blair County.

July 20 — SLST on the courthouse steps in Franklin County.

July 21 — SLST promotion at the Dubois mall in Jefferson County.

Lesher also said to be look out for a national summer ice cream promotion lead by the National Dairy Board, American Dairy Association, and several large food companies called "There's Something About Ice Cream."

According to Lesher, the national focus will tie in with Nabisco Inc. by offering, in July 15 newspapers, a coupon offer of a free half gallon of ice cream (up to $2) with the purchase of two packages of Oreos or Chips Ahoy cookies.

Julie Greider, former Lancaster Dairy Princess, and alternate Lancaster County Dairy Princess Angie Spichler buy dairy products for a customer at Stauffer's of Kissel Hill during a county-level dairy promotion called a "Shopper Stopper."

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE BITLER FAMILY FOR THEIR COMMITMENT TO AGRICULTURE AND THE DAIRY INDUSTRY.

Pictured (L to R): Darvin Boyd, Suzanne Oatman, Roger Rohrer and Ted Bowers from the Agri-Finance Department of Hamilton Bank; Phoebe, Jesse and David Bitler with Vista Grande Reputation Olive Ex 90 (at 4 years of age she produced 32,697 lbs. of milk, 1,052 lbs. of butterfat and 1,034 lbs of protein in a 365 day lactation), and Patricia Trout, John Moose, Karen Dinkel and Jeffrey Troutman from the Argi-Finance Department of Hamilton Bank.

HAMITON BANK BELIEVES "THE FAMILY FARM IS THE BACKBONE OF AGRICULTURE". On behalf of all dairymen, we are pleased to salute the success of the David Bitler family of Fleetwood, R.D. #4 in Berks County. The Bitler's VISTA GRANDE FARM is a 163-acre, 90-cow Holstein dairy farm with a current rolling herd average of 19,522 pounds of milk a year, 703 pounds of fat and 631 pounds of protein. David and Phoebe are the chair couple for the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention which will be held in Reading in February, 1991. They were the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative Outstanding Young Cooperator Couple for 1988. They were elected 1989 Secretary Couple for the National Milk Producers Federation Young Cooperator Advisory Council.

A SALUTE TO DAIRYMEN. EVERY MONTH IS DAIRY MONTH WITH US.

In June a lot of people pay tribute to dairy farmers because it's National Dairy Month.

At Hamilton Bank, we feel you deserve credit a lot more often than that. Managing a successful dairy operation requires working capital all year round. So we're here to help you meet your capital requirements whenever you need us.

Dairy is the major agricultural enterprise in Pennsylvania and accounts for 29 percent of the total agricultural production value. The total annual volume of dairy production for our seven-county area is $445 million. This represents 33 percent of the yearly production for Pennsylvania. Now that's a record you can point to with pride, and we're proud to be able to help–any way, any time. At Hamilton Bank, every month is dairy month!

Lancaster Holstein Breeders Hold Summer Picnic

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

NINE POINTS (Lancaster Co.)—About 200 enthusiastists of the Holstein cow gathered on the lawn of John and Barbara Brubaker's farm for fun, fellowship and food. The event was the Lancaster County Holstein Association's annual summer picnic. The participents viewed the well-kept homestead and tried to match placings with Judge Donald Hostetter in the judging contest. Contest winners were named as follows:

LADIES: 1. Susan Howard; 2. Iva Lapp; 3. Donna Blank.

MEN: 1. Steve Bussen; 2. Park H. Ranck; 3. John Howard.

YOUTH: 1. Matt Welk; 2. Jill Harnish.

Susan Howard was the over-all winner with 146 points.

Agri-business sponsores of the picnic included: Agri Inc.; Hoobers Feed; Gap Vets Association; Hamilton Bank; Monsanto (Animal Science Div.); J. G. Agri Services; Atlantic Dairy Co-op; Maplehofe Dairy; Atlantic Breeders and Agway Inc.

PENNSYLVANIA'S LARGEST KUBOTA DEALER

Wenger Says Budget Cuts Hurt Farmers And Consumers

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A $331,000 cut in general fund monies from the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board's current fiscal year budget "not only hurts the state's dairy industry, but also has an impact on Pennsylvania's dairy consumers," said Senator Noah W. Wenger (R-36).

According to Wenger, Governor Casey recently cut $331,000 in General Fund monies from the Board's $931,000 current fiscal year budget. "Authorizing this cut in funds during 'June Dairy Month' emphasizes the governor's lack of concern for agriculture and his disregard for the leading segment of that industry -- dairy production and processing," said Wenger.

While the governor authorized that $267,000 be shifted to the Board from the Milk Marketing Fund to cover some of the costs, the Milk Marketing Board will still be forced to operate with a net loss of $64,000. (The milk fund is a restricted account into which milk licensing fees and penalties assessed to the dairy industry are placed).

In a letter to Governor Casey, Wenger, who is Vice-chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, and two of his Senate colleagues expressed strong disapproval of the cut. "Asking the state's dairy industry to finance its own watchdog agency is inappropriate," said the senators. "Pennsylvania consumers reap the benefit of a constant and consistent milk supply at a reasonable price. Funding the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board is tax dollars spent wisely."

Wenger explained that the Milk Marketing Board plays an important role in ensuring the quality and quantity of milk in the state. "Cutting the Board's funds seriously affects its ability to properly do its job," said Wenger. "In the long run, it is the consumer who pays the price."

According to Wenger, a tight budget situation for the coming fiscal year has prompted the governor to cut funding to this and other programs to cover an expected budget deficit. Wenger added that the governor has also proposed cutting the Milk Marketing Board's appropriation for the coming 1990-91 fiscal year from $991,000 to $600,000. "This double whammy sends a clear message to our state's leading agricultural industry," said Wenger.

"Rather than trying to balance the budget on the backs of milk producers and consumers by skimming off money from the Milk Marketing Board, the governor ought to face up to the present budget situation and take steps to find a workable solution," said Wenger.

Nolts To Host Annual Picnic

The Pennsylvania Nut Growers Association will hold their annual summer picnic at the Nolt Farm, 1126 Mill Road, Manheim, on Saturday, July 7, 1990. The meeting place is the former home of Miles and Irene Nolt who have been active nut growers for many years. The farm is now worked by son Clair Nolt.

The brief business meeting and informal program is the highlight of the PNGA year. The program is as follows:

9:30-10:00 a.m. Arive.

10:00-11:00 a.m. Morning farm tour by Miles Nolt.

11:30-12 noon Grafting demonstration by Bill and Lois Davie.

12 noon-1:00 p.m. Lunch.

1:00-2:00 p.m. Questions/ answers moderated by Ray Curanzy.

2:00-2:30 p.m. Auction called by Jay Book.

2:30-3:30 p.m. Afternoon farm tour by Miles Nolt.

You are asked to bring one or two covered dishes, folding chairs and table service for your party. Also bring at least one item for the Cracked Nut Auction. The Nolts' will supply a beverage and tables. The auction will raise money for the association.

Mix and process your rations and hay... the Oswalt way

Better design and more know-how have made Oswalt the leader in mixing.
Oswalt TMR/Hay Processors are clearly superior in their ability to mix all types of ration ingredients, including dry hay A reel-type mixer, particularly when fully loaded, retains a quantity of the dry hay in the center of the reel which then simply turns over with the reel and receives little mixing Your hay just gets a free ride and your final mix is uneven at best In an Oswalt TMR/Hay Processor, the hay is processed and evenly and aggressively mixed throughout the ration It has no place to hide

A key element of mixing dry hay into a ration is processing the hay while all ration ingredients are being mixed That means tearing the hay apart and reducing fiber length during the mixing process

In an Oswalt, the notched bottom auger working against the shear shelf, does the primary job of tearing the hay slabs apart and reducing the length of long hay stems

The aggressive square top-augers (a patented Oswalt exclusive) grab the hay slabs and finish the processing job

Test Facility Will Help Fight Salmonella

Editor's note: Last week in Lancaster Farming we introduced readers to the work conducted by the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center and some of the new facilities at the center's Widener Hospital for Large Animals. This week we'll explore a new facility at the center for studying avian disease.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

(This is the second of a series.)

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — Soil experts have a field test plot. Horticulturists have a greenhouse. What do some poultry specialists have to perform full-fledged tests?

They have a test chicken house.

'The people caught in a trace-back testing lose five times as much money in lost egg income than it would take to clean the house to start with.'

A newly constructed facility, which cost $156,000 and was finished in early June at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center, will have room for 1,000 layer hens.

It's all part of the avian medicine and pathology department's efforts to conduct "real-life" studies into the spread of poultry disease, including Salmonella enteritidis (SE).

Major study

"We're getting ready to start up a major study," said Robert J. Eckroade, head of the laboratory. The new 1,000-cage commercial egg laying house, according to the scientist, will be used to study the SE organism "in a more natural environment."

The layer house will be operated exactly like a commercial layer house. Except, in this case, the eggs will not be sold, but destroyed after testing.

Eckroade stands outside the chicken house facility newly constructed by New Bolton Center. "We will inoculate some birds in a house and and watch the infection spread, bird to bird," he said.

Tests will include the inoculation of a few birds and a detailed investigation of the spread of the infection. "We will inoculate some birds in a house and and watch the infection spread, bird to bird," he said. "We will answer questions such as: How long is it there? How long is the bird infected? How long does it stay seropositive? How long does it shed the bacteria in the feces? How long does it take four birds in the next cages to get infected? Where in the house is the infection located?"

Said Eckroade, "We will try to answer all of those questions related to population dynamics of an organism that is introduced into a susceptible population that we'll be studying here over the next two years."

Bird environments

During the last six months, the laboratory has been looking at the bird's environment.

Results from a recent 17-week study of a naturally infected layer flock showed that "even though the birds were intestinal carriers and occasionally even their ovaries were infected," said Eckroade, "those birds only rarely laid an infected egg. So that the real risk is extremely low.

"And what we get back to is, what is the acceptable risk to public health?"

Recently, a mandatory testing program for layer flocks was put into effect. About $7 million was provided to the USDA from the government to "beef up" testing operations on layers and breeders.

Conscious of food

Eckroade believes that people

are becoming more conscious of food, and they "expect it to be sterile." However, many of the more than 2,000 serotypes of Salmonella (SE is one type) are in the intestinal tract of humans and animals, and are difficult to keep out of the chicken or human environment.

"SE infection in people is a numbers game," said Eckroade. "Five SE bacteria may not hurt you, 10,000 may not hurt you, but 12,000 might. So if the food product containing a few Salmonella is allowed to stand at room temperature or higher, the numer of bacteria build up rapidly." Eckroade said that "all you have to do is cook the food product thoroughly to kill the Salmonella."

The laboratory intends to intensify the study of the environment and ask more questions to find the answers about the spread of Salmonella and particularly SE. Questions include: Does SE colonize the ovary of the laying hen?

"Most of the time, Salmonellae don't colonize the ovary," said Eckroade. "They get in the gut and are shed in the feces. And what we found was that one sample of SE from eggs colonizes the ovary, and the ones from the cow does not."

Uniqueness of SE

According to Eckroade, the uniqueness of the SE organism is its ability "to get through the barrier of the gut wall and into the bird and establish a colony in the ovary or some other internal organs."

The laboratory seeks to learn more about the biology of the organism 'before we can make all these regulations that are going to put some of these chicken farmers out of business.'

The laboratory seeks to learn more about the biology of the organism "before we can make all these regulations that are going to put some of these chicken farmers out of business," he said.

"The real issue that we've worked on for the last several years is not necessarily how to get rid of it, but how do you understand it?" he said. "You and I may have Salmonella in our intestinal tract and we don't consider ourselves infected, if you will, because we're not sick. And that's the typical situation with chickens as well."

Farmers must be particularly cautious and should take all the steps necessary to have their flocks tested. Part of the work to prevent an outbreak includes regular cleaning of the house and veterinary checks for poultry-related illness.

Farmers control SE

Eckroade believes farmers can control, if not altogether stop, an SE infection in their flock.

"Where we are today," he said, "is that, after several years of attempting so-called voluntary programs, where the state and the region came up with certain proposals that if egg farmers, breeders, feed mills, and hatcheries would do certain things, they could reduce the incidence of this infection or this intestinal colonization."

Said Eckroade, "And the FDA and state public health departments got more and more frustrated, and they have now finally put enough pressure on the U.S. Department of Ag to implement a mandatory control program."

Eckroade cautions that the blood test program is a good start, but does not positively prove that the flock is in danger of spreading the infection to eggs.

Not efficient

"A blood test is not a particularly efficient way — if you have to start somewhere, maybe it's okay," he said. "What the test probably means is that, at some point in her life, the hen was infected or had the organism there, but it has nothing to do with whether right now she is at risk. So it won't help us in that way."

Eckroade is convinced that, after refrigeration legislation is enacted in Pennsylvania, SE incidences will be reduced.

"I think what it's going to do is to take that 1 egg in 10,000 that may be infected," he said. "That's already a low risk. And then further decrease the risk by having most of those 1 in 10,000 eggs refrigerated adequately, now you're down to only an occasional 1 egg in 10,000 that misses the refrigeration and finally gets in and causes a problem."

Robert J. Eckroade, head of the laboratory of avian medicine and pathology at the University of Pennsylvania New Bolton Center, stands beneath layer cages in the new 1,000-bird test facility at the center. The $156,000 facility will study avian disease in a "real-life" environment.

'You have to work on it, it'll cost you some dollars. . . .'

Still, farmers can and should find ways to reduce SE infections in their flocks. According to Eckroade, there is a way.

Remove SE

"We found that, on a commercial basis, not on a laboratory basis, that you can remove SE from the environment," he said. "You have to work on it, it'll cost you some dollars, but we think some of the premises are infected and have not in the past been cleaned because of economics."

Some farmers, according to Eckroade, spend $800 between flocks to clean up, or spend $5,000 between flocks to make sure those houses have been washed down, sanitized, fogged with a disinfectant, fogged with an insecticide, and really cleaned up.

Farmers must clean up their houses because, he said, "the economics of getting caught in a trace-back are phenomenal.

"The people caught in a trace-back testing lose five times as much money in lost egg income than it would take to clean the house to start with."

Cleaning house

But Eckroade said that the payback for cleaning the house will improve the operations of the farm.

"Cleaning will reduce a lot of other infectious disease problems and make the whole place a cleaner, better place to raise birds."

In the meantime, Eckroade believes that unhealthy people, high-risk people, should not consume any raw food.

"The majority of all the people that have gotten SE have gotten it as a result of food abuse, temperature abuse, and preparation abuse," he said.

Eckroade thinks that the New Bolton Center laboratory has been a "resource in the first couple of years in jumping in on some of these epidemiological investigations to provide rapid answers" to these kinds of problems.

"The industry must respond," he said. "It's going to take years to reduce the presence of the organism in both human and chicken environments."

Next week: New Bolton Center is strongly involved in the study of Johne's disease. New detection methodology may help farmers locate and help rid the problem from their herds. Also, we speak to a surgeon at the center and some of the work in dealing with helping animals recover from surgery.

Holstein Association Ranks Swell

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association is pleased to announce and recognize four local clubs that have reached their membership goal.

The clubs are Northumberland/Montour, with 66 members, Susquehanna with 109 members and Somerset with 299 members.

Each of these clubs has received a monetary award for their work in membership recruitment.

Anyone interested in joining the Pennsylvania Holstein Association can contact the association at (814) 234-0364.

Programs of education, promotion and service are available to anyone interested in the betterment of dairymen in Pennsylvania.

Local clubs will be holding various events during the summer months and joining now would allow time to become involved in Holstein activities in your local area.

For more information on local club and state activities as well as membership information write to: Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College 16801.

on, I don't believe that's going to change."

But Moore's definition of competition is the same as most economist's: Competition means no one firm has any control over price, or any control over the amount that's supplied to the market, he said.

"And I believe agriculture is going to stay that way," said Moore, "even though we're going to have some large agribusiness firms that are going to control production of some of our items in this country, probably in the next decade or so."

Ranked 18th

Two years ago, Pennsylvania ranked 19th in total cash receipts. In 1989, cash receipts for the state equalled $3.5 billion, ranking it 18th in the country.

In the Mid-Atlantic region, Pennsylvania ranked 40.4 percent (New York was 30.8 percent) for cash receipts in 1989 — clearly the leader in the region.

"Despite the fact that our operations are getting larger, we still do not have any market control by any state or by individual producers," said Moore. "But we do see a lot of change taking place."

Small packers are increasingly becoming larger. According to Moore, a packer considered small today would have been a very large packer 20 years ago.

Packers didn't exist

"Many of our packers didn't exist 20 years ago, like IBP," he said. "Now they are the largest hog slaughterer in the nation. They've been in the hog business less than 10 years."

Moore is concerned about the dangers of a monopoly forming.

"The meat packers, the four that control 70 percent of the beef kill today, say there's absolutely no monopoly taking place in beef kill," he said. "The question is, what happens when those four really get control of all the beef business and decide their philosophy is something different in the future?"

The "captive market" idea, where packers "contract" (own) the cattle before they are slaughtered, is growing. According to Moore, 21 percent of the cattle kill today is from a captive market.

'Oligopoly' forming

Moore is concerned that an "oligolpoly," where a few firms control all the business, is forming in the cattle industry.

"But they operate with the idea that they say they're very competitive," said Moore.

"The automobile business in this country used to be an oligopoly, where you have three large firms that controlled business, and the big decision every year was when is G.M. going to announce a price increase, and how quickly can we follow them?" he said. "That's an oligopoly. And that's probably where we're heading in some phases of agriculture."

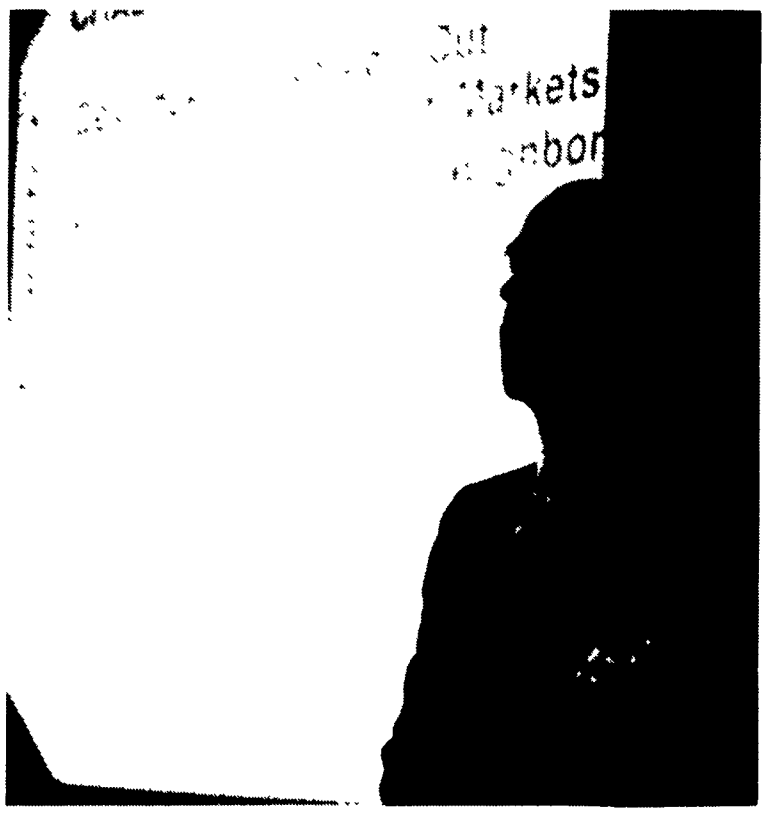
Moore believes that farmers can still survive in this kind of environment provided they "look ahead and not over their shoulder."

Improve relationships

Farmers and ag industry leaders must learn to improve relationships with their customers and learn exactly what the customer wants. Improving this relationship will increase competition and provide for a healthier business environment.

"Any business where you have more firms than you really need, you weed people out and operate on decreased return on capital investment," he said.

In the future, the economist predicts fewer farms, less return on captial investment, more emphasis on debt control, increased emphasis on marketing, and a stronger emphasis on better management. "The best managers are going to survive," he said. "We have to be more efficient than our neighbors. That's what it's all about."



H. Louis Moore, Penn State professor of ag economics, spoke at the PennAg Industries Association annual grain meeting Monday night in Lancaster. In the future, the economist predicts fewer farms, less return on captial investment, more emphasis on debt control, increased emphasis on marketing, and a stronger emphasis on better mangement. "The best managers are going to survive," he said.

David Brubaker, executive vice president of PennAg Industries Association, spoke about his work with nutrient management and the environment at the grain meeting.

John W. Sutton, president of PennAg Industries Association, said the organization has gained membership and is on sound financial ground at their annual grain meeting in Lancaster. He spoke to members about the new PennAg Scholarship Fund and some of the work in helping members cope with new laws regarding their businesses.

PSU Dairy Science Club Sets Fall Classic

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — On Friday, November 2, 1990, the Penn State Dairy Science Club and the Pennsylvania Holstein Association will be holding their annual consignment sale, the Nittany Lion Fall Classic. The Fall Classic functions as an educational tool for Dairy Science Club members and provides a good market for quality Holstein cattle. Students gain firsthand experience selecting, evaluating, and merchandising dairy cattle. Club members learn about animal and arena preparation, publicity, and the financial aspects of a consignment sale. Last year 55 lots were sold, averaging $1,638.

This year's sale committee chairmen include: Bill Curley, Montrose, Overall Chairman; Tom Wiker, Holtwood, Assistant Overall; Bob Mowry, Roaring Spring, and Duane Stoltzfus, Morgantown, Selections Chairpersons; Vinton Smith, Greenville, Animal Preparation; Jodie Everly, Slippery Rock, Reception; Annie Rynd, Mercer, and Terri Packard, Troy. Arena Preparation Chairpersons; Karen Fessler, Robesonia, Publicity; Marge Shearer, Port Royal, Advertising, and Mike Countryman, Berlin, Finance.

The Selection Committee, consisting of 10-15 Club members, is beginning to visit farms and select animals. They plan to select approximately 60-70 springing heifers and young cows due to calf from October through December. In addition, a select group of top pedigreed calves will be sold. If you are interested in consigning an animal, please call the PHA office, (814) 234-0364, and ask for Bill Curley or Jeff Harding. The Penn State Dairy Science Club and the Pennsylvania Holstein Association appreciate your support.

Hafer Endorses Program

occasion to present some of her own political beliefs.

"Farmers need a fair share," Hafer said. "They pay a lot of taxes because they are large property owners. And they don't ask for very much in comparison to the constituents across the state. So they should have what they want. They are not the most vocal, but they are the key to the way we live in Pennsylvania. Under my administration, they will have a voice and a friend. And I think they feel that, and that I have a lot of support from them," Hafer said.

"An elected official is elected to do the right thing. It has to be a common-sense approach. We need to co-exist — industry, farming, and the environment. I have never talked to a farmer who did not want what they do to be environmentally sound. But they want to co-exist and make a living."

"We need an advocacy in state government to speak for the farmer and reinforce what the farmer is doing right," Hafer said.

After participants in the ag breakfast covered issues such as farmland preservation, ag research, FFA funding, the milk board budget, overregulation, wetlands, and cheap food policies, Hafer said the views expressed had reinforced what her farm advisors have said.

"There needs to be a commitment to agriculture in state government," Hafer said. "And there needs to be an ag secretary who is a hands-on farmer and has the ear of the governor."

When asked if the present ag secretary who is a former dairy farmer isn't such a person, Hafer said, "I am not criticizing the current ag secretary. But there is no commitment from the governor to make agriculture a first priority. What makes farming the top government priority is because farming effects everyone in the state."

"Elections are traditionally close in Pennsylvania and the opposition will say we can't do it," Hafer said. "But Bill Scranton lost by 80,000 votes while I won by 37,000 votes. That's the story of my life, I've beaten every incumbent I have run against. I'm a consertative Republican that is able to galvanize the Republican vote and have Democratic cross-over. That's the way Republicans get elected in Pennsylvania."

Chuck Groff explains the farm operation to Barbara Hafer, Garth Becker and Ken Rutt.

When asked what issues other than farming she would stress in her campaign, Hafer said the abortion issue was emotiona' but that there were many other issues that needed to be discussed.

"My campaign focus will be to educate people on what has happened in the budget," Hafer said. "The fact is that the tremendous surplusses are gone and that we now are in a deficit position that continues to grow. I'm a fiscal conservative and I think people will respond to that."

Don Robinson, adult education instructor in eastern Lancaster County, told Hafer that farmers were the only business people who buy retail and sell wholesale. He said that government has a cheap food policy and that some things are blamed on farmers that aren't their fault.

"Agriculture needs a friend in the governor's house, that's what we promise," Hafer said.

Barbara Hafer fields a question.

For Barbara Hafer's group that visited the Robert Groff farm, Mike Brubaker explained the pilot program to turn lawn grass clippings into farm fertilizer.

PYFA Summer Convention Almost Here

ALTOONA (Blair Co.) — Young Farmer members from across the state should begin to make plans for July 20 and 21, 1990, as the PYFA Summer Convention convenes here.

Blair County chapters have been busy planning educational tours, entertainment, and fellowship activities. Convention headquarters in the Ramada Hotel (formerly Sheraton Altoona).

Convention registration materials are being mailed to all PYFA members in the near future. The registration deadline for June 30 should include registration fees, tour selection, banquet count, and convention souvenir T-shirt orders. PYFA volleyball team entries are also due.

A summary of fees includes: 2 days- $22/person; 1 day - $16/person; children under 10 free; T-shirts $10 each; late registration, 2 days - $25/person; and late registration, 1 day - $18/person.

Fees pay for convention costs, banquet, entertainment, barbecue and bus charges.

Twenty-two tour stops are planned. Convention-goers may see Central Pennsylvania's paper industry, ag chemical industry, PPG auto glass manufacturer, Young's Mineral plant, Butterick pattern plant, the rail industry, construction sites, and some of the state's finest dairy operations in action.

Entertainment will feature "The Vicksburgs," a well-known musical act.

For more information on tours and convention registration, contact William C. Harshman, vo-ag teacher, (814) 684-4932 (office) or (814) 684-1639 (home).

Centre County Manure Management Tour

CENTRE HALL (Center Co.) — Farmers looking for ideas for manure handling will have a chance to look at the way five Centre County dairymen do things during a tour on June 26, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

The tour is conducted by Penn State Cooperative Extension, Centre County Conservation District, and the Soil Conservation Service. At each farm, an explanation of the system used will be followed by group discussion and questions.

The schedule will be as follows:

10:00 a.m. George and Ron Zimmerman Farm, Bellefonte.

11:00 a.m. Bruce and Dan Ulmer Farm, Bellefonte.

1:00 p.m. Ralph and Doug Rimmey Farm, Centre Hall.

2:00 p.m. Ronald and Allen Ishler Farm, Spring Mills.

3:00 p.m. Norman Wenrick Farm, Aaronsburg.

Attendees can go to any of the five farms on the tour but are asked to go only at the scheduled times. No lunch is provided, and there is no fee for the tour.

For more information on the tour, contact the Centre County Extension Office at 814-355-4897.

also presented a session called Ike the Farmer, focusing on the former President's farming techniques. Eisenhower owned the farm from 1950 until his death in 1969. He was one of the first farmers to grow milo in southcentral Pennsylvania, and worked close with the Soil Conservation Service and Pennsylvania State University on such techniques as soil testing, contour strips and crop rotation. According to the National Park Service, Eisenhower's goal was to leave the farm better than he had found it by increasing the soil fertility and crop yields.

Most of the classes were held under huge shade trees, with participants seated on hay bales within sight of the Eisenhower farm house. The site was open for tourism as usual during the Field Day, with tourists invited to join the sessions.

Common Sense Approach to Ag Chemicals

One class of particular interest to farmer and non-farmer alike was Responsible Use of Chemicals on the Farm--A Common Sense Approach to Agricultural Chemicals. Speaker Paul Craig, Pennsylvania State University Extension Agent in Dauphin County, said that while the nation in general is becoming increasingly aware of the condition of the environment, there is a lot of confusion concerning farm chemicals.

"There are stories on the TV, radio and newspapers all the time about pesticide contamination and the health risks," he said. "Agriculture is getting a black eye. People don't want to believe the government, but they will believe some movie star," he said concerning pesticide contamination.

"We need to be talking about the benefits of agriculture," he admonished farmers. "We need to convince others we're doing a good job."

Farmers also must conscientiously do a good job. "The number one complaint about pesticides is drift," Craig said. "Farmers must recognize this, or they may be forced to alter their application."

"Look at your operation from an outsider's viewpoint," he advised. "Farmers must present a professional attitude and image. You are just as professional as a doctor, lawyer or judge. Start at home. Pay attention to proper disposal and proper application (of agricultural chemicals)."

In dollars and cents, agriculture is the largest industry in America. "But," Craig said, "only 2 percent of the population is actively involved in farming. That's 98 to 2 when it comes down to voting. We need to educate the non-farming public about agriculture. It must be based on science, not emotion."

Benefits of Modern Ag

Craig listed the benefits of modern agriculture as:

1. Our health is better now than it has ever been. Life expectancy is 77 years. "It would be 85 years without cigarettes," he said.

2. Comfort. "Our standard of living is the envy of the world."

3. Quality of the food supply. "There is no spoiled food in the stores, and we're not dying of pesticide poisoning."

4. The quantity of food is sufficient. "We're not standing in lines at the supermarket. We have a wide choice of foods."

5. The cost is reasonable. "Americans spend less than 12 percent of their disposable income for food, far less than in many other countries."

"The public has the misconception that 'organic' is safe and 'manmade' is unsafe," Craig continued. He cited the many naturally occurring carcinogens such as solamine in potatoes and aflatoxin in peanut butter.

Another misconception is that "any chemical that is harmful in any amount no matter how great is harmful in every quantity no matter how little. We all need salt, but two handfuls of salt would kill you," he said. "It's the dose that makes the poison," he stressed. "Ag chemicals are poisonous -- they have to be to do the job -- but used correctly, they are safe. Unless we promote agriculture and emphasize the good, there are people who are going to set the agenda for us."

The stately Eisenhower home overlooks well-manicured fields.

Grazing and Fencing

Tom Calvert of the Soil Conservation Service spoke to farmers about pasture management.

The best pasture to start with is bluegrass and white clover, he said, because it will survive in spite of the user, and livestock prefer it. Ideal pasture height is 6-7 inches for cows and 3-4 inches for sheep. Cows can be put out to pasture before the 6-7 inch stage is reached, however, to get them used to the change in feed. "Two hours after the morning milking and one and a half hours after the evening milking is when the major grazing is done," Calvert said.

"You need maximum forage and concentrated intake to maintain the level of production for cows, beef and sheep," he said.

"Between the first and the fifteenth of May, every stalk of every perennial should have been on the ground, and either baled, put in the silo or left to rot," he continued. "Then we'd be ready (now) to harvest a crop that's worth something. I don't want to try to make average hay."

Calvert explained that grazing and fencing go together. "Any kind of pasture management will improve your production. You must learn the relationship of plants and animals. Control the grazing animal so that the pasture is allowed to be a crop. No acreage is too expensive to allow a ruminant to graze it if you're going to feed it from that acreage."

"What we perceive as weeds depends on where you're coming from," Calvert continued. "Johnson grass is becoming a preferred grass for grazing in the South."

Calvert has 26 paddocks on 13 acres for his 80 brood ewes and their lambs. "The more paddocks you have, the easier it is to manage, and the fewer paddocks you have, the harder it is to manage," he said. The grass must be the right height and have the right fertility, and the right number of animals must be allowed to graze. "It's a daily thing," he concluded.

Hay Harvesting Equipment-- Then and Now

Ford-New Holland presented a session on hay harvesting equipment. Joe Weicksel, Ford-New Holland's Product Hay Tools Manager, gave farmers a brief history of hay making machinery. Ford-New Holland representatives then gave a demonstration of their baler, rake and automatic bale wagon.

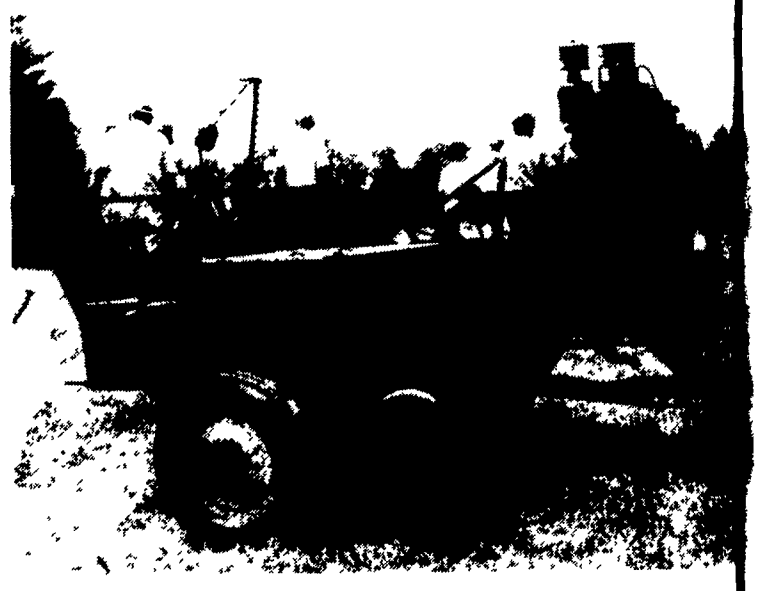
This Cockshutt Blackhawk 40 was given to Mr. Eisenhower in 1955 by the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Cooperative. It was restored by Floyd Miller of York.



New Holland Machine sold 30,000 of these Model 66 balers in one year in the early 1950s.

Dauphin County Extension Agent Paul Craig gave a presentation on the Common Sense Approach to Agricultural Chemicals.

Hal Greenlee of the National Park Service explains the exclosure to farmers. This fenced-in area keeps deer out of a small piece of the corn field. The difference between the fenced area and the rest of the field is dramatic by September. The farmer who crops the Eisenhower acreage loses $5,000-$10,000 a year because of the deer problem.

THIS WEEK

-Two assistant home economists have been appointed to the Lancaster County Extension office on a temporary basis, it was announced this week.

Working during the summer months with Mrs. Norma DeLellis, associated home economist, will be Mrs. Lucille H. Baldwin, Frenchtown, N.J. and Mrs. Barbara A. Hiestand.

-Fallout shelters are the only practical defense in the event of an atomic bomb attack, members of the Manor young farmers were told at their regular meeting in the Penn Manor High School on Tuesday evening.

County Sheriff, Harry Meyers, director of the civil defense in the city and county along with Max J. Stierstorfer, administrative officer of CD headquarters presented a program of slides and pictures showing the expected destruction and possible consequences of a nuclear attack.

-Two famous Pennsylvania Holstein cattle have produced a bull calf that recently sold for $10,000, the highest price paid for a Holstein at public auction since 1957.

The calf, Penstate Pathfinder Ivanhoe, was born to Penstate Inka Pathfinder Star, State University cow whose record of over 1.000 pounds of butterfat for six consecutive years leads the nation.

-The Garden Spot Community 4-H Club meeting at the home of Elaine and Nancy Stoltzfus, Ronks R1, last week decided to invited another club in the county to their August meeting.

On the program were demonstrations on tractor safety by Daniel Denlinger, 2351 Horseshoe Road and on the care of handling eggs by the hostesses.

-Lancaster County farmers are invited to inspect winter wheat varieties on the farm of Ralph D. Brenneman, of Washington Boro R1, on Tuesday evening, June 28, County Agent M. M. Smith announced this week.

-The basic minimum price support rate for 1960-crop wheat in Lancaster County will be 1.99 a bushel, Landis G. Becker of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office announced today.

-The 22 members of the Conestoga Valley 4-H Senior Sewing Club are engaged in making outfits for summer and fall wear.

At their recent meeting in the Conestoga Valley High School home economics room, the club selected the following junior leaders: Elsianne Hess, 1749 Old Philadelphia Pike; Jean Landis, 1227 Hobson Road; karen Mosebach, 2066 New Holland Pike; Ellen Overgaard and Esther Overgaard, both of Lancaster R4; Joyce Denlinger, 602 Enfield Road, and Lois Ann Overgaard of Lancaster R4.

Cooperative Leaders To Address PAFC Summer Institute

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Three leaders in Northeast agricultural cooperatives will address the theme of the 1990 PAFC/Penn State Summer Youth Institute, "Cooperatives in the 90's: Meeting the Challenge". This will occur at the opening session of the Institute on Monday, June 25, 1990 at Shippensburg University.

The three leaders include: Ms. Margaret J. Hill, director of member relations for Agway, Inc., Clyde E. Rutherford, chairman and president of Dairylea Cooperative, Inc. and Gene L. Swackhamer, president of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore.

In her current position, Ms. Hill is responsible for directing membership programs for the 99,000 farmer members of Agway as well as heading Agway securities sales programs. She joined Agway in 1955 after graduating from Cornell University with a degree in economics. She has held numerous positions in Agway prior to her current position, including director of corporate marketing and director of planning and market development, Agri-Services Group.

An active dairy farmer, Rutherford has served on the Dairylea board of directors since 1973. He was elected chairman and president of the board in 1978, a position he continues to hold today. His 500 acre farm in Otsego County, New York State received the "Dairy of Distinction" Award. Rutherford is very active in state, regional and national dairy and agricultural activities. He is a member of the executive committee of the National Milk Producers Federation and has served as chairman of the National Commission on Dairy Policy. He serves as chairman of the Dairy Cooperative Coordinating Committee of the Northeast as well as the Northeastern Farm Policy Council. A recognized leader in the cooperative world, Mr. Rutherford belongs to numerous agricultural cooperatives.

As President of the Baltimore Farm Credit Bank, Swackhamer is responsible for the lending and service operations in the states of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia as well as Puerto Rico. His positions prior to joining the Farm Credit Bank include Deputy Governor of the Office of Finance and Research for the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D.C. from 1975-77 and Director of Research for the same organization from 1970-75. Swackhamer's formal education includes a B.S. degree from Perdue University, an M.S. Degree from Cornell University and a Ph.D. degree from Purdue. A native of Frankfort, Indiana, Swackhamer grew up on a corn and hog farm and was active in youth programs such as FFA and 4-H.

The Summer Youth Institute, sponsored jointly by the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives and Penn State University, provides in-depth information to 120 youth participants about the cooperative way of doing business. The 31 member cooperatives of PAFC represent thousands of persons involved in agriculture and rural life across the Northeast.

Permanent Row Middles Prevent Erosion

ROBERT E. LEIBY and
DAVID L. DUNBAR
Lehigh County Cooperative
Extension Office

Row middle management in Pennsylvania orchards has traditionally fallen into three broad categories: (1) clean cultivation; (2) trashy cultivation; and (3) planting a permanent cover crop.

The first two are no longer recommended because they tend to destroy soil structure by increasing soil compaction and erosion. They also create an ideal seedbed for the establishment of broadleaved perennial and annual weeds, which serve as a reservoir for viruses.

Permanent row middles prevent soil erosion, reduce surface water runoff, increase water inflitration into the soil, maintain soil organic matter content, conserve plant nutrients, and facilitate the movement of equipment during wet weather. Healthy grass row middles can also prevent the establishment of weeds that harbor diseases or insects.

Grass covers used in row middles tend to grow rapidly and require frequent mowing. Perennial ryegrass, K-31 tall fescue, and clover are covers traditionally grown in Pennsylvania orchards.

However, a number of newly developed turfgrasses have been found to perform well as slow-growing cover crops. Because they grow more slowly, these new grasses require fewer mowings.

They tolerate low-fertility soils, poor growing conditions, and heavy traffic, and they grow densely enough to crowd out weeds. Since 1983, Penn State researchers have been evaluating these grasses, primarily for use in ornamental nurseries.

Based on this research and from observations made around the state, we recommend the following five species for use in orchards:

- Hard fescue - Reliant, Waldina, Biljart, Aurora, Scaldis, SR-3000.
- Chewings fescue - Jamestown, Shadow (or other turf types).
- Creeping red fescue - Ensylva.
- Perennial ryegrass - Elka (or other turf type).
- Canada bluegrass - Reubens.

Each species may contain acceptable varieties. New cultivars regularly become available — check with your local supplier. There are also turf-type tall fescue cultivars that grow much more slowly and are easier to mow than K-31.

Using these grasses successfully depends on proper establishment practices. Failure to follow the steps below may result in a cover that is too sparse to be effective.

- Eliminate perennial weeds before planting. During their establishment phase, slow-growing grasses do not compete well with perennial weeds.
- Have soil tested and amended according to crop needs. Apply 20 to 40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre when the cover is being established.
- Thoroughly work the soil before seeding. Any broadcast machine will do. If you use a grain drill, disconnect the hoses from the seed box. Do not cover the seed with soil.
- Seed the grass at a rate of 20 to 60 pounds per acre. The higher rates will produce a cover faster.
- The best time to seed is late August to late September. The next best time is mid-March to early May. If planted in spring, slow-growing grasses will not compete well with weeds the first growing season.
- Limit weed competition the year of planting by mowing weeds before they reach 10 inches tall. Timely applications of 2,4-D will prevent broadleaved weeds from becoming established.

Other comments:

- To remain effective, turf-type perennial ryegrasses need two applications of nitrogen each year at 40 pounds per acre. All others need an application of nitrogen only once a year or every other year.
- Canada bluegrass has done well only when planted by itself. It tends to "brown out" in summer, but even when brown it limits the invasion of weeds.
- Chewings fescue and creeping red fescue grow taller than hard fescues and mat down more, but they seem to establish faster.
- Nurse crops are not generally recommended for companion seeding because they restrict the establishment of desirable grass. In sites prone to erosion, however, annual ryegrass may be added at no more than five pounds per acre.
- Seed is more expensive than that of common orchard-cover crops. Current prices are between $1.30 and $2.30 per pound, or $26 and $138 per acre.

Pesticide Applicator Training

Commercial, public and private applicators of pesticides (including farmers) will be able to earn two category 11 credits and two category 15 credits at an applicator training meeting to be held from 1:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 21, 1990 at the Greystone Building, Gracedale, Nazareth. The training will be conducted by Dr. Stan Green, Penn State extension entomologist. Phone (215) 746-1970 to request more information and to make your reservations.

Twilight Meeting For Wheat Growers

Dr. Elwood Hatley, Penn State extension agronomist, will discuss wheat management, including variety selection and pest control, at a field meeting, 6:30 p.m., Thursday, June 28 at the David Lovett Farm near Neffs. Producers will see a demonstration plot designed to help evaluate Batan, a new seed treatment.

Phil Staudt, a regional pesticide inspector for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, will present an update on the new pesticide law. Pesticide applicators will be able to earn recertification credits (bring your license).

Phone (215) 391-9840 to request directions to the Lovett Farm.

Ag Progress Days

Mark your calendar. This year's edition of Ag Progress Days will be held Tuesday through Thursday, August 14-16, 1990. This annual event attracts tens of thousands of visitors to Penn State's 1,500-acre Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rock Springs. The Research Center is nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45. Admission and parking are free.

The theme will be "Food and Environmental Quality: Preparing for the 21st Century." Activities will include tours, demonstrations, exhibits, and opportunities to ask questions of College of Agriculture experts.

NUMBER ONE IN RESEARCH

AP-3023
Big Yields On Lighter Soils.
This fast-growing Group III variety combines drought adaptability with very good Phytophthora tolerance. For maximum yield and stress tolerance. This high-performance variety does well with no-till practices, and we recommend planting at moderate populations in 30-inch rows. AP-3023 has a very good resistance to shattering, protecting your yield when harvest is slightly delayed.

AP-4321
Short, Stout and Bred to Yield.
You can expect big yields when you plant this high profit early Group IV variety on your better soils It adapts very well to narrow-row planting and responds strongly to fertility AP-4321 produces excellent yields without lodging. It's an excellent companion to popular AP-350

AP-350
The Soybean The Others Would Love to Beat!
This proven performer is the benchmark early Group IV variety.
Maturity is 4 days later than Williams 82, and 1 day later than AP-4321. It produces consistently high yields and has excellent resistance to Phytophthora root rot. AP-350 does well even on wider rows and adapts to a wide variety of soil conditions and management practices workers. A full 25 thought it would be very beneficial," explained Christine Williams, ag teacher at Tulpehocken. Only three answered that ag education would not be beneficial.

A total of 38 found ag important in the school curriculum with only 1 respondent saying ag is not important in the schools.

According to Williams the response to the survey was good. "We sent out 40 surveys in mid September of 1989. We got 19 of those surveys back. We sent a second mailing in mid January of 1990. Of the 60 surveys we sent in the second mailing we received 32 back. That's a 50% rate of return which is excellent," Williams explained.

While names were not required on the survey, respondents were asked to describe their business. "We had a very good representation of businesses. There were 16 in production agriculture, 18 in Ag supplies and service, 9 in ag mechanics, and 10 in ag processing," Williams said. There were also 4 surveys returned from horticulture businesses, 3 from forestry and wood product sources, 2 from natural resources and conservation, 9 from financial businesses and 15 from other sources, such as farm publications, Vets and auctioneers for example.

If the survey is any indication, Berks Countians can expect most of the employment openings to be in agribusiness rather than in production agriculture in the next couple of years. "Production agriculture is employing small numbers of people and that is expected to remain constant in 1992. Those in agriculture other than production expect to see a growth in the labor force by 1992 in the full-time work force," Williams said.

According to Williams there were some surprises in the survey results. "We were surprised when dairy production only placed 9th in the survey. Berks County and the Tulpehocken area is known for its dairy farms and we would have expected it to place higher."

Poultry Safety, Livestock, Soil Conservation, Tractor and Implements, and Tool Use, all placed above dairy production on the survey. Water management and conservation tied with dairy production for the 9th place position. There were 38 possible topic areas to choose from.

Another surprise involved the bottom placement of aquaculture. "This is supposed to be one of the trends in agriculture. The results of the survey may indicate that people aren't as familiar with this concept as others. We aren't teaching aquaculture at the present time but we will be keeping an eye on the trends," Williams said.

Another surprise was the low number of businesses that predicted a need for college educated employees. "Thirty-seven of the respondents said they felt a high school education was either important or very important for the people they employ. Only 12 felt that a college education was important. The general feeling seems to be that high school graduates can work their way up into positions of more responsibilities," Williams explained.

According to Williams, the agriculture curriculum at Tulpehocken High School is presently being reviewed. While there were no enrollment figures available for next year, administrative concerns have been expressed over enrollment numbers.

Barry Kellner, who teaches agriculture and general science at the school, reported there were 27 students taking 2 or 3 periods of ag, 16 in small gas engines, 9 in the horticulture electives and 23 in general science during the 1989-90 school term.

"We will be using the survey information in revising the curriculum. We hope to take out any duplications in the curriculum and offer a science credit in the future," Williams said.

Tulpehocken students are already exposed to a number of the top rated activities. A list of 1990 activities includes: 9 students practicing record keeping in the Berks Co. Project Book Contest with three first place books. Seven students took part in public speaking competition. Four students spent a day studying the cooperative form of business at the Blue Mountain Coop Council Institute. Three students were honored for their salesmanship abilities. Tulpehocken also had the top Farm Management team at the Berks Co. Spring Contest.

Computer training is another important area on the business survey. Students at Tulpehocken, like Patrick McFarland, have a chance to work at the programs two computers.

The tour group walks to the test plots on the John Zimmerman farm.

Bob Anderson, Lancaster County Agent, demonstrates the new quick nitrate testing equipment.

Test Plots Visited

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.)—Nearly 200 farmers, educators and chemical applicators and representatives participated in the annual Ciba-Geigy/FMC tour that left the park on three school buses. Because the fields were muddy from a two to three inch rain the preceding night, additional people were able to attend. The tour was held Tuesday morning and repeated in the afternoon.

"When we saw how wet the fields were, we decided to head for New Holland," said one participant.

The fifth such event sponsored by the chemical companies was held in cooperation with the Eastern Lancaster Co. School District Adult Farmer Program and the Lancaster County Extension Service and visited corn, alfalfa and soybean test plots on the John Zimmerman farm located east of Blue Ball.

"Don Robinson, instructor, adult education, said the test plots this year were designed to simulate herbicide damage to the corn or soybean crop.

"These dealers are the front line people who deal with customers that need answers. So we purposely induced herbicide damage so we could show what it looks like. In addition, we used some soybean herbicide to simulate carryover from the previous year into the corn. We can point out the importance to understand label rotation restrictions.

"In addition, when a whole field is treated with no comparison plots, the farmer or dealer may not see the variation we can see with the test plots."

Robinson said the new post emergence corn herbicides that take out hard to control grass problems such as Shattercane, Johnson Grass and Quack Grass are very welcome in eastern Lancaster County. "Since corn is a grass, this is hard to do chemically, Robinson said, " but we have been working on this for a number of years and now it looks good."

Bob Henderson, Lancaster County Agent, demonstrated the quick nitrate check equipment developed by Penn State.

"The big issue seems to be nitrates and chemicals getting into our ground water," Henderson said. "I don't think there is as much threat from the chemicals as many people would have you believe, but nitrates are a real problem."

The new test is done in the field at side dressing time for corn. If additional nitrogen is needed it can be applied on the row. If nitrogen is not needed, the farmer can save a lot of money.

The noon lunch was on the house. Tara Luongo was the hostess for Ciba-Geigy and Steve Fisher was the host for FMC.

farm, he owned 189 acres and farmed two adjoining farms in partnership with their owners. Now, the Eisenhower National Historic Site has 430 acres under special use permits. Eighty-five percent of it is farmed. There are 43 restrictions on farming a national historic site.

According to National Park Ranger Hal Greenlee, the farm's contour strips are laid out as they were when Eisenhower lived here. Wilbur Martin, the leasee farmer, tries to crop the acreage the same way Eisenhower did, but this has become increasingly difficult in recent years.

While the farm has a 90 acre corn base, Martin has only two acres of corn. "The farmer is taking a greater and greater loss every year because of the deer damage," Greenlee said. Two years ago, Martin had a 90 percent loss, when the deer ate his corn crop to the ground. They also eat the heads off the barley crop and damage the spring oats.

According to Greenlee, Pennsylvania State University did a three year study on the deer population of the farm and estimates that there are 1,700 deer on eight square miles. The Pennsylvania Game Commission states that 20 deer per square mile is ideal. The PSU study recommended reducing the deer population 95 percent by having marksmen shoot them.

However, a law passed in 1985 prohibits hunting on the nationally protected land, Greenlee said. When Eisenhower farmed the land, he allowed his Secret Service staff to hunt the deer.

"The National Park Service is going to have to make a tough decision," Greenlee said. "Do we want to turn the farm into one big hayfield? Or do we want to do something about the deer? It is getting more difficult to maintain the farm according to Ike's philosophy."

Greenlee added that the National Park Service is evaluating the PSU study and will have public hearings on the matter.

When Greenlee and his listeners walked out into the two acre corn plot, they noticed fresh deer tracks. Much of the two-inch high corn was already nipped off. Greenlee explained the two exclosures in the field. These small, fenced-in squares keep deer out of that area so that the damage to the rest of the corn can be compared to corn that the deer have not been able to touch.

The automatic bale wagon picks up hay bales and stacks them neatly.

State Dairy Youth Break Records

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State dairy youth are on a roll. 4-H and FFA members broke all the cattle records at the 1988 and 1989 Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show here each fall. And some 3700 farm kids are gearing up this summer to do it again, predicts new show manager Dale Olver.

"We fully expect entries to go over the 1,000 mark," predicts the Penn State dairy extension specialist. The old record of 996 animals was set in 1989.

The 35th Pennsylvania Junior show will be held September 24, opening day of the prestigious Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show at the Farm Show Complex.

Combined entries for the two shows could hit 2500, making All-American Week the biggest dairy happening in the nation.

The giant Eastern show will feature six nationally sanctioned breed shows and four sales during its four-day run September 24 through 27. Sleek purebred cattle are expected from 30 states and Canadian provinces.

One reason for Olver's optimism is the growing popularity of 4-H dairy projects. He notes 5% more members than a year ago are setting their sights for the Harrisburg championships.

FFA participation has held about even, according to Larry Redding, state FFA advisor.

But to get there 4-H members must first win at one of 40 local dairy shows across the state next month, and then score big at a regional show in August, Olver emphasizes. He says only about one fourth the 4-H cattle will qualify for the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show.

Future Farmers qualify their animals at six regional shows, Redding says.

"Everyone's a winner," Olver likes to stress. "Those participating learn something about leadership, teamwork and caring for animals."

The Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show is one of four events that are expected to draw 1400 junior showmen and judges to the 1990 All-American. Also scheduled are the Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest on Monday, September 24, and the Junior Dairyman Contest and Pennsylvania Dairy Judging Forum, Tuesday, September 25.

Additional information and entry blanks for junior events are now available from Charles A. Itle, manager, Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, Farm Show Complex, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408. Or by calling (717) 787-2905.

The Pre-Owned Harvestore® Products warranty. We've taken away your excuse for not owning a Harvestore System.

You've always thought a Harvestore System would enhance the feeding program on your farm. But you've always had an excuse for not owning one. Until now.

Penn Jersey has available excellent specially selected and inspected pre-owned Harvestore structures from which you can choose. Structures built and backed by Penn Jersey, the area's authorized dealer who's been satisfying customers with the knowledge and experience gained from over 25 years in the Harvestore Products business.

And protected by a warranty from A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, the industry leader for over 40 years.

A pre-owned Harvestore System could very well offer more for your money than someone else's new feed storage unit.

Don't you owe it to yourself to check?

The results you may achieve with your Harvestore® System depend primarily upon your management skills and may vary from successful results achieved by others. Any application to a particular farming operation requires the advice of qualified experts and is subject to limitations of good management, weather and other conditions present at the individual location.

"We Eliminated Nearly 14,000 Pounds Of Fluid And Still Got Great Traction."

Bob Kuehl
Glyndon, Minnesota

Bob Kuehl is a row crop farmer in Glyndon, Minnesota. In order to get enough traction from his tractor during plowing, Bob had to add nearly 14,000 pounds of fluid to his bias ply tires. He got better traction, but the added weight increased his fuel consumption, and the time Bob had to spend in the field.

Luckily, his Goodyear retailer suggested that Bob switch one tractor from bias ply tires to Goodyear Dyna Torque farm radials.

That's all it took. Bob was able to eliminate excess fluid and get all of the traction he needed. He was so satisfied with the results, that all of his tractors now do tilling, planting, watering, spraying and harvesting on Goodyear Dyna Torque Radials.

Make your move to Goodyear farm radials. You'll spend less time in the field at lower overall costs than on bias ply rears. Contact your Goodyear farm tire retailer, today.

Learning, Caring, Teaching Doesn't Stop For Extension Volunteer

VAL VANTASSEL
Berks Co.

ROBESONIA (Berks Co.) — Few people combine talent, service, and teaching more effectively than Dorothy Stricker. Dotty has been serving as a volunteer with the home economics division of the Berks County Cooperative Extension for 30 years.

"There aren't as many home economics programs in the county as there used to be. The Pennsylvania State Extension service helps to teach homemaking skills," Stricker explained.

As a homemaker and former farm wife, Dotty has shared many of her skills with adults and youths over the years. The mother of nine children and grandmother of 17, is probably best known for her skills at the sewing machine.

"Years ago extension leaders taught the sewing courses. Then Penn State instituted the masters program. I went to the program and became a sewing and textile master," Dotty said.

Dotty served as a 4-H leader for 23 years. "All my daughters were in 4-H. I've tried to get my granddaughters involved too but school activities take up most of their time."

While she no longer serves as a leader, 4-H still calls on Dotty's expertise. "Now I serve as a clothing judge for the dress revue. I like doing the clothing, but I'm not into the tailoring as much," she explained.

One of Dotty's favorite activities is the Home Economics Camp sponsored each summer by Penn State University. "Women from six counties come to hear from speakers and learn crafts. This year's projects include a doll, textile painting on t-shirts and tole painting," Dotty said.

Dotty has been secretary of the event for eight years and the chairman for two. "Last year I was secretary but the chairman couldn't complete her duties. They asked me to act as chairman as well. I also taught crafts during the camp," she said.

Because of the extensive responsibilities last year the extension gave her a break this year. "They said I could have a rest," Dotty said.

While Dotty won't have to teach this year, she is looking forward to seeing friends and trying new crafts. "Anyone from Berks, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster, York or Lebanon counties is welcome to come to the camp. It's August 21 to 23 at Camp Swatara. It costs just $42." she said.

In recognition of her many contributions, Dotty has been serving on the Family Advisory Board. "There are 20 people on the advisory board. We recently bought another sewing machine for the 4-H club and we also award scholarships to students majoring in home economics in college."

Walking into her sewing room, Dotty took the cover off her pride and joy. "This is my electronic sewing machine. I'm so busy that I don't get as much time to sew as I would like to."

Like many women involved in crafts, Dotty has given away many of the items she has made. Her latest project is homespun napkins folded neatly in stenciled baskets. The napkins will be hostess gifts for Dotty's next trip.

Dotty frequently travels with the Farm Women Society. In January she will be installed as the organization's second vice president. A former Berks County Farm Women president, Dotty is also the chairman of next year's Spring Fling.

"We're already planning for favors. "Our theme is Berks County, Our Heritage. We're going to have 60 stenciled strawberry baskets with plants in them as centerpieces. Then we are going to make these colonial girl dolls to help fill in," Dorothy explained as she displayed the pattern.

Smiling wistfully Dotty said, "I've got the pattern cut out, but I just haven't had time to make the doll yet."

How many dolls does Dotty and the farm women plan on making? "I'm not sure but there will be 100 tables," she said.

Despite the size of the job, things don't seem to overwhelm Dotty. "I use to make all my daughters doll clothes; this shouldn't be much different," she said.

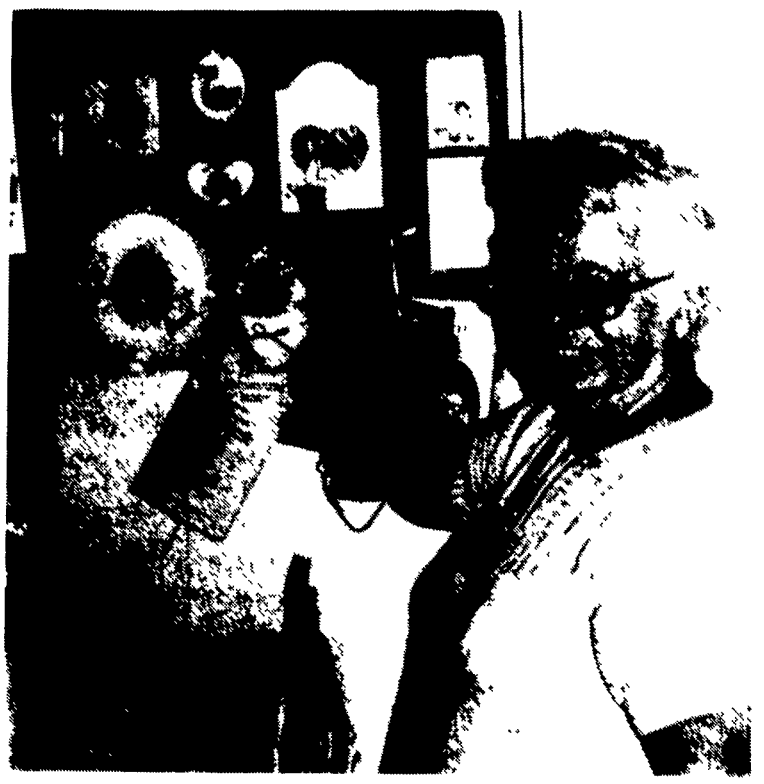
Dotty and her husband Wilbur, sold their operation to farming neighbors three years ago. They settled just inside the borough line of Robesonia. Having farmed for 42 years and milked 30 cows, a longing for the farm could be expected but the Strickers are so busy they don't have time to miss the farm.

"Wilbur had trucked straw, corn and hay to market for 15 years, not only ours but also for the neighbors. After we retired we sold the truck to a young man who hauls milk every other day. The neighbors announced that they didn't want Wilbur to get bored. Now he uses the truck on the off days to take crops to market. And he's working with the road crew cutting grass. He says it's a great job because you get to go out and look at the farms," Dotty said.

Dotty has found some advantages to living in town. She said, "With a field behind us and another in front of us, we still get to enjoy the beauty of the farm."

Another advantage is time to grow the beautiful flowers Dotty enjoys. "On the farm I had so much work and so many flower beds I couldn't always take care of them the way I would like. I'd start out fine but by August the weeds would get away from me."

Stepping out the sliding glass door, Dotty had a chance to show what hard work can do. Pansies dominate a sunny spot on the patio, surrounding a rhododendrom that is a favorite nesting spot for birds. Tobacco plant bloom pink in a black swan planter. Pinks, mums, petunias, and iris line the walk.



Dotty and her husband, Wilbur, have 9 children and 17 grandchildren. Dotty has pictures of each of the grandchildren hung here and there is plenty of space on the bottom for more pictures.

Dotty is quick to point out the tall, green stalks near the corner of the house. "That's my holly hock. They're the Farm Women's flower."

Despite their busy schedule, the Strickers do enjoy relaxing together. "We belong to a card club. We play pinochle and Liverpool with three other couples," Dottie said.

Border Collies Make Sheep Herding Easy

Jack Monsour and his Border collies manage 700 ewes on his 370-acre farm.

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

DUTCH CORNER (Bedford Co.) — "My dogs know more about herding than I could ever learn," says Jack Monsour, one of the largest sheep producers in the state.

With more than 700 ewes, most of them bred, Monsour is confident there is no way his farm could be successful without the use of his well-trained Border collies plus his two Great Pyrenees which he uses for guard dogs.

Monsour's first interest was the dogs. He worked dog trials and won prizes and trophies declaring his expertise. Then he bought a small flock of sheep to aid in training the dogs.

"It was the dogs that began teaching me," he said. "When I realized their amazing potential, I began to think I was wasting my time training them to be in trials. These are working animals. They are as useful to a farmer as a tractor and should be treated with the same kind of respect."

Monsour is quick to agree that, "while the dogs need to be trained and take a lot of work, a lot of what they can do in a sheep pasture comes naturally."

"It takes strong will for a 35-pound Border collie to stare down a 150-pound sheep, but they do it," he says.

During lambing season, the Border collies have a daily routine which they greet with warm enthusiasm. Each morning they accompany their master to the sheep pasture. And, as the sun rises over these green Pennsylvania hills, the dogs help in the search for new lambs.

When one is found, Monsour must cut the tail, castrate the males, and tag the ears. "The dogs make it look easy," he says, as he performs this routine chore.

"However, without them, that mother would be all over the place. She would make the job nearly impossible. The collies keep her under control while I work."

The two Great Pyrenees live with the sheep. "Their primary job is to keep out predators," Monsour explains. "Without them, I lose a lot of lambs to wild dogs or coyotes. With them, I have none of those problems. They also keep the deer out of the pasture. While deer do not threaten the lives of the sheep by attacking, their droppings can cause brain worm. The sad part of it is the Game Commission doesn't seem to realize the disease exists," Monsour says. "The brain worm paralyzes the sheep by getting into the spinal column. It's a horrible death. Thankfully, I haven't seen any deer droppings since I got the Pyrenees."

"Sometimes I feel almost silly telling someone how beneficial a dog is to a sheep farmer," Monsour explains. "It's about as silly as a farmer explaining the benefits of a tractor."

Sold on the Border Collies for herding dogs, Monsour says he will challenge anyone to a match anytime, anywhere. "There are many good herding dogs," he says. "But none can do better than the Border Collie. He presently has five Borders. He is expecting a litter of puppies from one of his best within a few months.

Monsour farms a 370-acre farm. He feeds the sheep with rotational grazing. "It's another theory I strongly believe in," he says. "Grass fed lambs produce leaner meat. And, it cuts the cost of the overhead of raising them."

He and his wife Kathy will sell lamb directly to consumers. In a brochure written by Monsour, he describes his farm as an "organic family operation covering more than 350 acres of lush grassland in Bedford County.

"We use neither chemicals, antibiotics or growth hormones to produce a lean and tender market lamb."

Monsour teaches working stock dog clinics and at least one is held annually each spring which emphasizes all aspects of herding from starting a young dog to the finished product.

He also does working stockdog demonstrations. He uses trained

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Your microwave and grill go together to speed barbecuing time. Microwave chicken or turkey pieces until cooked, then brown them on your grill for perfect flavor.

Precooking in the microwave means a very short grilling time. There's less chance of charring the outside of poultry because the inside is already tender and fully-done. There's also less flare-up during grilling.

I like to grill chicken pieces because they are easier to serve, but quartered or even whole chicken works well, too. My favorite way is to marinate chicken, microwave it in the marinade, use the marinade to brush on chicken as it grills and heat any remaining marinade to serve as sauce.

A marinade adds extra flavor to barbecued poultry. Any combination of seasonings, acid, and often, oil make up a marinade. The seasoning — such as onion, spices and herbs — adds a distinct flavor to grilled poultry. The acid — such as wine, lemon juice, vinegar, beer or buttermilk — also adds distinct flavor. Oil — especially olive oil — helps seal surfaces to keep food juicy.

The marinade/sauce for Midwest Micro-Grilled Chicken has a light barbecue flavor — ideal for poultry. Try it with turkey breast, but add ¼ cup oil. The very lean turkey doesn't dry out during grilling when oil is a part of the marinade. The marinade from Mediterranean Micro-Grilled Turkey Breast could be used with chicken. If so, use only two tablespoons oil and six tablespoons water or fruit juice instead of the ½ cup oil.

I like to use a microwave-safe cooking bag for no-mess marinating and cooking. The cooking bag also holds in moisture and heat well, so food microwaves evenly and quickly. A cooking bag is the same as the big plastic-type bag often used for roasting turkey. Look for cooking bags in your supermarket near plastic food bags and waxed paper. If you can't find cooking bags, I've included directions for precooking in a tightly covered dish.

Chicken pieces microwave well on High because they're small and can be rearranged halfway through cooking. Medium direct heat works well for grilling. High heat or placing the grid too close to coals cooks the chicken too quickly and ends up charring the outside.

I've found that microwaving a turkey breast is best done on a lower power and with liquid. Both the lower power and the liquid slow down cooking so the thick meaty part can cook all the way done. The indirect way of grilling is best for even cooking and to insure doneness without overbrowning. An oven meat thermometer or instant-read thermometer is the best method of judging final doneness.

For the fastest cooking, have your grill preheated or coals ready so the chicken or turkey can go directly from microwave to grill. Brush poultry with the marinade during grilling often to keep it well-flavored and juicy.

Midwest Micro-Grilled Chicken

2½ to 3 pounds broiler-fryer chicken, cut into pieces
½ cup catsup
½ cup water
1 tablespoon packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon thyme leaves
½ teaspoon garlic powder
2 or more dashes hot pepper sauce

Skin chicken, if desired, and place in a microwavable cooking bag in a microwavable 12x8 dish. Or, use microwavable dish without bag. Stir together remaining ingredients and pour over chicken, turning to coat each piece. Close cooking bag or cover dish with plastic wrap. Refrigerate about 4 hours, turning pieces occasionally so all are well-seasoned.

Prepare grill. Re-tie and vent cooking bag so about one-fourth is open. Use the provided plastic tie or a ½-inch strip cut from open end of bag. If using dish alone, vent plastic wrap by turning back about ¼ inch in one corner. Microwave (High) 15 to 18 minutes, turning and rearranging pieces after 7 minutes. (In cooking bag, use pot holders to turn bag over and move pieces around, being careful to keep open and upright.)

Remove chicken and set aside. Pour marinade into a microwavable 1-quart measure and microwave (High) about 3 minutes or until boiling. Place chicken on hot grill. Cook 4 inches from coals (or on medium setting), 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Turn over pieces and brush generously with marinade several times during cooking. Reheat any marinade until boiling and serve with chicken. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Each serving — 1/5th of recipe, made with skinless chicken: 154 calories, 23g protein, 4g fat, 4g carbohydrate, 230mg sodium, 76mg cholesterol.

Mediterranean Micro-Grilled Turkey Breast

5 pound bone-in turkey breast, completely thawed
⅓ cup lemon juice
6 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
4 green onions (including green tops), thinly sliced
2 to 4 cloves garlic, crushed
2 teaspoon dried rosemary
¼ teaspoon black pepper

Place turkey in microwavable cooking bag in a microwavable 12x8-inch dish. Or, use microwavable dish without bag. Stir together remaining ingredients; pour over turkey, spooning mixture over all surfaces. Close cooking bag or cover dish with plastic wrap. Refrigerate 6 to 8 hours, turning turkey occasionally.

Prepare grill so it's hot by the time the turkey is finished microwaving. Use indirect method with drip pan in the corner of coals.

Re-tie and vent bag by closing three-quarters of open end with plastic tie (that comes with bag) or with ½-inch strip cut from open end. Have turkey with meaty side up. If using dish alone, vent plastic wrap by turning back about ¼ inch in one corner. Microwave on Medium (50% power, 325-350 watts) 20 minutes.

Turn turkey and bag over, being careful to keep open end upright, and rotate dish. Continue microwaving on Medium 15 to 20 minutes or until turkey is almost done. If necessary for even cooking, rotate dish several times or turn turkey on its side several times.

Remove turkey and place breast-side up on grill over drip pan. Cover grill and cook 35 to 45 minutes or until meat thermometer registers 170 to 175 degrees in thickest part of turkey. Remove and cover with foil for 15 minutes before serving. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Each serving — ⅛ th of recipe: 167 calories, 26g protein, 6g fat, 0 carbohydrate, 44mg sodium, 55mg cholesterol.

and started dogs as well as pups to give the audience a better understanding of herding dogs and an appreciation of the logical progression from young dog to the finished product.

He is occasionally called to help round up strayed cattle. His most interesting assignment occurred in June 1987 when he used his dogs to round up a herd of wild goats which were residing on a steep cliff near Berryville, Virginia.

The goats had been transported there by the Animal Rights League from the Island of San Clemente to protect them from Navy training guns.

Escaping from their low fence confinement, the goats had found the hillside a delightful hideout. Repeated attempts at herding them by humans had totally failed. It took the Border collies about 30 minutes to complete the job.

His greatest passion next to sheep is soccer and he is the main coach for an 800-member-youth league in Bedford County.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

The face peering over the gate radiates a sense of inner peace, composure and contentment.

Dark eyes glance our way occasionally, as we steadily move milking machines down the double row of cows awaiting their turns to be relieved from the pressure of full udders. And the long, broad muzzle moves in steady rhythm, as K. Bonnie chews the cud from her favorite pasttime -- eating.

K. Bonnie has been a favorite of mine almost since the day more than six years ago when she arrived here. The others also acquired at that friend's herd dispersal are gone. But sturdy, unflappable K. Bonnie persists, long after younger cows have become part of herd history. No doubt it is her calm, laid-back approach to living that has played a significant role in this veteran cow's durability.

A gentle pet, she stands quietly to have her neck scratched and seems to enjoy human companionship. On the other hand, K. Bonnie is no slouch when it comes to having her way at the feed trough. She has few qualms about shoving through a gathering of cows to take her place in the chow line.

While I'd like to think she watches us near the end of evening chores in a spirit of friendship, facts are painful. K. Bonnie knows doggone well she and the other close-to-calving girls will soon get a feeding of grain.

At 13 years of age, K. Bonnie ranks second high in our herd longevity to homebred Pushkin, about to turn 14 in a few weeks. Compared to the national average age of milking cows, these two are true matriarchs.

Pushkin, though, while durable and long-lived, has reached her ripe old age primarily due to aloof stubbornness. She's the "old codger" of the herd, tolerating us, but not condescending to really ever be a buddy. She'd just as soon turn and walk right away from a friendly pat as show any signs of interest.

Still, we have a healthy respect and admiration for Pushkin even with her don't-bother-me attitude. She has continued to give us healthy calves despite her considerable age, and our "Push" family of her daughters and granddaughters has reached the state of confusion, namewise. There's a Pusher, a Pushie, Pushup, Pushover, Pushina, Pushkin II (which we were sure would be her last calf but wasn't) and others. In desperation I named one of the last heifers born into this family Putter, figuring we'd "pushed" this particular family of names about to the limit.

K. Bonnie's female offspring number considerably less than those of "Granny" Pushkin. Her daughter Bonnie is my favorite of last year's two-year-old newcomers to the milking string. Like her dam, Bonnie has a sunny temperament, affection for people and showed real promise to grow into another durable herd foundation mature cow.

She would inevitably be one of the last animals to find her stall when we brought the cows back into the barn for the evening. Instead of entering her own place just a few steps inside the barn's back entrance, Bonnie would, day after day, meander 200 feet clear to the other end of the barn, so she could snitch feed from the box stall troughs. Escorted back, she never hurried, just took her own sweet time strolling through the double lineup of cows, like a monarch surveying the troops. When it was her turn to be milked, she'd turn her muzzle to give an affectionate lick to the head of whoever was milking her.

Bonnie gave us a bad scare last week.

Among the trees flattened by our near-tornado were a couple of wild cherry ones in the pasture fencerow. Wild cherry growth at a particular stage of wilting produces prussic acid, a toxin so deadly to cattle that consumption of only a few leaves can cause death. Bonnie's innate nose for trouble and big appetite apparently found a few of the leaves at the toxic stage. But her inbred strength and durability, and a timely visit by the vet, seem to have pulled her through the crisis.

After that close call, it's a pleasure to watch Bonnie snitch feed again.

Tree Wounds

Tree trunks may be wounded in all sorts of ways; man and his machines are often the culprits. Fortunately, trees have the capacity to "heal", not by growing new bark but by producing callous tissue that seals wounds. The best thing people can do for a bark wound is help the tree help itself. And it's simple to do.

Current advice from the experts is to cut loose bark away... and that's it! In removing loose bark, be careful not to enlarge the wound. If islands of sound bark are in the wounded area, leave them there. There's no need to form special shapes in cutting back the loose bark; just make the margins rounded — no corners or points. And there's no need to paint the area with tree dressings. Some authorities feel that they may actually inhibit the callousing process.

"We made Massey-Ferguson the Western World's biggest tractor company."

Global industry retail sales of tractors rose less than 2% last year. However Massey-Ferguson posted a sales increase of 17%. This gives Massey-Ferguson an even stronger grip on the number one position with nearly one in every five tractors sold worldwide.

Why the increase?

It starts with good products, of course.

But more and more customers are telling us that it's their M-F dealer that really makes their Massey-Ferguson tractors, and NOW combines, best buys.

Like helping you select and find the tractors, combines and implements — new or used — that fit your needs . . . instead of trying to sell you just what's on their lot.

Like giving you top dollar for your trade in. And helping arrange the best financing, lease or rental plan for your needs.

And always being there with prompt, competent parts and service support.

What it really comes down to is a very professional attitude. We want to keep you coming back again and again.

ORANGE DELIGHT DESSERT

1 large package orange flavored gelatin
1 pint cottage cheese
1 large can crushed pineapple, well drained
1 large can mandarin oranges, well drained
8 ounces whipped topping

Stir gelatin and cottage cheese together. Add pineapple and oranges. Fold in whipped topping. Refrigerate two to three hours before serving.

I love making this recipe in the summer. It's quick and easy and very refreshing.

HAM AND CHEESE SOUFFLE SANDWICH

16 slices bread (crust removed)
1 small can sliced mushrooms (drained)
8 slices sharp cheese
6 eggs
8 slices broiled ham
3 cups milk
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup butter (melted)
1 cup crushed Rice Krispies

Put eight slices bread on bottom of well greased 9x13 pan. Top each with ham, cheese, mushrooms. Put another eight slices bread on top. Mix eggs, milk, mustard and pour on top. Refrigerate overnight. Sprinkle with Rice Krispies and pour melted butter on top. Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Let sit 15 minutes before serving. Serves eight.

LASAGNA TOSS

1 pound ground beef
½ cup chopped onion dash minced garlic
½ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups spaghetti sauce
6 ounces spiral noodles cooked, drained
1 cup cottage cheese
2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese grated parmesan cheese

Brown beef with onion, garlic and salt. Stir in spaghetti sauce; simmer until heated. Remove one cup of meat sauce; set aside. Stir noodles into the remaining sauce. Place half of noodle-sauce mixture in greased two-quart casserold. Cover with cottage cheese and one cup mozzarella cheese. Add remaining noodle-sauce mixture; top with one cup of reserved meat sauce and remaining mozzarella cheese. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake at 350° for 20 to 25 minutes. Let stand five minutes before serving. Yield six to eight servings.

My name is Sharon Reiff. I am 10 years old. I ihave two brothers, Timothy, age 6, and Joel, age 3. My parents names are Anna Mae and Earl Reiff. We live on a 40-cow dairy farm. We also raise capons and geese for Thanksgiving and Christmas. We enjoy collecting the recipes from the Lancaster Farming!

SCHMERE KASE

1 pint skim milk
1½ pounds sandwich cheese (skim milk cheese - be sure to use a cheese which does not get stringy. Sandwich cheese is like white American)

Heat milk and cheese slowly together in saucepan until cheese is melted. Place sauce in hot water on medium heat to prevent scorching. Very easy to make, but delicious, spreads easily on crackers.

A short story of our family. We are retired and raised 10 children, eight boys and two girls. We lived on a farm, had about 50 cows, farmed about 300 acres, had a variety of crops and did custom work. Never a dull moment. All our children are married and two boys are on the farms.

My husband and I started a small store selling our own milk and beef. We finally needed a bigger store, so we got our boys interested and built a bigger, regular grocery store (Oregon Dairy) including a cafeteria. The one farm has approximately 250 cows and that milk is processed right in the store and sold (fresh farm milk). The other boy has poultry houses and brings in the eggs. Only six boys are in the business and as one died of a heart attack and his twin brother resigned due to heart problems. Now Mom and Pop work for the boys in the store, as the boys took over farming and the store business. The good Lord has blessed us with good health.

TUNA LASAGNA

16 ounces lasagna noodles
1 cup chopped onions
4 tablespoons margarine
4 6½ -oz. cans of tuna
2 cans cream of celery soup
⅔ cup milk
1 teaspoon dried oregano
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 slices (12 oz.) Mozzarella cheese
16 slices (16 oz.) process American cheese
1 cup Parmesan cheese

Cook lasagna noodles according to package directions; drain. In medium saucepan, cook onion in margarine till tender. Add tuna, celery soup, milk, oregano and pepper. In each of two 12x7x1½ baking dishes, arrange ¼ of the noodles, half the tuna sauce, slices of mozzarella and American cheese. Top with remaining noodles. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake in 350° oven for 30 minutes or heated through. Makes two casseroles, six to eight servings. Delicious served with homebaked rolls and your favorite salad!

My husband, Henry and I have four children, two boys and two girls. A year ago we bought a herd of cows about 1½ miles from our home. Dairy farming certainly is a challenge, and a great learning experience for our family!

QUESTION — Harry Drick, Allenwood, would like a recipe for an Easter egg that was printed in this paper several weeks before Easter. She said it takes crushed pineapple, maraschino cherries, and other ingredients.

QUESTION — Mrs. Gene Jennings, Fallston, Md., would like a recipe for potato filling like that served at Yoder's Steak House in New Holland. She already has three recipes, but none tastes like that.

QUESTION — Jim Barkelew, Frenchtown, N.J., would like to know if and where she can buy real buttermilk.

ANSWER — A reader from East Earl is looking for a recipe to can fruit salad. Thanks to Ruthann Zook, Oley; Lois Bloom, Johnstown; Rhoda Martin, Myerstown; for the following.

Canned Fruit Salad

1 peck ripe peaches
1 peck ripe pears
3 large cans pineapple chunks
2 to 3 pounds grapes
1 large jar maraschino cherries

Prepare light syrup, about ⅓ to ½ cup sugar for each quart of water.

Wash and remove stems of grapes. Drain pineapples. Drain maraschino cherries. Peel pears. Cut into 8 slices. Soak in cold water. Peel peaches, cut into 8 slices.

Pack into jars, layer by layer: pineapples, pears, grapes, 2 or 3 cherries, and peaches.

Fill with syrup. Seal and process each canner load about 20 minutes.

Ruthanne Zook writes, I have canned fruit salad for several years in pint and quart jars. The amounts of fruit can be varied to suit the tastes of your family and the availability of the fruit. I enjoy giving jars of fruit salad as Christmas gifts."

Fruit Salad

1 large can fruit cocktail, do not drain
1 can pineapple chunks, do not drain
1 small can mandarin orange slices, drained
2 large bananas, sliced
1 small box instant lemon pudding and pie filling

Mix fruits before adding pudding. Sprinkle pudding on top. Do not mix in. Refrigerate at least 24 hours before using, so flavors blend and salad has a chance to thicken. The longer it sets, the better it tastes.

ANSWER — Sue Breckbill, Willow Street, wanted the brownie recipe sent in by the Lebanon County Dairy Princess. Thanks to Reba Stauffer of Selinsgrove for sending in the recipe.

Peanut Butter Brownies

2 cups sugar
1 cup flour
½ cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup softened butter
½ cup peanut butter, smooth or crunchy
4 large eggs
¼ cup milk

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a jelly-roll pan. In large bowl, combine sugar, flour, cocoa, and baking powder. In medium-sized bowl, beat together butter and peanut butter until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs and milk. Add peanut butter to flour mixture. Put into pan. Bake 20 to 25 minutes. Cut into 30 squares. Yields 30 brownies.

ANSWER — Grace Barley, Conestoga, wanted a recipe for rock salt cabbage. Thanks to Joan Yarnall, Gilbertsville, who send in a recipe that she received from a Yugoslavian friend.

Rock Salt Cabbage

Have a clean crock or plastic bucket. Clean cabbage. Cut into quarters. Do not core. Pack into layers for every five pounds cabbage, sprinkle with 2 tablespoons rock salt. When all the cabbage is used, cover with boiling water. Put weight on top. Cool. Place crock in cool place for serveral months.

Can also put cabbage in large gallon jars. Add one tablespoon salt and boiling water. Seal.

ANSWER — For those who are watching their sugar intake, Mary Lehman, Pine Grove, sent in this recipe.

Applesauce Cookies

1¾ cups cake flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ cup butter
1 tablespoon Sucaryl solution or 24 tablets, crushed
1 egg
1 cup dietetic applesauce
⅓ cup raisins, optional
1 cup all-bran cereal

Sift together flour, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves and baking soda. Mix butter, Sucaryl and egg until light and fluffy. Add flour mixture and applesauce althenately, mixing well after each addition. Fold in raisins and all-bran. Drop by level tablespoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets, one inch apart. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes or until golden brown.

STRAWBERRY PRETZEL SALAD

¾ cup margarine
3 tablespoons brown sugar
2½ cups pretzels (coarsely crushed)

Combine above and mix well. Pat into lightly buttered 9x13-inch pan. Bake at 350° for 10 minutes.

1 large package strawberry flavored gelatin (6 oz.)
2 cups boiling water
1 cup cold water
3 cups chilled strawberries or slightly thawed frozen strawberries

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and berries.

Cook till mixture begins to set. Mix eight ounces cream cheese, one cup (scant) sugar and one small carton whipped topping. Spread mixture onto cooled pretzel crust. When gelatin mixture begins to set, pour over cream cheese mixture. Refrigerate overnight or until set.

HAM AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

8 ounces noodles (cooked and drained)
2 cups cubed ham
2 cups swiss cheese
¼ cup onion (chopped)
¼ cup green pepper (chopped)
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup sour cream

Mix all together and put in casserole dish. Bake at 350° for 30 to 45 minutes.

One cup of cottage cheese can be used instead of sour cream. Put cottage cheese in blender until smooth.

CREAMY SCALLOPED POTATOES
(From Betty Crocker Cookbook)

1 pound potatoes (about 3 medium)
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk
2 tablespoons onion
1 teaspoon margarine

Heat your two tablespoons margarine in saucepan over low heat until melted. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and bubbly; remove from heat. Stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir one minute. Layer half of the potatoes, all the onion and half the sauce in a greased one-quart casserole. Top with remaining potatoes and sauce. Dot with margarine. Cover and cook 35 minutes. Do not let stand before serving. Serves three.

We're not your typical farm family. I wasn't raised on a farm myself, but always thought it would be neat to have been raised on one. My husband was raised here on the farm and after we were married we built our home on the one corner. He wanted to be here near his first love, farming! That is where you can find him anytime he's not at his regular job. He helps his brothers with all the field work and we help his mother milk most of the time. Our son enjoys gathering the few eggs Granny's three hens lay. And he also likes to help feed the calves even though they're as big as he is and it's not an easy task! We really enjoy rural living and helping out on the farm.

FUDGE

3 cups chocolate chips
1 14-ounce can condensed milk
¼ cup butter

Place ingredients in glass bowl and microwave for 3 minutes. Stir until melted. Stir in 1 cup nuts if desired. Pour into buttered 8x8-inch pan. Refrigerate until set.

Note: condensed milk can be made by combining:
½ cup boiling water
3 tablespoons butter
1½ cup dry milk
½ cup sugar

Mix well. Makes 1 14-ounce can.

ICE CREAM PUDDING

60 Ritz crackers
½ cup margarine, melted
½ gallon vanilla ice cream
2 4-ounce packages instant vanilla pudding
1½ cups milk

Smash crackers; add butter to make crumbs and press into serving dish. Beat together ice cream and milk; add dry pudding mix and beat again until smooth. Pour ice cream mixture into serving dish and chill. Top with whipped cream or crumbs before serving, if desired.

Variation: Make cornstarch pudding and top with peanut butter crumbs made by combining peanut butter and confectioners' sugar until it crumbs.

Is Anything Better Than Summertime Fun?

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Kids across the country greeted the first day of summer on Thursday with cheers and shouts.

School is out, the sun is shining, and there's lots of stuff to do.

To 8-year-old Josh Love, who lives in Lititz, summer means going swimming, chomping on corn-on-the-cob, and slurping on big slices of watermelon. It means riding the Comet at Hershey Park and water rides at Dorney Park.

His brother Gabe, 5, likes Hershey Park, too. But, when it comes to eating, he prefers spagetti, tuna fish, and dinosaur gummies.

Although the brothers, sons of Bob and Doris Love, like to catch fireflies and grasshoppers, Gabe said, "I hate the bugs (mosquitoes) 'cause they always get me."

The boys' cousin Alicia Lee Zaro, 3, from New Jersey, said, "I want to go to a park where there is a swimming pool."

This week, she visited Hershey Park.

She said, "There was a boat called Captain Jack. It was rocking and rocking so much it hurt my stomach."

Even if it hurt, Alicia took two rides and she wants to go back for another one.

Alicia likes to play with her brother, Richie, who is 11 months old. Their parents are Marion and Richard Zaro.

Summertime means trips to the library and reading in the hammock under the old shade tree.

The season means bike rides, fishing in the creek, softball games, building a sandbox village, and climbing in the treehouse.

Alicia prefers a big pool, but, hey, when it's hot, anything will do.

It means hoeing the garden, picking peas, and eating juicy berries.

It means mowing the grass and smelling freshly cut hay.

Summertime means picnics with cousins, chicken on the grill, cooling off with water battles fought with hoses and balloons.

It means running barefoot and getting purple feet from the mulberry trees and maybe even a bee sting.

Summertime brings freckles, sunburns, and itchy poison ivy.

And at the end of a busy day, summer means going to bed at 8:30 while it is still daylight and waking up at 6 o'clock with sunshine streaming through the windows.

Is anything better than summertime?

Write and tells us about your summertime fun. If possible, include a photo. Address your letters to Kids Korner, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

The freedom of summertime — Gabriel Love tries acrobatic stunts.

Dauphin Farm Women Society Gives From Heart, Soul

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — For 35 years, the Dauphin County Society of Farm Women Number 10 has been active in community affairs and charity organizations.

As the 34 members reviewed the heritage of the club that was founded in 1954, Shirley Radel, second vice president, said, "We are proud of an organization that has given from the heart and soul for a community that we believe in."

Some of those things in which they believe include the following:

•Sponsor a "World Vision Child" since 1966.

•Support the local community of Wayne Township by having a well and windows installed at the Community Building.

•Purchase wheel chairs, walkers, portable whirlpool baths for the community shut-ins.

•Support the Heart Association, Lung Association, Cancer Association, and Arthritis Foundation. Donate to the local Girl Scouts, Youth Evangelism Service, Camp Susquehanna, Upper Dauphin Olympics for the Retarded, and the Halifax cheerleaders.

•Annually award savings bonds to two high school graduates.

•Make Easter baskets, Valentine baskets, and lap robes and visit residents at retirement homes.

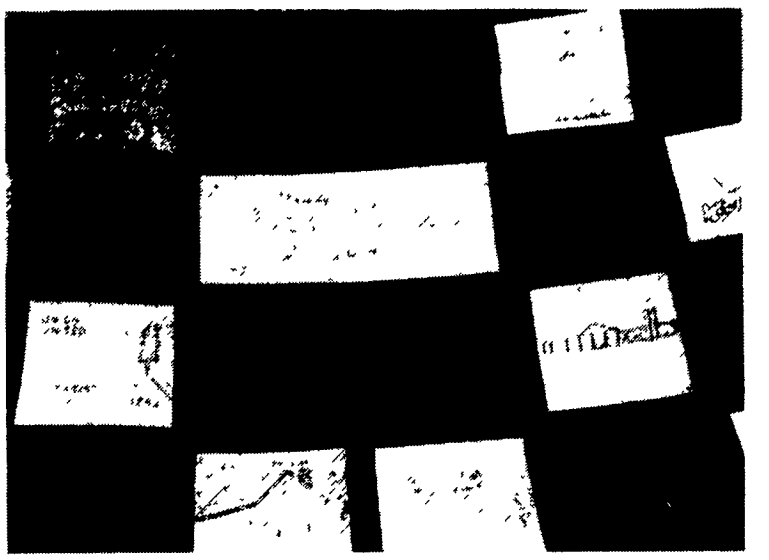
•The society has won blue and red ribbons for displays at Gratz Fair.

•Contributed money for the county ag center, sponsored educational and cultural bus trips, held fund raisers and published three volumes of cookbooks. The cookbooks can be purchased for $5 by calling 362-9354.

A member remarked, "We have done so many small things that we don't even think to mention such things as holding a kitchen and food shower for fire victims.

Shirley Shoop, Betty Ramberger, and Sara Miller are members of the Dauphin County Society of Farm Women Number 10.



In 1977, members embroidered patches that depicted a part of life.

Lancaster Society 25

Seventeen members of Lancaster Farm Women Society #25 attended the June 9 meeting at the home of Edna Gerlach.

Devotion were by Beatrice Newswanger.

Roll call was answered by naming color of shoe worn.

Some members reported they had helped at Conestoga View bingo game on May 17.

There will be no meeting in July.

Each member had brought several gifts which were given as prizes when bingo was played by everyone.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Reafsome, with Mrs. Katherine Daveler as co-hostess.

Hill Wins Lebanon Dairy Princess Pageant, Competes In National Dairy Bowl

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co) — There were no losers when Terry Hill, 17, was crowned Lebanon County Dairy Princess June 16 at the Lebanon County Vo-Tech School. All three contestants for the title were named dairy princesses.

It was the first time Lebanon dairy promotion officials chose two alternative dairy princesses. Alternates perform a number of promotional functions, filling in when commitments prevent the county princess from being present at an event.

Some other counties have already gone to a three-princess system, because of the number of concurrent events.

In addition to the crowning of princesses, 6-year-old Katie Lentz was selected as Little Miss Lebanon County Dairy Princess from a field of five contestants. Little miss dairy princesses assist dairy princesses during some promotions, especially at school activities.

The foursome — including alternates Dianne Dice, 20, and Stephanie Wagner, 15 — will spend about two-thirds of the next year serving dairy foods, buying dairy items for patrons of certain super markets, making speeches and attending banquets.

But for Hill, the schedule is even more complex. Not only is she scheduled to compete for the state dairy princess pageant this fall, but she is one of the four-member state dairy bowl team. They are to be competing in national competitions in North Carolina today through Thursday.

Hill accepted the crown during an emotional ceremony. It started with a farewell speech by outgoing princess Kynel Bomgardner.

After giving the goodbye speech, she fought back tears while she acknowledged those who had helped her tackle 100 promotional events during the past year. Then Bomgardner played piano and sang a duet with her mother, "To God Be The Glory." Some in the audience, apparently touched by the song and the moment, began to sob slightly during the song.

Then, with the naming of Hill as the 1990 princess, Bomgardner turned over the reign of Lebanon dairy promotion.

Bomgardner's tears of sadness were mixed with Hill tears of joy.

Hill, daughter of James and Bernice Hill, Lebanon RD 6, has accomplished a number of feats in the three years since her family moved from a 95-acre Sussex County, New Jersey, dairy farm to their present 120-acre Holstein and Brown Swiss operation in the northern part of Lebanon County.

Newcomers to the Lebanon area frequently complain about always being considered an "outsider," even after they have lived in the area for more than 25 years.

However, the reception Hill has received does not reflect a closed community that shuns outsiders.

"It was hard getting used to not having my friends, but I adjusted quickly to Lebanon County, so I got over it. But I do miss the friends that I do have in New Jersey," she said.

A recent graduate from Northern Lebanon High School, Hill's almost immediate involvement with 4-H and FFA upon moving to Lebanon helped pave the way for her acceptance into the community.

A self-proclaimed lack of confidence caused her to turn down the opportunity to compete for the dairy princess title last year. Officials had asked her to be a contestant.

"Last year I didn't have the confidence in myself and this year, through public speaking class and various activities, I've learned to promote the dairy industry, the life I love," she said during the pageant.

"Last year I wasn't really prepared to enter a contest. I was scared. I didn't think I'd be able to get up in front of a group and perform a skit," she said. "Also I wanted to wait until I was out of high school so I could devote more of my time to the promotions," Hill said.

During the pageant, her inhibitions were completely conquered until . . . "they were about to announce who won."

Hill said that's when she started to get excited and nervous.

But Hill's success in overcoming shyness of groups and fear of public speaking didn't just come from her straightfoward attacking the problem through getting additional education. She did have friends with experience in the public arena.

1988 state Dairy Princess Rebecca Sonnen is a teammate of Hill's on the state dairy bowl team. Through that activity, with the weekly practices and some other agricultural-based activities, Hill and Sonnen began talking.

"Knowing Becky has helped a lot becaue she is always positive about anything she does and she is someone to look up to," Hill said.

"Whenever I had any questions about promotions or preparing for the contest, I knew I could turn to her," she said. "We're becoming close friends through the dairy bowl. I've gotten to know her very well."

Part of the dairy princess competitions in Lebanon is giving a public response to a question. All contestants got the same question: "If you were president of the United States, what would be your first act and why?"

Elvin Gingrich was master of ceremonies and asked each contestant the question twice.

Hill said she would direct efforts toward feeding the nation's starving and homeless. She said that a country that attempts to help world starvation by donating food oversees and can produce such large amounts of surplus food, purchased by the government, should not have starvation at home.

The other two girls' answers focused on the farm bill, education and the dairy industry. Hill said she didn't think that, as president, the current interest of one segment of the nation should override the needs of the whole nation.

"I felt that it would sort of be self-centered to just go with my occupation. I feel there are many occupations and problems in the world and we could feed the starving with what is our surplus."

Hill said she tries to stay aware of current affairs mainly through reading newspapers.

She said her focus on America's starving eminated from a high school class.

"We had a debate on it in our English speaking class. I was one of the two people who did a debate on homeless or starving."

Self-centeredness is apparently not part of Hill's makeup, nor her reason for getting involved in the dairy princess program. She said she did it for the opportunity to help the dairy industry and to better herself.

Some segments of society have criticized pageants such as the Miss America event.

1989 Lebanon County Dairy Princess Kynel Bomgardner places the 1990 crown on Terry Hill.

Hill said there is a big difference between those types of pageants and the type in which a representative is selected to promote an agricultural commodity or livestock breed.

"I think it's mostly judged on your personality and interests. It's not judged on beauty," she said, then laughed.

The competitors for the 1990 title were mutually supportive. They know each other outside of being involved in the pageant.

"I know Stephanie a little more, because she was in the dairy contests I was in. She is a member of the junior dairy bowl team and she would go to the same competitions," Hill said. "I know Dianne through our FFA chapter."

Hill works full time on the family farm doing the morning feeding and maintainence of the 55 milking cows and almost a like number of calves and heifers. She also keeps records of the breeding program.

With much of the next year being devoted to road trips and entire days and evenings promoting dairy products, Hill said someone will have to be found to fill in for her absence at the farm.

A National Honor Society member in high school, Hill said she is not stopping her education. She is scheduled to attend, as a parttime student, the Lebanon branch of Harrisburg Area Community College which is opening soon. She plans to study computer applications and speech communications this semester.

Her future is still undecided. She said that while she milks cows she often thinks about what she is going to do, where she is headed.

"I feel that the embryo transplant and the genetic field might be an area that I might like to enter," she said.

In the meantime, she said whatever she eventually decides, she's certain it will be in agriculture.

Stephanie Wagner, dressed as a heifer calf, tells a story of looking for her mother and describes her mother through dairy terms.

Kynel Bomgardner places the crown onto Katie Lentz, 1990 Little Miss Lebanon County Dairy Princess. Outgoing Little Miss, Alicia Mase, looks on.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Recently, my husband and I attended a meeting of a local historical society. The subject for the evening was "Powwowing: A Pennsylvania German Tradition." It was interesting to listen to the young speaker present the unique beliefs and customs of the Pennsylvania Germans.

Actually, it took me back many years to my youth whem my mother would tell of a neighbor who did powwowing for an eye ailment. My mother also told me that she had to wear a small cloth bag around her neck to ward off disease. It contained asafetida which is a gum resin with a heavy offensive smell. Of course, she hated to wear the bag to school, but, in those days, you obeyed your parent without asking a lot of questions.

At the meeting we were told that no fee was asked for these services but a donation was expected. People had much more faith and belief in witches in those days. They also believed that there were good witches and bad witches. And, they felt that a hex could be put on a person and cause them to fall ill.

Pennsylvania Dutch powwowing was a matter of prayers, blessings and rituals. The power to perform these cures could only be passed from one generation to the next by switching genders each generation. Often an amulet or charm would be worn to guard against evil or disease.

Some odd practices were used on me when I was a baby such as putting me through a horse collar and around a table leg to keep me from being "liver grown," whatever that is. Actually it seems to me to be much like superstition. You had to have faith that such doings would control good over evil.

It is fascinating to delve into folklore even if many of the notions are not supported by fact.

Schaefferstown Cherry Fair

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (LEBANON CO.) — If it's cherry, Schaefferstown has got it on June 23 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. That's the date for the Cherry Fair in the historical Lebanon County town where raffled prizes include a cherry quilt, cherry wood schoolhouse clock, and cherry wood chest of drawers.

Indulge in eating hand-churned cherry ice cream, cherry pie, cherry cookies, cherry jam, cherry custard, cherry cake, cherry fritters, cherry dumplings, cherry streusel, cherry angel food cake, and cherry bread or buy cherries by the pound and make your own recipe while you drink cherry cider.

Happy Dutch music will be provided by the Holt twins and Tony T while craftspersons display their wares along Village Square with its 200-year-old buildings. Prizes to men and women will be given to winners in the "Sit and Spit" and "Sit and Pit" contests.

Admission and parking free to the fair located at Routes 501 and 897 junction. Phone (717) 272-8555.

Fisher's Painting is a contracting business that has done all types of spray and brush painting over the years. More recently we have opened two paint outlet stores where we sell full lines of paint, roof and block wall coatings, ladders, etc., at discount prices.

The first store was opened in 1984 East of Intercourse On Rt. 772 and the second opened in April of this year. We are prepared to serve contractors, schools, farmers etc., because of our large inventory (1000's of gallons in stock). Brand names include Glidden, Fineran & Haley, Dutch Standard and Olympic. We want to thank all of our customers for their patronage over the years and a special "thanks" for the response we have gotten in selling the paint to you out of our stores.

As a result of opening the first store and the confidence our customers have instilled in us, we invite you to come join our Grand Opening Celebration which we will have at both stores June 21 through June 30. We will have 10% to 20% OFF of our already low prices and Free Gifts for all paying customers... COME JOIN US!

Bedford County Chooses 20th Princess

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

LOYSBURG (Bedford Co.)—Nicole Marie Childers of Hopewell will reign as the 20th princess over the dairy industry of Bedford County.

The pageant was held on Friday evening, June 15, in the Northern Bedford High School auditorium.

A student at Penn State University majoring in agri business, Nicole is the daughter of Phillip and Rose Childers and a graduate of Northern Bedford County High School.

While not a farmer's daughter, Nicole says she would love to live on a dairy farm and has two Holstein cows of her own. They reside on the Russell Wyles farm near Woodbury.

First runner-up in the pageant was Linette Perrin, daughter of Ronald and Beverly Perrin of Saxton. A student at Allegany Community College in Cumberland, MD, Linette works on her family's 500-acre farm where they have a herd of 143 Holsteins and are milking 125.

Second runner-up was Julie Truax, daughter of Glenda Truax of Everett. Julie milks 70 Red and Whites and lives on a 50-acre farm. She is also an active horsewoman.

Christina Ickes, a 16 year old from Osterburg, was chosen as Miss Congeniality. Christina's parents, Allen and Kay Ickes farm 700 acres.

This year for the first time, a dairy maid was chosen to serve Bedford County in promoting the dairy industry. Amy Mearkle of Everett, the daughter of Lawrence and Marjorie Mearkle, had this honor bestowed upon her. At 14, she says she is already looking forward to being in a forthcoming dairy princess pageant.

Jennifer Veach, outgoing princess, noted that she had held 51 school promotions, 5 farm meetings, 21 store promotions, and 38 special events in the past year. She made 46 radio spots and wrote 18 newspaper articles. During her reign, she traveled 4,200 miles.

Emcee was William Popovich of Bedford Farm Bureau who asked each contestant the question, "In the United States today, there is a fitness craze. What would you tell all of those involved in this program who reach for a diet soda instead of a glass of milk?"

"I would tell them to choose white, light yogurt and cottage cheese," Nicole Childers answered quickly.

Nicole's skit involved a young woman involved in fitness who was searching for the perfect drink.

The stage set with hay bales and an assortment of cleverly dressed stuffed cows was designed by Denise Browell.

Peggy Henry was chairman of the pageant. Others on the committee include Betty Yothers, Janice Kennedy, Donna O'Neal, Elaine Veach, and Denise Browell.

Following the event, a pie and ice cream social was held in the school cafeteria.

4-H Fashion Revue

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The public is invited to attend the Chester County 4-H Clothing and Textiles Clubs' annual Fashion Revue on Tuesday, July 10, at the Unionville Middle School. Although members' activities begin at 2:00 p.m., the actual Fashion Show will begin at 6:00 p.m. The theme this year is "Serge Into the 90's."

County winners are eligible to complete in the Regional 4-H Fashion Revue at Moravian College in Bethlehem on July 24. Winners of the Regional competition at Penn State on August 7.

Farming Claims More Lives, More Injuries Than Any Other Occupation: Never Think 'It Can't Happen To Me'

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KIRKWOOD (Lancaster Co.) — Long hours, overwork, and dangerous equipment are often cited as reasons that an estimated 1,600 agricultural workers will die this year and another 170,000 will be injured from work-related accidents.

"Farmers should never think, even for a second, that 'It can't happen to me,'" said Bill Deeds of Pennsylvania Farmer Association Insurance. "It can."

Every day, Deeds reviews claims of tragic farm accidents.

He is concerned that more isn't being done to educate farmers on accident prevention.

On the other side, a hospital spokesperson said, "Farmers know how to work safely, but choose not to."

He tells the story of the farmer who operates a grain elevator. The farmer said, "I know when the machinery stalls, I should turn it off before I work on it, but I also know that nine times out of 10, I can give it a kick and it will start up again. There is, of course, the possibility that my foot might get caught in the machinery and it will take my leg off."

This farmer, like many others, finds wasted time frustrating. They take shortcuts, especially when tired or overworked.

But many farmers are well aware that they are part of the most dangerous occupation in the U.S. They are careful to do every thing possible to prevent accidents. Unfortunately, being careful isn't always enough.

It wasn't enough for Harold Herr, who always has considered himself a safety-conscious farmer. Although his accident happened 18 years ago, it is important to know his story. It shows the necessity of being cautious and it shows the courage of one man who refused to give up farming because it had claimed both his legs.

After his legs were amputated from a corn picking accident, Harold Herr found a lawn mower as his best mode of transportation.

Harold and Bonnie Herr stand in front of the stone wall that Harold built after his accident.

In 1972, the day after Thanksgiving, Herr was using a new corn picker that kept developing one problem after another. Aware that many corn picker accidents happened from farmers trying to untangle the stalks while the equipment was running, Herr was careful not to make the same error. When the machine developed mechanical problems, Herr stopped it, inspected the PTO, but could not locate the problem.

He decided to run the tractor at an idle speed and engage the PTO so that he could watch what was happening. He was careful not to touch it. The divider points were in a raised position and when Herr walked up to locate the problems, he did not touch it. Unfortunately when he leaned forward to get a better look, the machinery caught his coveralls and pulled his knee into the machine.

"My knee was wedged between the chain and activated the slip clutch that stopped the mechanism."

Herr realized the danger, but he was not scared. "At that point, I had a second chance — but I flubbed up," Herr admits.

In retrospect, Herr believes that he should have poked the pipe wrench that he held in his hand into the back of the gathering chain at the spocket so that the mechanism could not start again. Instead he tried to put the tractor out of gear by hitting it with a pipe wretch. He couldn't.

Frustrated by his helplessness, Herr decided to give his knee a quick yank to free himself from the mechanism. He did.

But instead of freeing him, the act loosened things for the machine and it began motion. In a split second, the mechanism pulled in Herr's one leg followed by his second leg.

Herr tried not to examine the mangled mess, but he was relieved to see that the rolls had grinded and chewed his flesh so that the blood coagulated; otherwise, he could have bled to death within minutes.

A resourceful guy, Herr considered his options. His wife was not home. His sons and hired men were at another farm doing the evening milking. He was alone. No help within calling distance, no hope for a passerby on the secluded farmland.

"I never considered giving up farming," he said. "I just found new ways of doing things."

"I had worked that field for many years and I knew that days would pass and all I ever see were turkey buzzards and an occasional airplane," Herr said.

He had one option — a simple prayer. "Please send help," he pleaded.

Herr believes that it was at that moment that a boy who had been babysitting the neighbors children told his mom, "I'm going to take a walk through the woods and look for deer."

That walk brought the boy within hearing range of Herr's call of distress.

The boy stopped the tractor then ran to telephone the emergency squad and a local machine shop to bring a cutting torch to get him out.

"I'm a pretty cool cat," Herr said. "I remained conscious the whole time."

While most people in traumatic accidents struggle through a time of questioning and anger, Herr said he never had a problem with accepting that both legs needed to be amputated above his knee.

"I believe in a higher power that controls all things," he explained. "I don't think God pushed me into that corn picker, but I do believe in the permissive will of God. If he permits it, you can make the best of it."

While recuperating during a four-week stay in the hospital, Herr figured out ways to make the best of his situation.

"I never considered giving up farming," he said. "I just found new ways of doing things."

He ordered a three-wheeler, which he assembled himself but found after he tried it that it didn't meet his needs because "It would go like the dickens or it wouldn't go at all."

He found a small eight-horsepowered lawnmower with hydraulic controls met his needs better.

On this, he can do such activities as hoe the vegetable garden and travel from farm to farm.

His first night home from the hospital, Herr crawled up and down the stair steps. "I wanted to see what I could do," Herr said.

For those who suffer permanent disabilities, Herr is a reservoir of strength and hope. For 18 years, he has proved that losing one's legs doesn't prevent one from leading a productive, happy life.

Herr disdains artificial limbs that "slow me down, get tangled in things, and are like a stone tied to someone who is trying to swim."

Through trial and error, he found that hopping on and off a wheelchair to a riding lawn mower, which he has adapted for his use, is his best mode of transportation. When he wants to move from one to the other or if he wants to drive the field tractor, Herr uses his strong arms to propel him from place to place. "I crawl over my tractor, up ladders, and over roofs like a monkey," he said.

"My brains aren't in my feet," Herr said. "I don't consider myself handicapped in comparison to others."

He can do about everything but milk on the 325 acres that he and his son, Karl, farm in Kirkwood.

Herr puts in 12-hour days by doing does most of the field work while his son milks 80 Red and White Holsteins, and cares for the young stock and 20 feeder steers. Herr has planted a tree grove, built a stone wall, and put on a barn roof.

This is one in a series of articles on farm safety.

Give Herr a tractor, and he can do as much work as any farmer who still has his limbs.

COOKING FOR ONE OR TWO

If you cook for only one or two, you have plenty of company. Statistics show that more than one-half the households in the United States consist of one or two persons.

The one and two-person household is not the stereotypical widow or elderly couple. Singles and two-person households include both men and women, young and old and with various levels of income.

For many singles, the solution is to grab a burger at a local fast food restaurant, pop a TV dinner into the oven, or cook one big meal and eat leftovers the remainder of the week. While these approaches are fine occasionally, a steady diet of such foods can be expensive, boring and not good for you.

Cooking for one to two is not difficult, and may offer some advantages not open to larger families. With only yourself and perhaps one other person to please, you have more freedom to experiment with new foods, flavors and recipes. Eating schedules can be more flexible when you do not have to consider several other people in the household. Many times you can afford to treat yourself to what you considered a luxury when you were feeding a family.

In the supermarket, small cans and packages generally cost more per unit. However, a family-sized package is no bargain if it goes stale before it's used up. Singles and twosomes can use some family-sized food items to their advantage.

For instance, buy regular sizes of bread, rolls, and pastries and keep them in the freezer. Remove the amount needed for one meal. The large poly bags of some frozen fruits and vegetables allow the use of small quantities of ingredients at a time. Other marketing trends, like selling turkey parts or small boneless rolled roasts of turkey, ham, and pork offer an advantage to those who live alone.

Buy several cookbooks for one or two, and clip recipes from newspapers and magazines designed for one or two. Don't be afraid to speak up when packages of meat, cheese, and produce are in large sizes. Ask the grocer to repackage what you need into smaller portions.

Huntingdon County Holds Pageant

ALEXANDRIA (Huntingdon Co.) — In keeping with a tradition set over 30 years ago, Huntingdon County crowned a new dairy princess at the annual pageant. On Saturday, June 16 Amy Jo Hawn of Petersburg accepted the title and crown from last year's reigning Dairy Princess Susan Hess. Hawn, a 17-year-old who attends Juniata Valley High School, said since she enjoyed working with the past dairy princess, she decided to run this year. "I like to meet new people and to promote farm products," she said.

As a dairy representative, Hawn will be attending seminars and a training program, will participate in store and school promotions, and will attend farm and non-farm meetings.

In September, Amy Jo travels to the Marriott in Harrisburg for the State Dairy Princess Pageant. Here the judges interview contestants individually. Participants will then present an original skit designed to promote dairy products. Without giving any secrets away, Amy Jo would only say that her skit for the state pageant is taking "Real" planning.

Amy's present ag-related activities include Blue Juniata FFA Chapter member, secretary of the parliamentary team, president of County-Wide Dairy 4-H Club, county council representative and news reporter for the Cedar Creek 4-H Club, Dairy Bowl team member, junior member of the Holstein-Friesian Association, secretary of the Junior Holstein Association and member of the Executive Board of the Junior Holstein Association. After high school, Amy plans to attend Delaware Valley College majoring in Dairy Production.

Alternate Mary Anderson, daughter of Harvey and Elizabeth Anderson of Spruce Creek, is a 16-year-old at Juniata Valley High school. Active in FFA, the parliamentary procedure team, and the livestock judging team, Mary also works part time on her aunt's dairy farm.

Amy Jo Hawn, daughter of Danny and Deb Hawn, was crowned at the Huntingdon County Holstein Club picnic. Master of Ceremonies for the event was Wayne Harpster, president of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Former Dairy Princess Susan Hess, when asked her favorite activity during the past year answered, "When I played 'Win, Lose, or Draw' with Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture at the Nittany Mall in State College!"

National Dairy Judging Winner Crowned Frederick County Dairy Princess

EVA J. MARTIN
Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, Md.— The Frederick County 4-H Camp Center was decorated with antique dairy memorabilia and flowering baskets for the 29th Dairy Princess Contest.

Four contestants participated: Stacey Guyton, 18, daughter of Wilmer and Joann Guyton, Jefferson; Crystal Smith, 17, daughter of O. Clayton and Shirley Smith, Jefferson; Vivian Stottlemyer, 18, daughter of Franklin and Elizabeth Stottlemyer, Rocky Ridge; and Laurie Zimmerman, 17, daughter of Kenneth and Shirley Zimmerman, Frederick.

Each of the girls introduced their parents to the audience then told of their dairy background and about their farm responsibilities. To help the girls prepare for an important part of their role as dairy princess, they selected the name of a farm-related organization and gave a simulated milk toast to that organization.

Earlier, each contestant had an interview with judges John and Martha Morris, long time friends of the dairy industry, and Marlin Martin, Maryland Holstein President. They were questioned concerning their knowledge of the dairy industry and how they would deal with the public in promoting dairy products.

While the judges deliberated, Lester Dedrow led the audience in a dairy "Wheel of Knowledge" game. The wheel contained categories such as cows, milk, cheese, sour cream, ice cream, yogurt, butter and milk. At the spin of the wheel by Holly Burrall, standing in for Vanna White, a contestant had to answer a question in the category the arrow stopped at. A dairy product gift was given to each person who participated.

In her farewell speech, Marcia Summers, the 1989 Dairy Princess, said the highlights of her year were giving puppet shows at schools and participating in the Holstein Futurity at the Maryland State Fair.

Lynn Ausherman, emcee for the evening, announced the results of the contest: Stacey Guyton, the new 1990 Frederick County Dairy Princess; Vivian Stottlemyer, Alternate Princess; and Crystal Smith and Laurie Zimmerman as Dairy Maids.

Stacey graduated in June from Brunswick High School as valedictorian and plans to major in dairy science at Virginia Tech this fall. She was Frederick County's 1989 Farm Bureau Queen and the first runner-up in the state competition. A 4-H member for 10 years, she has participated in various dairy projects and public speaking. She has excelled to the National 4-H Dairy judging team and will be going to Europe to compete this summer. She enjoys showing her six cows and two heifers at various Holstein and Guernsey shows.

Frederick County Dairy Princess Stacey Guyton accepts a gift from Marcia Summers, 1989 Maryland Dairy Princess.

Mercer County To Hold Pageant

On Thursday, June 28, Mercer County Dairy Princess, Wendy Pfaff, will relinquish her title to one of three contestants at the Mercer County Dairy Princess Pageant.

Heidi Minner, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Minner of New Wilmington, will be a senior at West Middlesex High School in the fall. She works with the family herd of Holsteins and shows her own animals in 4-H shows.

Onalee Smith, the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith of Greenville, is a senior at Edinboro University where she is majoring in criminal justice. She is currently employed part time at Bi-Lo Foods. Her family's 200-acre dairy farm consists of 75 Holsteins.

Jennifer Thompson, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson of Pulaski, will be a senior at West Middlesex High School this fall. Her family's farm is comprised of 260 acres and 45 Holsteins of which she owns six.

A special feature of this year's pageant held at the county extension center, will be a Parade of Future Princesses. Any girl between the ages of five and nine who lives on a dairy farm or whose father is in a dairy related field is urged to participate.

Please call Elaine Hill at (412) 376-3802 to register for the Cow-Tail Hour at 7 p.m., and dinner at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $6.

Noel King, York Springs, joined the Adams County Extension as 4-H assistant for the Summer. Funding is provided by the 4-H Clubs of Adams County, Inc. through the Adams County Extension Association.

Senate Bill Introduced To Create Equity On Farm

BRADSHAW, NE — Elaine Stuhr, president, Women Involved in Farm Economics (WIFE), is pleased to acknowledge that Senator Nancy Kassebaum, R-KS, has introduced an important piece of legislation S.2585 "The Farm Spouse Fairness and Equity Act" on May 8, 1990. The act will provide farm program benefit fairness to married couples, when both the husband and the wife contribute active personal management or labor to the operation.

The farm wife will have to meet the same criteria as any other adult participant to be eligible for farm program payments. As long as they meet these standards, they should be treated the same according to Senator Kassebaum. This is a companion bill to H.R. 2973 introduced July 21, 1989 by Representative Ron Marlenee (R-M) with twelve bipartisan co-sponsors.

"WIFE feels the present law discriminates against the wife who works side-by-side with her husband in the daily operation of the farm. It denies them the 'person status' that others, including relatives, can currently qualify for in regard to farm program payments," says Stuhr.

WIFE, a national grassroots farm organization, filed a lawsuit in June 1987 against the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) regulation (Section 7.C.F.R. 795.11) which states a husband and wife will be considered as one person in determining crop payment limitations. U.S. District Court, District of Columbia ruled in favor of WIFE and ordered USDA to comply. USDA appealed the decision and the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled in favor of USDA in June 1989. WIFE appealed the judgment to the U.S. Supreme Court and in January 1990, they declined to hear the case.

WIFE members are working to include the farm spouse fairness and equity provision in the 1990 Farm Bill. The new farm bill will be a major topic as WIFE holds their eighth annual Government Affairs Seminar and Legislative Issues Breakfast in Washington, D.C. on June 10-13.

Blair County Crowns Dairy Princess

LAKEMONT (Blair Co.) — Kristin Metzker's presentation on "Dairy: It's Diet and Delicious," won her the 1990 Blair County Dairy Princess crown.

The 17-year-old daughter of Jay and Debbie Metzker helps her parents on their Cove-Valley Holstein Farm. On their 110-acre farm, they milk 84 cows and raise 81 young stock.

Kristin is employed part time at WPRR FM of Altoona. She will be a senior enrolled in both college prep and agricultural education at Central High School. She participates in FFA prepared public speaking contests, is president of Morrisons Cove 4-H Dairy Club, shows at Junior All-American, participates at Cove-Valley Wonder's Wish and writes a column for the Morrison's Cove Herald.

Named alternate for the county is Tracy Smith, 17, daughter of Bernie and Cindy Smith, Roaring Spring. She works on her family's 300-acre Smith-Mar farm with its 200 cows.

Also, a senior at CHS, she is active in ski club, softball, varsity, and treasurer for Morrison's Cove 4-H Dairy Club.

Judges were Paul Corbin, former chairman of the PA Dairy Promotion; Heidi O'Neil, 1986-87 Bedford Co. Dairy Princess; Adena Harteis, Ebensburg dairy farm wife.

Entertainment was provided by Blair County Revival Barbershop Quartet.

HAMBURGER STROGANOFF

2 pounds ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup sliced mushrooms, drained (optional)
2 cans cream of chicken soup (10½ oz. size)
1½ cups sour cream
8 ounces ½ -inch wide noodles, cooked and drained

Cook and stir ground beef and onion in a Dutch oven or large pan until meat is brown and onions tender. Spoon off excess fat. Stir in salt and pepper, mushrooms and soup. Heat to boil. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered for 10 minutes. Gradually stir in the sour cream and noodles, heat thoroughly, but don't boil. It's ready to serve.

We're dairy farmers here in northern Pennsylvania. We live in Tioga County and have two children. We milk an average of 40 Holsteins and do all the farm work as a family. Derek is 11 and helps milk the cows morning and night. Stefanie is seven and helps with easy chores like tending calves and rabbits. I also work off the farm at my own beauty shop besides driving tractor and feeding calves. This recipe is used a lot on our farm as it's easy and makes enough for two meals — and it keeps well on the stove if we don't get to eat on time — which as most farmers, is often.

CHEESE CAKE

Crust — mix together 1½ cups graham cracker crumbs and one stick melted margarine or butter. Line springform pan.

1½ pound cream cheese
¾ cup sugar

Add:
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Beat together until smooth. Pour into crumb crust. Bake at 325° for 35 to 45 minutes.

Topping:
1 pint sour cream
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Stir together until sugar dissolves. Bake for 10 more minutes at 325°. Cool for six hours.

BLUEBERRY CHEESE DELIGHT

Mix these three ingredients:
2 cups sugar
2 envelopes gelatin
½ teaspoon salt

Beat three egg yolks and add 5 cups milk. Cook with first mixture until it boils, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Beat in three 8-oz. packs cream cheese. Chill. Add six cups whipped topping.

Line bowls with a graham crust. Add filling and top with blueberry pie filling. This recipe makes at least four medium bowls.

I often use this recipe when I have company, plus it's my husband's favorite dessert.

SAUSAGE-POTATO QUICHE

3 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 cups shredded raw potato

Combine oil and potatoes for a "pie crust" and press inside 9-inch pie dish. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes or until lightly browned.

Sprinkle over hot crust:
1 cup sausage, browned and drained
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
½ cup chopped onions

Combine and pour over sausage mixture:
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup evaporated milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon MSG, optional

Sprinkle over top:
1 tablespoon parsley flakes

Return to oven and bake at 400 degrees for 35 minutes more or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

1¼ cups boiling water
1 cup quick oatmeal
½ cup butter
1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1⅓ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Pour the boiling water over the oatmeal. Add the butter and let stand 20 minutes. Add the white and brown sugar and eggs. Sift the flour, baking soda, and cinnamon. Bake at 350 degrees in a 9x13-inch cake pan for 25 to 30 minutes. Spread on the topping and bake again for 15 minutes. Let cool before cutting.

Topping:
1 cup coconut
½ cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup butter
½ cup nuts

Melt the butter and add the sugars and milk. Add the nuts and coconut. Spread on cake.

1 12-oz. carton creamed cottage cheese
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
¼ to ½ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs, beaten
4 cups real shredded mozzarella cheese

Cook noodles to desired doneness. Add a lilttle oil (corn or vegetable) to noodles when you cook and they will not stick together, then rinse with hot water.

Brown meat and onion in saucepan; drain. Add remaining meat sauce. Simmer 30 minutes. In a small bowl combine cheese mixture. Stir until well blended.

Heat oven to 350°. In ungreased 13x9 in baking dish, layer ⅓ of noodles, ⅓ of meat sauce, ⅓ of cheese mixture and 1 cup mozzarella cheese; repeat layers and end with mozzarella on top. Bake at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes. Let stand 10 to 15 minutes before serving. Serves eight.

"Our family includes my husband, Jay, and two sons, Christopher, 7and Kyle 1½ . We live on a dairy farm in Bucky County. We took over the dairy operation six years ago. We have approximately 34 milking cows. Crops we grow include corn, hay, wheat and soybeans. We hope you will enjoy this recipe. It's one of our favorite winter meals. We all enjoy this recipe if it is made the day before and sets overnight."

CHEESY BEEF & BROCCOLI LOAF

Mix together:
2 pounds ground chuck
½ cup bread crumbs
1 medium onion chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon BBQ sauce
¾ cup milk

Place in 9x12 pan and pat out flat. Put 20 oz. cooked and drained broccoli down the center of meat. Bring the sides of meat around vegetable to form a loaf. Bake at 350° for one hour. Put hot cheese sauce on top before serving.

CHEESE SAUCE

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Cook over low heat stirring until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Remove from heat, stir in milk, return to heat. Add cheese, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce. Heat to boiling stirring constantly. Serves eight. Preparation time 30 minutes.

ZIPPY BAKED CARROTS

6 cups sliced ¼ -inch carrots
6 slices Swiss cheese (divided)
Sauce:
1 small onion
4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
2 cups milk
Topping:
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter (melted)
5 slices bacon, fried and crumbled.

Blanch carrots until tender. Layer half of carrots in 2 qt. dish (shallow). Cover with half the cheese. Repeat layers. To make sauce: saute onion in butter two minutes; blend flour and seasoning. Stir and cook one minute, add milk all at once. Cook until thick. Pour sauce over carrot-cheese layers. Combine crumbs and butter, put on top. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Serves eight.

CLASSIC CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

2¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup butter, softened
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package (3½ ounces) vanilla instant pudding
2 eggs
1 12-ounce package semisweet chocolate chips
1 cup chopped walnuts, optional

Combine flour and baking soda; set aside. Combine butter, sugar, vanilla and pudding mix in large mixer bowl; beat until smooth and creamy. Beat in eggs; gradually add flour mixture. Stir in chocolate chips and nuts (batter will be stiff). Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls, about 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 375 degrees for 9 to 10 minutes. Yields: 4½ dozen cookies.

Ummmm.... Of all the before milking snacks, these chocolate chip cookies are our favorite! And, of course, a glass of fresh cold milk must also be included! We are dairy farmers with three small children, Mary Beth, 5; Lou Ann, 2½ ; and Daryl Lyn, 10 months. The best part of dairying is working together as a family. Hope you enjoy the cookies!

CHEESEBURGER PIE

1 pound hamburger
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup grated cheese
¾ cup Bisquick baking mix
¾ cup chopped onions
¼ teaspoons pepper
1½ cups milk
3 eggs

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Lightly grease 9-inch pie pan. Fry hamburger and onions until beef is browned. Drain grease. Stir in salt and pepper. Spread in pie pan and sprinkle with cheese.

Beat eggs, milk, and Bisquick. Mix together until smooth. Pour over meat and cheese. Bake until golden brown or until knife inserted into center comes out clean, approximately 30 minutes. Let set 5 minutes before serving.

DEEP DISH TACO SQUARES

1 pound ground beef
1 cup dairy sour cream
⅓ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 cups Bisquick baking mix
½ cup cold water
2 to 3 medium tomatoes, thinly sliced
1 cup chopped green peppers
1 package Taco seasoning mix
Few drops of red hot sauce, optional

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Grease square baking dish.

Fry and stir ground beef until brown, drain. Mix sour cream, mayonnaise, cheese and onion, reserve.

Mix baking mix and water until soft dough forms. Pat into pan, pressing dough ½ -inch up the sides.

Layer beef, tomatoes, and green peppers in pan. Spoon sour cream mixture over the top.

Sprinkle with paprika, if desired. Bake until edges of dough are light brown, 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

SPRING SANDWICH PUFF

2 pounds fresh mushrooms
4 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons lemon juice
⅔ cup sour cream
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup parsley, chopped
1½ cups Swiss cheese, shredded
½ teaspoon salt

Slice mushrooms through stems into ¼ -inch slices. In a large skillet, saute mushrooms in butter. Cover and cook until juices exude and mushrooms are tender, drain. Sprinkle mushrooms with lemon juice. In a small bowl, mix together sour cream, salt, pepper and flour. Stir into mushrooms, and blend well. Place mixture in 9x12x2-inch casserole. Sprinkle with parsley and shredded Swiss cheese. Cover and refrigerate. When ready to serve, place in preheated 450 degree oven for 10 minutes or longer at lower temperature to heat thoroughly. Serves 8 to 10.

PUMPKIN SOUP

5 cups home canned pumpkin, boiled and mashed
2 cups pumpkin broth
5 tablespoons butter
2 onions, diced
4 cups of milk
1 cup cream
2 teaspoons sugar pinch salt
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup chicken stock

Strain mashed pumpkin through a sieve into a dish. Over medium heat mix pumpkin broth and chicken broth. In a 4-quart saucepan sautee the onions in butter until tender. Add mashed pumpkin, broth, milk, spices, sugar and salt. Stir over medium heat until soup boils. Reduce heat and boil slowly for 20 minutes, stirring continuously. Over low heat add cream, be sure not to boil soup while adding cream. Serve at once. Makes eight to 10 servings.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Future Community Leaders

The award presented at the Union County 4-H Leader's kick-off banquet was for the first place entry into the Northeast Pennsylvania 4-H Local Government Award Program.

The award program was designed to encourage young people to undertake community betterment programs. In the process they will do something positive for their community, learn how local government functions, and learn and develop some skills that they will use all through life.

Last but not least, they will feel good about themselves because of their efforts. this develops self-esteem in individuals, and will stay with them and help them through their life.

The Wildfisherman 4-H Club, from Limestone Township, Union County, has done a tremendous job of helping to improve their community. Their entry application into the Award Program listed the following goals:

- There was a need at the new Public Library for Union County to have landscaping done. We felt we could help accomplish the goal.
- The Limestone Township supervisors needed someone to mow, clean up, and maintain the Limestone Township Recreation Area along Penns Creek.
- The highways in our township need to be maintained and we helped by collecting trash and recycling the aluminum collected.

Amos Zimmerman, retired extension agent, demonstrated the proper methods of planting, watering, and mulching trees and shrubs. Thomas Manley, entomologist, provided information on habitat needed for an improved environment for insects. Norman Conrad, Penn State extension agent, helped organize activities for stream protection at the recreation area. They also involved the three Limestone Township supervisors who assisted with the recreation area and explained to the 4-H'ers how local government operates.

The group had been asked to continue to maintain the Limestone Township Recreation Area for the third year, and that they had accepted the challenge. They had also just held the second annual Halloween party for 4-H'ers and that they planned to continue to participate in the Keep America Beautiful Day via their roadside pickup efforts. They have participated in this for three years.

The final comment in their entry indicated that all members had achieved a sense of responsibility from planning and participating in the community efforts.

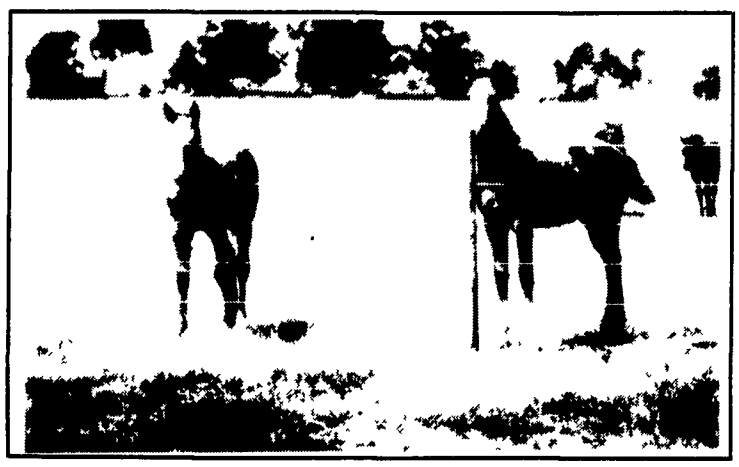
INTRODUCING BAYCO® FENCING



IN A FIELD OF ITS OWN

The new generation of fencing material.

- Bayco fencing is a strong, flexible monofilament providing optimum protection for horses.
- Bayco fencing retains its elastic properties. Even in extreme elongation, it always returns to its original length.
- Bayco fencing is a lightweight and durable material that remains unaffected by extreme temperature or sunlight.
- Bayco fencing resists moisture, alkalis, crop protection products and fertilizer. It will not rust or deteriorate.
- Bayco fencing installs easily and does not need continual maintenance.
- Bayco fencing remains smooth, with no sharp protruding ends, even when cut.
- Bayco fencing protects your investments.

Be an Independent Businessman and Find the Success You've Always Wanted with BIG A

If you've always wanted to own your own successful business, now is the time to do it. Big A, one of the nation's fastest growing auto parts store programs for independent businessmen, is rapidly expanding in cities and towns in Pennsylvania and Maryland. We're looking for people who won't mind working hard to reap the rewards as a profitable Big A Auto Parts Store Owner.

Maybe you have another type of business now, but are looking to change or to diversify at this time. Well, the $53 billion automotive parts market is growing bigger every day, and can provide a new growth opportunity for you!

Perhaps you already own an auto parts store but your supplier is not helping you get your share of your market. We'll help you be successful and more competitive by offering the most advanced promotional, inventory, and training programs in the industry

If you're thinking of selling your auto parts store, check with us first. Our business assessment program can help you establish your business net worth and even put you in contact with our prospective buyers. We're interested, so give us a call.

This 24' Ruffneck from M. H. Eby is an investment in quality

Your cows deserve the best

A new aluminum trailer, like this one from E.M. Eby, Inc., looks bright and clean when it comes from the factory. The surprising thing is it stays bright and clean for years — with very little maintenance.

Aluminum offers another big advantage over conventional wood and steel trailer construction. It's lighter — as much as 35% lighter.

Eby trailers are designed strong and built tough. Each trailer is custom made to your specifications.

Proof of durability for Eby trailers is their resale value. At five years old, many sell for as much as 90% of their original price.

Please call or write for more information and the name of the dealer nearest you.

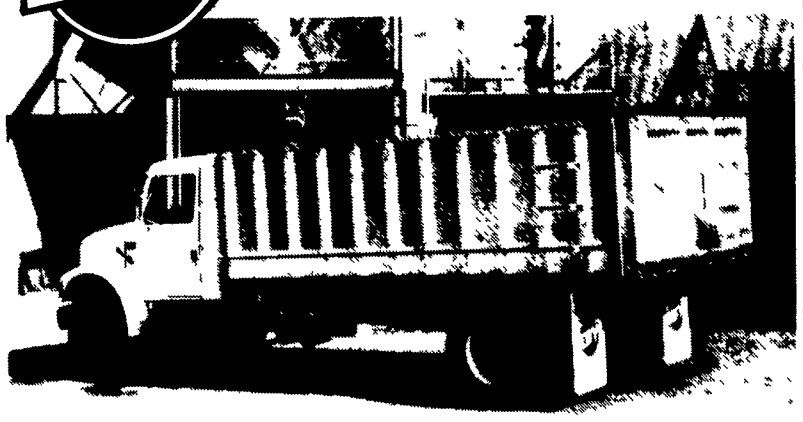
EBY ALUMINUM GRAIN BODY



CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

You'll get more out of an Eby aluminum grain body. Lightweight and rugged aluminum provides rigid, fuel-efficient support to fill your grain hauling needs.

Eby packs years of experience, workmanship and performance into every aluminum body it manufactures And special Eby options let you customize your body to your individual operation Available in standard lengths, each unit is designed to provide you with an investment in durable performance and practical economy.

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot - never needs painting
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work

Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough...the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wing drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

hillsboro flatbed trailer

24 Foot Length Shown 5 - 24 Ft. Models Now In Stock

28 Foot Length Shown 1 - 28 Ft. & 2 - 32 Ft. Models Now In Stock

Optional deck over the neck is 7½ 'x8'

The FLIP-UP BEAVERTAIL raises and lowers in seconds -- slide out ramps are stored under the beavertail. The Hillsboro Flatbed features a full 96" deck width which is more value than the competition.

The Hillsboro Flatbed is available in two styles; the 20' and 24' trailer with standard neck, and the 28', 30' and 32' trailer with heavy duty neck.

VERSATILE — RUGGED — RELIABLE and REASONABLY PRICED!

The Hillsboro Flatbed Trailer with flip-up beavertail can be the one trailer that means lower cost for you. Here's why!!

VERSATILITY! That's what makes a Hillsboro trailer such a good investment. With the beavertail down it's an excellent trailer for moving wheeled equipment. Flip the beavertail up and it adds an extra four feet of deck space for hauling hay and other bulky loads.

HERE'S WHAT HILLSBORO QUALITY MEANS - All Hillsboro trailers are manufactured in precise jigs and fixtures which assures excellent alignment of axles, a better pulling trailer, a level and square trailer.

HILLSBORO WORKMANSHIP INCLUDES-Exceptional weld quality, material that is chemically cleaned, two coats of high quality paint, material strength engineered into the best flatbed value.

Maryland Hosts Water Quality Demonstration Project

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — President Bush has made water quality one of his priorities for the 1990s, and the effect has trickled down to Maryland.

Maryland is one of eight states selected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to host a national water quality demonstration project. The other states include North Carolina, Florida, Wisconsin, Texas, California, Nebraska, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

The demonstration projects are intended to prove that a coordinated, joint effort on the part of the entire agricultural community in a watershed can have a measurable impact on water quality in that region. Specifically, the projects are intended to encourage widespread voluntarily adoption of cost-effective agricultural pollution control practices.

Maryland's demonstration area will be located in the Monocacy River Watershed and attention will focus in particular on the Israel Creek, Linganore, and Piney-Alloway sub-watersheds of Frederick and Carroll counties.

The Monocacy is a designated scenic river and is the largest Maryland tributary of the Potomac River. Its 774 square mile watershed encompasses one of the richest agricultural areas of the state.

There are more than 3,500 farms in the watershed involved primarily in commercial livestock operations and more than 300,900 acres devoted to cropland. Frederick County leads the state in total milk production, contributing more than 30 percent of the total.

These extensive agricultural operations have had an impact on water quality. The Monocacy River watershed was given top action priority in the state by the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Pollutants such as nutrients from commercial fertilizers and animal wastes, agrichemicals and sediment from eroding soil have contaiminated surface and ground water resources. It is estimated that more than 161,400 acres of farm land suffer from excessive erosion rates.

A host of federal and local agencies are working together on the Monocacy water quality demonstration project. The effort will be administrered by the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service (MCES), USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS), and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), in cooperation with the Frederick and Carroll Soil Conservation districts.

Other federal agencies involved in the project include the U.S. Geological Survey, Environmental Protection Agency, and the Agricultural Research Service and the Economic Research Service. State agencies working on the project include the Maryland departments of Agriculture, Natural Resources, and the Environment.

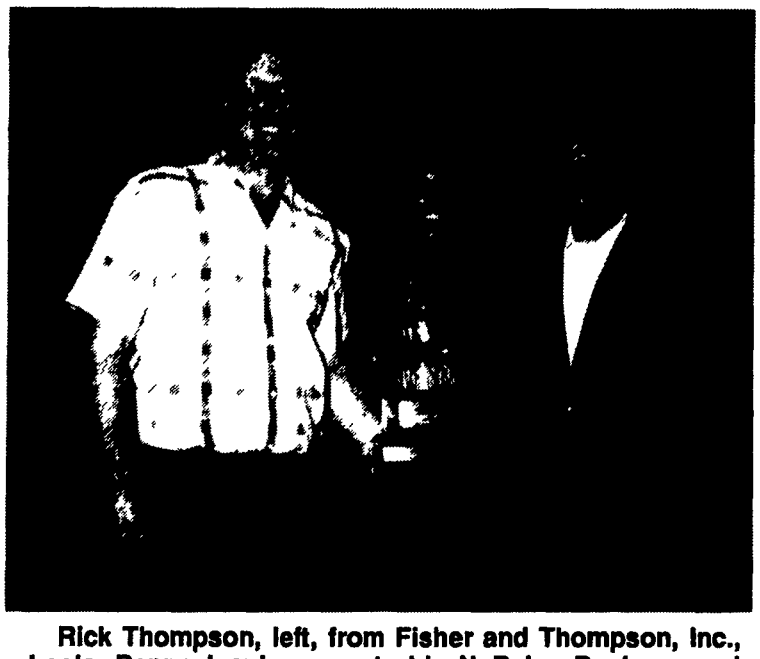
NuPulse Dealers Receive Awards

OREGON, Wis. — Pennsylvania was well represented among the top NuPulse dealers who earned a trip to Cancun, Mexico for their performance in 1989.

All of the dealers who earned the trip did so by making their 1989 sales budget, and all were awarded plaques to honor their achievement.

In addition to this award, Jake Brownsberger, Jake's Milker Service, Watsontown, Pennsylvania, was honored as the "Most Improved" dealer in 1989. Fisher and Thompson, Inc. was awarded the trophy for "The Top Dealer In The Eastern Region and Overall."



Rick Thompson, left, from Fisher and Thompson, Inc., Leola, Pennsylvania, accepts his NuPulse Dealer award from Anne and Ken Sissom, owners of NuPulse, Inc.

FAIR DAYS

Country music recording star Dan Seals will perform at the Franklin County Fair on Wednesday, August 22, 1990.

Seals' country single, "Love On Arrival," has moved up the Billboard magazine music chart to its present position of number one.

There is an immense gentleness in Seals' music — a compassion for those who manage to fashion little triumphs in their landscapes of personal setbacks. But his is not a mindless and sunny optimism. "I try to write about the human condition as it really is," said Seals. "The idea for the song comes first, and then I try to say something that I like."

In his six years as a country artist, the former pop star (of England Dan & John Ford Coley fame) has created a chain of hits: "God Must Be A Cowboy," "My Old Yellow Car," "Everything That Glitters (Is Not Gold)," "You Still Move Me," and "I Will Be There." "Bop," Seals' cheery signature song, was the Country Music Association's single of the year in 1986 and country's top crossover. And his duet with Marie Osmond, "Meet Me In Montana," won them the CMA's vocal duo of the year award in 1986. Both these prize-winners were also No. 1 hits. Seals' "Won't Be Blue Anymore" album was certified gold (for sales of more than 500,000 units) in 1987.

Also appearing in this year's fair, August 19-25, will be The Whites. 1990 marks the 23rd year that Buck, Sharon, and Cheryl, who will perform on Thursday, August 23, have been recording and touring. Their first single release, "You Put The Blue In Me," Was a top 10 hit in 1982.

The Hubcaps will bring their particular brand of 50s and 60s music to the fair for the third time on Tuesday, August 21.

The Hubcaps have been performing professionally for more than 15 years and have become a favorite in the Cumberland Valley. There are seven lead vocalists, a rare occurrence which makes for outstanding harmonies and unlimited versatility.

All three groups will present shows at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in the Arena Grandstand.

All the entertainment is free with admission to the fair. Prices $3 per person, with children 12 and under free.

Montgomery County Ag Fair's Best Of Beef Recipe Contest

If you've got a favorite recipe that exclusively features beef, you might want to enter it in the Montgomery County Agricultural Fair's Best of Beef Recipe Contest.

The contest is being held as part of the fair's 1990 Year of the Beef observance at the county fair. Aug. 17-25, in Gaithersburg, Maryland.

"Recipe contests are always a neat thing to participate in," said Betsy Rippeon of Gaithersburg, who is co-chairman of this year's special feature. "A recipe contest is something that anyone can participate in, and everyone has a favorite recipe they like to share."

Categories for the contest are indoor/conventional; outdoor/barbecue; microwave; and stirfry. "We believe these four categories give cooks a wide range to submit their favorite recipes in," said Rippeon.

Recipes must exclusively feature beef. Recipes must be original. Beef organ meats cannot be used. Each serving must contain at least three ounces of beef. Ingredients must be listed in order of use. Complete directions must be furnished. Recipes must be typed on 8½ by 11-inch paper. Entrants are required to submit an official entry form available from the fair office.

Food Safety Ed Materials

WASHINGTON, D.C.— The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives recently released a series of educational materials for member use in local communities to help address consumer concerns about vital food safety and water quality issues.

The materials include print ads, radio spots, speech materials, slide presentations, videos, and a question and answer booklet on food safety and water quality.

"NCFC's leadership has targeted food safety and water quality as preeminent issues for cooperatives during this year's debate on the Farm Bill, and throughout the 1990s," said Council President Wayne A. Boutwell.

"Our education campaign was developed because we found that consumer concerns are driven by fundamental misunderstandings about how American agriculture utilizes fertilizers and pesticides," said Boutwell.

The NCFC president noted that farmer cooperatives and their members have been leaders in initiating positive action enhancing food safety and the environment. "They've been on the cutting edge of these vital issues," he said, "and we're urging them to cite examples of what they've done to establish better understanding with the consuming public."

Boutwell emphasized that should agriculture's story not be shared with consumers, continuing misunderstanding and fears could prompt new, overly restrictive government controls. "If that happens," he said, "agriculture's access to critically-needed fertilizers and pesticides would be jeopardized, and consumers' assurance of high quality foods at reasonable prices would be at risk."

Gardeners Need To Be Aware Of Plant Diseases

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Understanding the plant disease cycle and growing disease-resistant plants are some of the steps home gardeners can take to ensure healthier, happier gardens.

Gardeners also need to be aware of some of the diseases and infestations now affecting plants, according to H. Bruce Hellerick, extension agent, at the Plant Disease Clinic held at the Farm and Home Center last week.

"One thing you should know is that, at the end of the month, Japanese beetles will be coming out," said Hellerick.

Hellerick said there are many things growers can do. "Some people use beetle traps," he said. "If you're going to use them, don't put them near your plants. Put them away from your regular garden because they will attract the beetles from quite a distance. Make sure you put them away from your flower garden, your vegetable garden, things like that."

Hand-pick bugs

Growers can also hand-pick the bugs from the flowers, or spray. Some who grow roses can cut off the flowers until the beetle infestation is over and then let the plants bloom again.

"Aphids are also bad right now," he said. Hellerick recommended using soap or summer spray oils. For ornamental plants, Malathion or Isotox can be used — but owners should read and follow the label carefully.

Anthracnose has been a problem for sycamore trees. "The last three springs we've had rainy weather and temperatures between 50 and 55 degrees," said Hellerick. "At that moment, the disease begins to spore and infect the host."

Owners will have to consider the cost of spraying. In most cases of anthracnose, according to Hellerick, the tree will shed the leaves, causing no harm to the tree, and more leaves will grow back.

Hemlock trees dying

"I've been having lots and lots of calls about Hemlock trees dying," said Hellerick. "Root diseases caused by the last two to three years of bad weather conditions — a real dry summer and last year's wet, rainy weather. And they just haven't re-established themselves. There's nothing people can do."

Other diseases and infestations examined at the clinic include iris bores; locust webworm; bacteria leaf scorch; ozone damage; diplodia tip blight (a fungal disease); milky spore; grubs; and herbicide injury to evergreens.

In addition, herbicide use, mushroom soil, mulching, watering, and lawn care were discussed.

H. Bruce Hellerick, extension agent, describes the effects of diplodia tip blight disease on Austrian pine at the Lancaster County Plant Disease Clinic at the Farm and Home Center last week.

Fair Directory Available

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.)— A directory to this year's Pennsylvania fairs is available from Sen. Noah Wenger's district offices in Ephrata and Cochranville.

The fair directory lists the names, dates, and locations of more than 120 fairs, farm shows, and similar events scheduled throughout the state this summer and fall. In addition, a schedule of the season's harness races and details about each participating fair's races and track records are included.

In Chester and Lancaster counties, there are 10 fairs held from July through October. In the 36th Senatorial District, the Unionville Community Fair will be held Oct. 11-12 in Chester County and several fairs in Lancaster County include:

- Denver Fair, Sept. 11-15;
- Ephrata Fair, Sept. 25-29;
- Southern Lancaster Co. Fair, Sept. 19-21;
- West Lampeter Community Fair, Sept. 26-28;
- New Holland Farmers Fair, Oct. 3-6.

In addition to these fairs, area residents may attend the Goshen County Fair and Kimberton Community Fair in Chester County, and the Manheim Community Fair and Elizabethtown Community Fair in Lancaster County.

"The Fair Directory will be helpful to families and individuals who wish to enjoy the rich traditions associated with Pennsylvania's farming community," said Wenger.

The directories are available at the senator's offices at 1248 W. Main Street, Ephrata, PA 17522, (717) 738-1600, and the Old Samuel Cochran House at Routes 10 and 41, Cochranville, PA 19330, (215) 593-2888.

Pork Challenge Results Verify Genetic Improvements

DES MOINES, Iowa — Results from the third Pork Challenge, the innovative genetic evaluation test conducted in connection with World Pork Expo, indicates that many of the industry's current pig breeding programs are capable of efficiently producing a lean, nutritious pork product.

Dr. David Meeker. vice president, research and education for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC), said the 1990 test group of 753 pigs was more efficient, but had slightly more backfat than the animals involved in the test last year.

The pigs involved in Pork Challenge represent a sample of current industry market hogs. All U.S. commercial pork producers were invited to enter pigs in the test. Producers from 14 states entered 814 pigs in 102 entry groups. Dr. Meeker said 753 of the pigs finished the test.

"The genetic variation shown means commercial producers may improve their market hogs by purchasing better seedstock from their current supplier or by changing suppliers," said Meeker.

As the pork industry focuses more on improved lean content and product uniformity, the need for evaluation of current industry production increases. Information about the comparative performance of various breeding programs has historically been quite limited, though very important to producers.

The Pork Challenge was developed to widen the scope of such information. The NPPC, in association with the Minnesota Pork Producers Association and Pitman-Moore, Inc., conducted the three Pork Challenge tests.

The tests go well beyond the traditional gathering of production and carcass data and also take a look at feed efficiency, backfat, loin-eye area, carcass quality (color marking, firmness) as well as calorie, cholesterol, and fat content.

"This year's results verify that pork is leaner and lower in calories and cholesterol than commonly assumed," said Meeker, who along with Rodney Goodwin, NPPC's director of research programs and Iowa State University, were project leaders.

Samples ot loins trom the nearly 2,300 pigs tested in 1988, 1989 and 1990 averaged 2.78 percent fat, 54.3 milligrams of cholestrol, and 149 calories per 100 grams of meat.

The trait used to evaluate the pigs was lean efficiency. This is measured as the pounds of feed required to produce a pound of quality lean pork. The best pigs in the test had a lean efficiency of 6.94, with the average of the 1990 test being 8.12. The average daily gain of the 753 pigs which finished this year's Pork Challenge was 1.66 pounds, with an average backfat of 1.29 inches and a tenth rib backfat of 0.99 inches. The loin muscle area averaged 5.64 square inches for the group and the dressing percent averaged 73.66.

Detailed results of the 1990 Pork Challenge test are available by writing Pork Challenge, National Pork Producers Council, P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, IA 50306. Further information is available by contacting Rodney Goodwin at the National Pork Producers Council in Des Moines.

Extension Offers High-Tech Garden Advice

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — When Raymond V. Bosmans was a horticulture agent in Howard County for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, his office was equipped to handle up to 9,000 telephone calls per year from persons asking for advice on bugs, plant diseases, and other problems relating to gardening and home beautification.

With a much larger population to serve, his counterpart in Prince George's County reported handling up to 12,000 calls per year.

Both offices were busiest during June and July, when insect and plant disease problems typically are most numerous.

Now Bosmans is part of a new extension service operation — the Home and Garden Information Center — which can handle up to 1,000 calls a day and has the capacity to go even higher.

His office is equipped with Compact Disc-Read Only Memory (CD-ROM), a computer unit which provides instant access to more than 12,000 documents from university and cooperative extension service specialists in 48 states.

Callers with push-button telephones can dial up pretaped information from University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service specialists on a wide array of subjects, hear recorded announcements about gardening events in their county, or listen to a "tip of the week."

You can even talk to a real person about specific lawn and garden problems on topics ranging from water lilies to carpet beetles. Fact sheets giving detailed information on many of the topics will be mailed on request. To start the process, call (800) 342-2507.

Phone operators answer calls on an eight-port switchboard each weekday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Access to message tapes is available 24 hours per day throughout the year. Brochures listing the message tape topics may be picked up at offices of the cooperative extension service in most Maryland counties and in Baltimore.

Dr. David L. Clement, a plant pathologist, is the center coordinator. He has expertise on plant diseases.

Ray Bosmans provides expertise on ornamental horticulture and lanscaping. Denise D. Sharp specializes in turf-grass, along with fruit and vegetable information for home gardeners. Mary Kay Malinoski is the entomology specialist. She answers questions pertaining to insect problems.

The four regional extension specialists are assisted by horticulture consultants, hired on a part-time basis, and by volunteers who have completed training as Master Gardeners.

With the volume of calls increasing daily, more volunteers are needed, noted Sharp — especially those who live within reasonable driving distance of the Home and Garden Information Center.

In addition to valuable training, the Master Gardener volunteers gain satisfaction that comes from helping other persons with their lawn and garden problems, Sharp said. She can be reached at (301) 531-5572 during weekday office hours.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service developed the Home and Garden Information Center concept in an attempt to better serve the state's expanding population, which is expected to grow from 4.7 million persons in 1990 to more than 5.2 million by 2010 — a 10.6 percent increase.

Swackhamer Elected 4-H Board Treasurer

BALTIMORE, Md. — Gene L. Swackhamer, president of The Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore, was elected treasurer of the board of trustees of the National 4-H Council.

Swackhamer received a bachelor's degree in agriculture from Purdue University, a master's degree from Cornell, and his Ph.D. from Purdue. Originally from Frankfort, Indiana, he was raised on a hog and corn farm and actively farmed while in college. He was a state officer in 4-H and last year received the National 4-H Alumni Award.

"It is a privilege for me to serve on the National 4-H Council Board of Trustees. 4-H played an important role in my life," Swackhamer said. "In some small way I hope to repay the experience by serving in this capacity." Swackhamer has been extremely active in Maryland 4-H and has encouraged other Farm Credit employees to become active as well.

In 1977, he joined the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore as president and chief executive officer. Under his leadership, the Bank has enjoyed steady growth. Within the Farm Credit System, the Baltimore district pioneered the consolidation of the Federal Land Bank, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, and the Baltimore Bank for Cooperatives under one management team in the late seventies.

In 1988, The Federal Land Bank and Federal Intermediate Credit Bank merged to form the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore. The bank and its affiliated associations expect to achieve an all-time high in outstanding loan volume before year end. The March 31, 1990, outstanding loan volume was $2.92 billion with $3 billion anticipated in the next few months.

The Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore serves more than 49,000 farmers, rural home owners, acquatic harvesters and producers, and other agri-businesses in the states of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware, Pennsylvania, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

GET THE EXTRA EDGE

Put a Vicon three-bladed disc mower conditioner through wet, heavy, tangled crops. Then compare the difference.

With almost double the number of cuts per minute over two-bladed disc competitiors, and six times the cuts per minute over sicklebar systems, it's easy to understand the clean, fast, NO PLUG performance of Vicon KM disc mower conditioners.

BUY NOW! special price

KM281 9' 4" CUT

$10,495.00*

Add the extra suction created by Vicon's unique triangular discs, the full swivel hitch that lets you cut square corners on the move, and gentle, full width conditioning, and you're looking at a high capacity machine that puts productivity in a whole new dimension. Four models cut from 7' to 10'6" widths.

Vicon's got the edge. The extra edge.
See for yourself. Visit your local Vicon dealer, today.

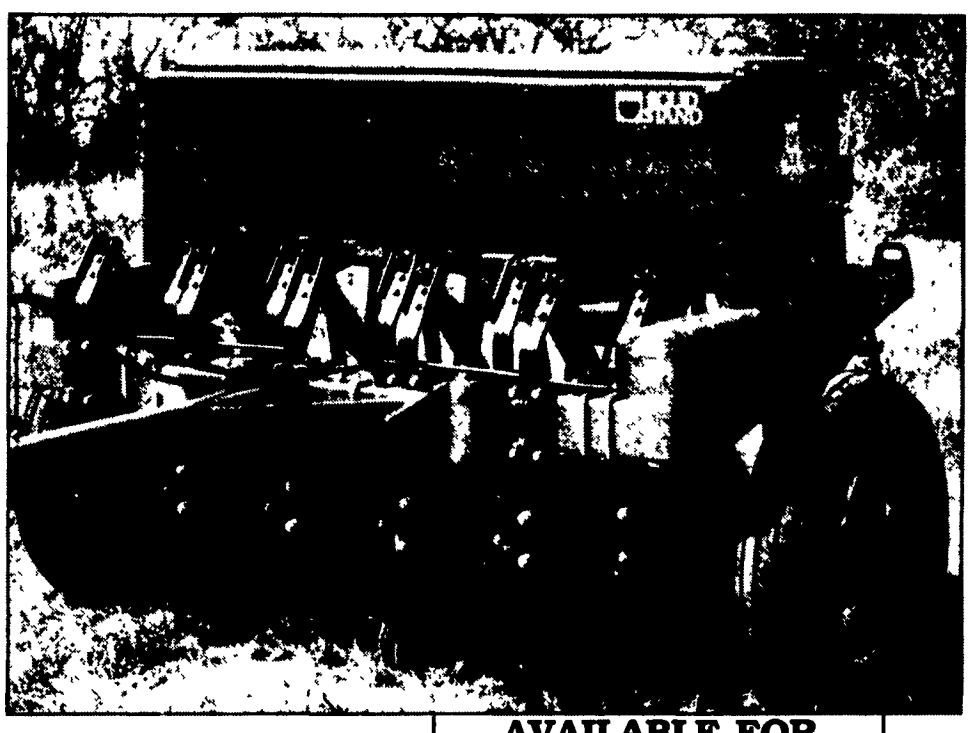
You Won't Find A Better No-Till Drill Than GREAT PLAINS



Great Plains Solid Stand no-till drills have the planting accuracy drilled soybeans need;
(1) Depth-Gauging Press Wheels keep the opener from penetrating too deep; planting depth can be quickly changed with exclusive dial-a-depth adjustment system.
(2) The spring-loaded coulters offer up to 400 lbs. per row of down-pressure, ensuring that they open a groove in even the toughest residue and soil. Each coulter is integrated with its opener and press wheel arm so that coulters and openers are close enough for good tracking but separated to allow good trash flow.
(3) A spring steel mounting bar allows the entire planting system to flex with the terrain, for even more flexibility for the coulter and opener assembly.
(4) The double-disk openers and coulters flex independently to pass over stones easily. A sturdy down-pressure spring with 56 lbs. of pressure per inch holds the opener firmly in the groove.

THE NO-TILL DRILL THAT WORKS

Here's why:
The end wheel-opener alignment means that the openers neither gouge the soil nor leave the ground when traversing rolling ground; they simply follow the terrain right with the end wheels. The end wheels also act as stabilizers to hold the openers steady when seeding on slopes. By keeping the ground-working components well protected within the profile of the end wheels, the operating costs are low on our Solid Stand No-Till Drill.

Their versatility, their residue clearance, and their compact design make these drills a natural choice. Their narrow widths make them perfect for narrow roads and gates.

Even with all these outstanding no-till capabilities, these drills are well-suited to conventional seeding as well. And of course they have the same great opener and press wheel system offered by all Great Plains Solid Stand drills.

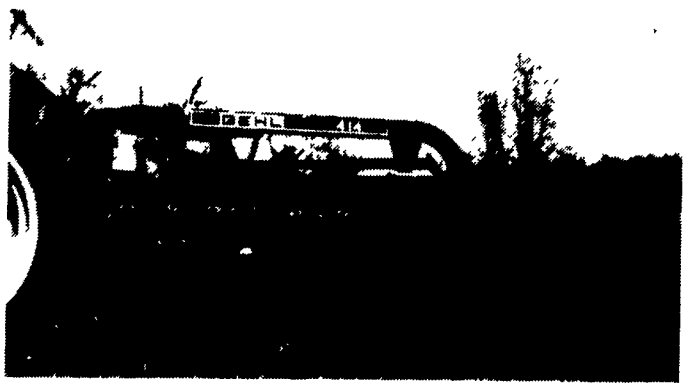
GEHL®

Parallel bar rakes

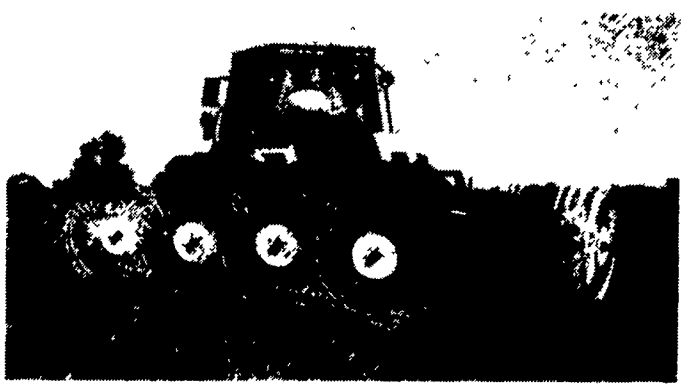
Rake fast and clean with a Gehl parallel bar rake. Available in 8½ ft. and 9½ ft. models. Your choice of hydraulic or ground drive. And, by teaming up a left-hand model with a right-hand model, in a V-pattern, you can rake up to 18 feet of hay into a big, fluffy double windrow. For added reliability, the tubular steel basket frame and high-strength steel stripper have been welded into a single unit. Basket leveling linkage isspring-loaded, allowing the basket to float over uneven terrain to pick up all of your crop.



Gehl 454 9½ Ft. Hyd. Drive Rake w/Front Dolly. List $4,050 -- NOW $3,169.

Fingerwheel rakes

The perfect partner for a forage harvester, round baler or rectangular baler can be found in the wide selection of fingerwheel rakes. Models available with 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 wheels with raking widths up to 22 ft. Heavy duty tubular steel frame construction means dependable service and long life. And, because the finger wheels follow the contours of the ground, you get smooth raking even on rough terrain.



Gehl WR215 3 Pt. 5 Wheel Flex Tine Rake. List $1,124 -- NOW $975.

Scavenger® II spreaders

Here's the one spreader for the two-spreader farm. A Gehl Scavenger II spreader lets you spread liquids, semi-solids, pen-packed, even frozen manure. The patented heavy-duty square-tube auger makes the big difference. Turning at low rpm, it produces a unique "pulse action" that breaks up manure in the tank. Specially formed paddles rip through tough clods to deliver a steady, constant flow to the discharge. The auger can be hydraulically powered up and down to chop through bridged and frozen material. The Variflo discharge gives you complete application control. Five models are available with heaped capacities from 192 to 596 bushels. They're backed by a 10-year rust-through warranty.

Excellent Soybeans In Stock

All Hytest Soybean seed is triple tested.

Hytest 3758 soybeans came in first in Delaware trials against 30 other commercial and public varieties. The same Hytest 3758 came in second in yield trials in Centre County, Pennsylvania, against 22 competitors. Hytest 3228, a shorter season soybean came in third in the same Centre County trials.

These Hytest beans along with Williams, Pella, and a small supply of Asgrown Soybeans are available now. These are all good varieties, with excellent germination, and outstanding production capabilities. Give them a chance to work on your farms.

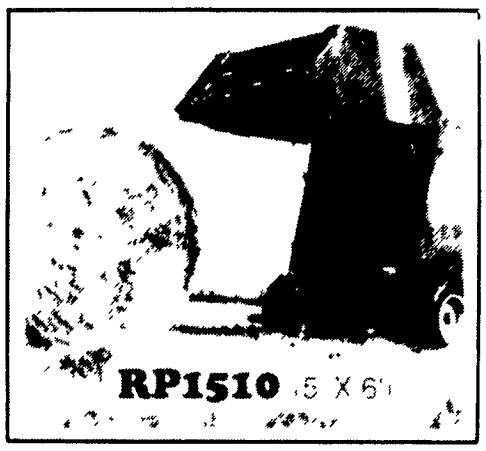
Vicon INSTANT START QUALITY FINISH Vicon



BUY NOW!

You get a tight, consistent bale the first time... every time. Because Vicon's new balers make starting a round bale easier and faster.

The secret is Vicon's revolutionary design, combining a full-width floating pick-up with a wide-open throat.

This unbeatable combination lets you make better bales faster, with no extreme weaving up on the windrow. That means more bales per hour and lower operating costs.

See your dealer now. Take a close look at the new Vicon Round Balers with a choice of 4 ft. or 5 ft. wide bales. A Vicon baler is your best choice... right from the start.

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS
Check Your Silo Now For Rotten Staves. If You Have Been Using Your Silo For 10 To 15 Years For Either Corn Silage Or Haylage, It Is Time To SHOTCRETE.

Check Your Silo For Deteriorated Concrete!
If you have a 15 year old silo... get it fixed or insure it better! But don't wait until the last minute to have it repaired because we may not be able to fix it if you wait too long REMEMBER your silo will not fall over when it's empty - it will fall over when it's full. It cannot stand on deteriorated concrete...

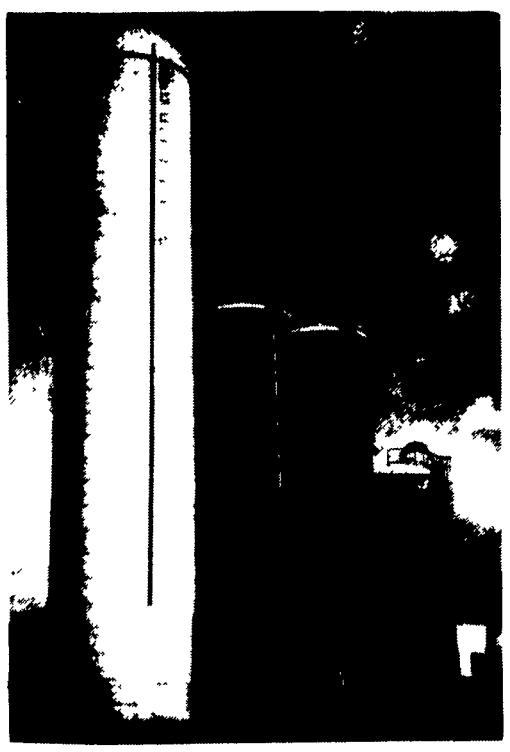
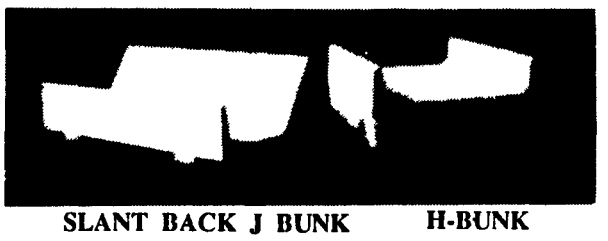
3 SILOS AND UNLOADERS

"Consider The Concrete Advantages"



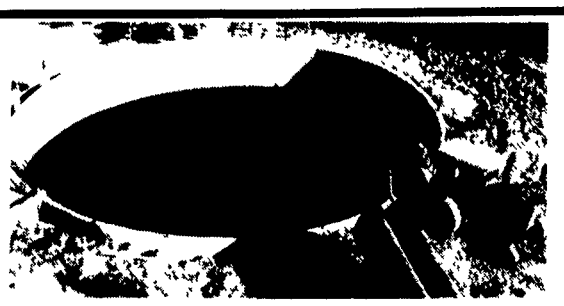
Poured concrete silos since 1908. Now in our 81st year and recognized as the leading silo manufacturer in the east. This quality storage system is available now. Top unloading - bottom unloading - and the unique Big Jim System.

Solid 6" concrete wall, heavily reinforced with hi grade steel, and equipped with concrete chute, fill pipe, ladder, safety cage and aluminized steel roof. Our conventional top unloading silo has a door system 2nd to none!



SLANT BACK J BUNK H-BUNK

Let Us Know Your Needs. We Can Deliver From Our Large Inventory And Set On Your Prepared Site. OR: We Can Load On Your Truck To Help Save On Freight Costs. We Have Several Sizes And Styles To Choose From, Plus Metal Posts, For Cable, Which Can Be Bolted To The Bunk To Keep Cattle Out.



MANURE STORAGE SYSTEMS

- Manure Storage Systems For The Small Herd - or The 400 Cow Herds And Larger.
- Systems Adaptable To Any Type Equipment
- SCS Approved
- Circular Tanks Poured-In-Place Above Ground - In Ground - Or Uneven Backfill.
- Pre-Cast Concrete panels Delivered And Set On Your Prepared Site.

NO REBUILT SILOS
NO PRE-OWNED SILOS!

The SOLLENBERGER Silo is all new, And is poured in place on your farm. Built for generations of use, With absolute minimum maintenance.

FACT: Our poured concrete wall has 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel. Heat damage occurs when stored feed is heated above 95° F. Our silo protects your valuable feed quality

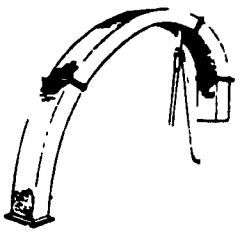
It's That Time Again, And We Are Here To Help You Get Your Harvestore® Ready For First Cutting With Quality Parts For Your Unloader

From Stahl Mfg., Inc.

AND
Lancaster Level-Flow Goosenecks To End Your Plugging Problems.



You can blow in as much as three tons of haylage a minute - over 100 feet up - with a new 12" center-fill Gooseneck from Lancaster Level-Flo
High profile and 33% larger diameter reduce friction to make plugging a thing of the past And the Lancaster Level-Flo 12" gooseneck is fully enclosed to make sure your silage and haylage go into your silo - not on the roof

WAIT!

Having roofing problems? Considering a new roof in the next 3-5 years? Before investing big dollars in an expensive new roof consider Poxy Coat II!

Poxy Coat II is good for most roofs.
- extremely flexible for long life
- is heat resistant up to 1000°.
- resists acid rain
- seals and protects
- comes in seven colors, plus black and white
- a fraction of the cost of a new roof.

For more information and a free estimate and consultation on coating your roof with Poxy Coat II contact:

Paul Brosey at (717) 426-3833 or
Steve Bowman at (717) 684-8642

Paul Brosey Contracting also does painting, barn restoration and roof replacement.

'Apples To Gold' Winners Announced

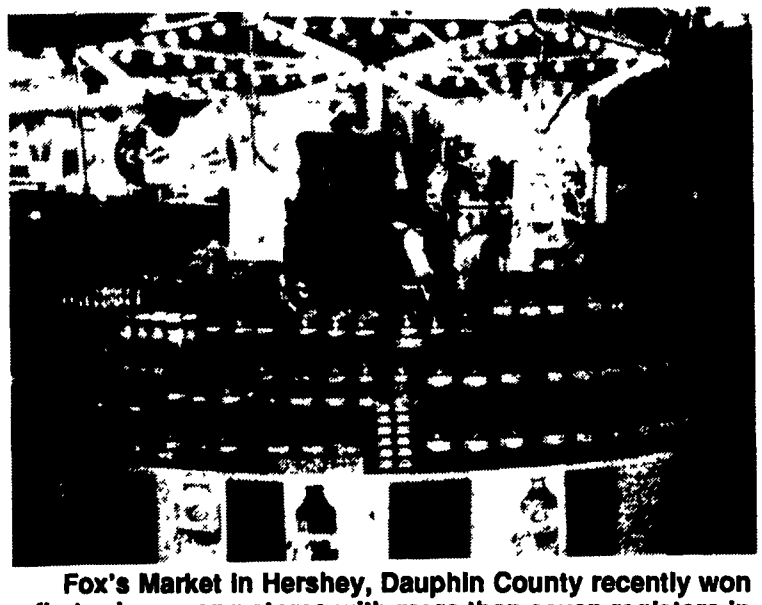
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board today honored eight grocery managers as the winners of a special "Apples to Gold" display contest held during National Applesauce Month in April.

The statewide contest invited grocery managers to create their own point-of-purchase displays featuring Pennsylvania applesauce, apple butter, pie fillings, spiced apple rings, and apple juice.

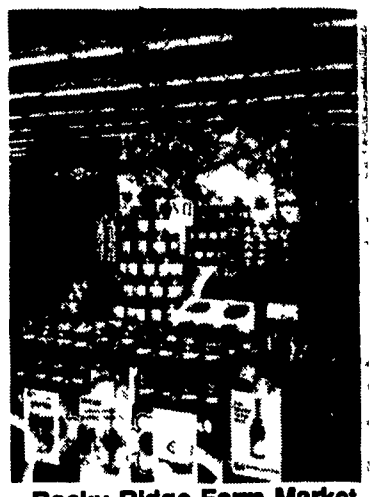
Prizes were awarded in two categories. The $1,000 first place award for stores with at least seven registers was presented to Steve Hein of Fox's Market in Hershey, Dauphin County. Red Schreiber, of Stauffer's of Kissel Hill in Lititz, Lancaster County, won the $750 second prize, while Ed Leppo of Littlestown Thrift in Littlestown, Adams County, received the $500 third place prize. The $250 fourth place award was presented to Chris Lentz of the Shop N' Save in Indiana, Pennsylvania.

Among stores with fewer than six registers, the $1,000 first prize was presented to Herb Busick of Rocky Ridge Farm Market in Hagerstown, Maryland. Michael Mihelic of Pines Plaza Foodland in Pittsburgh received the $750 second prize, while Curt Saylor of Saylor's Market in Carlisle, Cumberland County won the $500 third place award. Paul Brown of Nell's Market in Hanover, York County received the $250 fourth prize.

The Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board is the state's oldest grower-funded agricultural marketing program. Established in 1968 by the state's apple growers and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the program provides consumer education, merchandising, public relations, and market information services.



Fox's Market in Hershey, Dauphin County recently won first prize among stores with more than seven registers in the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board's "Apples to Gold" display contest held during National Applesauce Month in April. The store's award winning point-of-purchase display was created by Steve Hein and featured a colorful carousel stocked with Pennsylvania processed apple products.



Rocky Ridge Farm Market in Hagerstown, Maryland, recently won first prize among stores with fewer than six registers in the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board's "Apple to Gold" display contest held during National Applesauce Month in April. The market's award-winning point-of-purchase display was created by Herb Busick and featured an authentic apple tree surrounded by Pennsylvania processed apple products.

P.G. 600

As most producers know, the first product to induce heat in gilts was recently released. The product, called P.G. 600, is a hormone combination that is injected into gilts that have not cycled. Does it work? What does it cost? Should you use it? Let's take a brief look at the product.

What is P.G. 600?

P.G. 600 contains 400 international units (I.U.) of Pregnant Mare Serum Gonadotropin (PMSG) and 200 I.U. of Human Chorionic Gonadotropin (HCG). The PMSG contains a hormone that stimulates follicle development and brings the gilt into heat. The HCG contains a slightly different hormone that brings about ovulation.

The product has apparently been in use in other countries for more than 20 years. It was approved for use in this country in early 1990.

Does it work?

Yes it works, but because every farm is different, it's possible that results will vary from one operation to another. The only way to know how effective it would be on your farm is to try it.

To get product approval, 10 trials involving 678 prepuberal (before first heat cycle) gilts were conducted on farms in North Carolina, Illinois, and Missouri. Herds ranged in size from 150 to 1,000 sows.

It's clear from the results that P. G. 600 helps stimulate heat. But it's also clear that its effectiveness in doing that is a lot less than 100 percent.

Gilt response to P.G.

	CONTROL	P.G. 600
Gilts in heat:
5 days after treatment	25%	52%
10 days after treatment	41%	59%
28 days after treatment	60%	73%

The researchers also noted that half of the treated gilts came into heat in five days. It took 18 days for half of the control gilts to cycle.

Is P.G. 600 worth using?

The product costs roughly $3.50 per dose. Let's take a look at the costs with 10 gilts.

From the table above you can see that after 10 days, roughly four gilts out of 10 (41 percent) came into heat with no injection. With the injection, the researchers were successful in getting 6 gilts out of 10 into heat.

Costs for injecting all 10 gilts would be roughly $35. And for that expense, we could expect an extra two gilts in heat. You might be able to judge for yourself the value of that kind of success rate.

One way would be to consider the feed costs you would save for those two gilts. At 5 lbs per day X 10 days X $.075/lb X 2 gilts, the total savings in feed costs would be roughly $7.50. That savings is significantly less than the $35 you would have spent for the 10 gilts on the product.

Or you could look at it from a slightly different angle and come up with a different answer. Let's assume you need to breed 10 gilts. We'll also assume you've got 20 gilts in your gilt pool. Treat them with P.G. 600 and after five days, you should have 10 gilts in heat (based on the field study). Feed costs for the five days for all 20 gilts will be about $37.50 (20 gilts X 5 lbs/day X 5 days X $.075/lb). Add this to the $70 drug cost and your total expense is $107.50.

If you don't treat them, it will take 18 days to get 10 gilts in heat. The feed cost up to this point for all 20 gilts would be about $135 (20 gilts X 5 lbs/day X 18 days X $.075/lb).

Still another approach (and probably the most accurate one) is to calculate the costs needed to maintain a gilt pool for providing sow replacements for an entire year. With no drug treatment, roughly 2.44 gilts are needed for every empty crate you need to fill. With P.G. 600 injections, only 1.69 gilts are needed to replace each sow that is culled.

A scenario using this strategy was published in the March issue of "National Hog Farmer," and it showed an $18.95 return to P.G. 600/gilt. Drug costs were not included since they weren't available.

But I believe the analysis was flawed in a more important aspect. The price used for purchased gilts was $148. Those that didn't respond to treatment were discounted at the market, since the selling price used for non-breeding gilts was $132. That reasoning is not correct for producers that raise their own replacements, and most producers do. In fact if producers sell their non-breeding gilts at a reasonable weight (240 to 260 pounds) there should be no price discount.

Summary

1. P.G. 600 is a combination of PMSG and HCG that can be used to stimulate estrus (heat) in non-cycling gilts.

2. Field studies show that 10 days after treatment, roughly 60 percent of the injected gilts will cycle, versus 40 percent in non-treated gilts. Actual response may vary from one farm to another.

3. The economics will depend on effectiveness and how producers handle their replacement gilts. For producers raising their own replacements, the drug may not be effective enough to justify the cost of injections.

Regional Crops Field Day Set

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Lynn Hoffman will be one of three Penn State cooperative extension specialists on the Northeast Regional Crops Field Day to be held from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Friday, July 6 at the Bethel Methodist Church in Wyoming County, between Falls and Schultzville.

Demonstration fields have been planted with the cooperation of Eckel Farms and include both conventional and no-till methods for corn, oats, and forage crops. There will also be exhibits on weed identification and rotation pasture. Credits for private applicator certification provided by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture will be available for anyone completing the necessary forms before the program starts.

Other speakers on the program include Elwood Hatley, extension agronomist; Dennis Calvin, entomologist; and Doyle Thomas and Don Overdorff, extension county agents and representatives of the Wyoming and Lackawanna Soil Conservation districts. Speakers will include the merits and problems of both systems, the pitfalls to avoid and when to use conventional or no-till and how to make the most of either method.

The program was arranged by the cooperative extension in Wyoming, Lackawanna, Wayne, and Susquehanna counties.

The Bethel Methodist Church is located on the Falls Road three miles from the Schultzville Airport and two miles from Falls.

The sisters of Bidwell, Ohio, were honored through the association's National Junior Recognition Program in which points are awarded for association activities, competing in junior Angus shows, and for performance testing and producing Angus cattle.

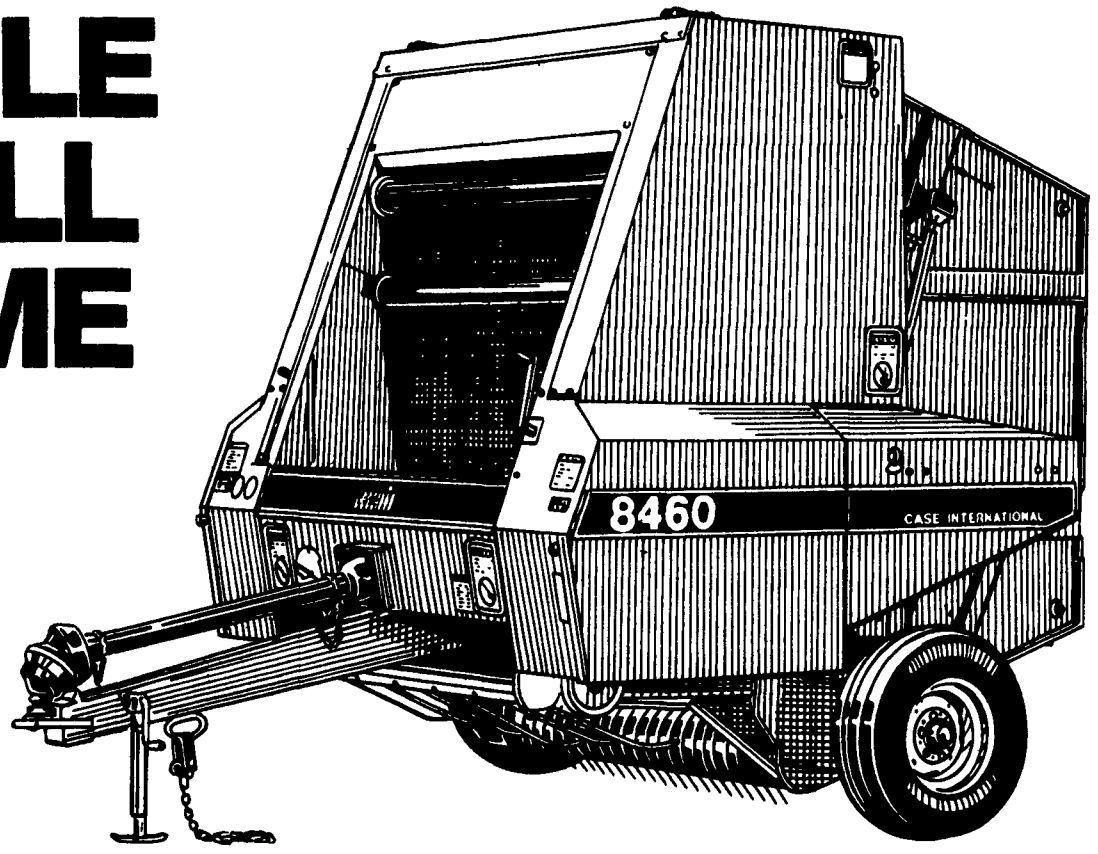
Case International 8450/8460 Round Balers

WHEN YOU NEED TO BALE FULL TIME



These two reliable balers are writing the book on high-output baling. They turn out bales 46½ and 61½ inches wide, respectively, up to 6¼ feet in diameter. Open-throat design ensures each bale starts right, and the variable bale chamber builds bales fast so they end up firm and tight. Problems are rare thanks to over-fill protection and an audible bale-full signal. The 8460 automatically wraps each bale at the size you preset. The drive then declutches automatically, the tailgate opens and the automatic kicker rolls the bale away from the baler.

Plus:

- Slip-clutch protected drives on both models
- Wide, low-profile cam-actuated pickups sweep windrows clean, ensure continuous feed
- Six forming belts on the 8450; eight on the 8460

So if your operation needs reliable big-bale production, put an 8450 or 8460 to work for you. And get set to handle any condition, any crop, any time.

Stop in for details on these two top producers.

SALMONELLOSIS IS A FOOD HANDLING PROBLEM

John H. Schwartz
Multi-County Poultry Agent

The last several years have seen an increased concern about the number of people becoming sick from Salmonella enteritidis (SE).

Eggs have been the food most often associated with these outbreaks. There are several reasons for this. First, eggs are a basic food used in many food products; second, most people eat eggs; third, many egg recipes require partially cooked eggs; and fourth, egg yolks are a perfect medium for bacteria growth.

As a result, a great deal of effort is being exerted in trying to eliminate SE from eggs.

So far we have not been very successful. This is not really a big surprise to poultry health specialists for three reasons. First, Salmonella is a bacteria that is found everywhere; second, there are many ways eggs may become contaminated with Salmonella after the egg is laid by a hen; and third, up to this time, Salmonellosis has always been considered a food handling problem.

All the traceback cases to Pennsylvania egg producers have involved gross mishandling of eggs by food service people. Tests conducted on eggs over the past two years by Penn State indicate eggs probably have the lowest contamination of Salmonella bacteria of any animal product sold to the public.

Almost all fresh food contain bacteria. People need to understand it is not currently economically possible or necessary to produce a bacteria-free food. Thus, we need to relearn the basic concepts of safe food handling.

Let's review some basic bacteriology. In order for bacteria to grow, it needs four things: a suitable food source, moisture, favorable temperature, and time. The elimination of one or more of these factors will keep bacteria from multiplying to levels necessary to cause human health problems.

Next, the egg has four built-in defenses to keep bacteria out of the egg and to prevent the growth of any bacteria that may penetrate the egg shell. The way bacteria is prevented from entering the egg is through the cuticle covering over the shell to seal the pores in the egg right before the egg is laid and the outer and inner shell membranes.

The inner shell membrane, egg white, and chalaziferous layer that directly surrounds the yolk all contain lysozyme, an enzyme that prevents bacterial growth. Also, the egg white prevents bacteria growth because of its alkalinity and lack of necessary nutrients needed for bacterial growth.

In addition to these natural defenses, the egg industry uses several management practices to further reduce bacterial contamination and insure the wholesomeness of its product: refrigeration, blood testing, environmental monitoring for SE, and egg washing and sanitizing.

Thus, the safest egg for anyone to eat is a fresh egg right out of the shell. People must assume the responsibility for keeping any food prepared from eggs safe for consumption. This includes refrigeration, especially when the egg's natural defenses are neutralized by breaking the shell or egg yolk; keeping prepared egg dishes below 45 F. or over 160 F.; washing hands before eating or handling food; and not allowing cooked food to become recontaminated by reusing utensils used with raw or uncooked food.

To solve the SE problem, we need to concentrate on educating the public on safe food handling. Our Pennsylvania egg farms pose a far less hazard to public health than do many other types of activities, including alcohol and smoking. More people will develop SE-type symptoms from overconsuming alcohol this weekend than from eating eggs!

Remember, up to now, Salmonellosis has always been considered a food handling problem.

Turn Dead Chickens Into Fertilizer

EASTON, Md. — There's a new epoch dawning for America's poultry industry, and the billion dollar-a-year poultry industry on the Delmarva Peninsula is a national leader.

Poultry producers are making their contribution by finding solutions to an old problem: What to do with dead chickens?

Poultry researchers at the University of Maryland College Park, University of Maryland Eastern Shore, and University of Delaware are working on some promising answers. One of these involves composting dead birds to make a fertilizer which can be used on lawns and gardens. This process already is being used by a number of large-volume growers in the Delmarva area. And it is being marketed commercially on a limited basis.

A poster exhibit explaining the process was included in the industry exhibit at this year's Delmarva Chicken Festival, held June 8 and 9, at Easton, Maryland. The festival is an annual promotional activity sponsored by the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI), the non-profit trade association working for the continued progress of Delmarva's more than $1-billion-a-year poultry industry.

A newer development — still in the experimental stage — involves fermentation of chicken carcasses to produce a high-protein liquid which can be used as a feed additive for poultry and livestock.

Both composting and fermentation get rid of pathogens — which are probably what killed the chickens in the first place — explained Dr. Dennis W. Murphy, a poultry science specialist for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

"Composting kills most germs with temperatures which can reach 140 degrees F. during the natural process of composting," said Murphy. Fermentation kills bacteria and most viruses by turning chicken carcasses from a neutral condition into a pulpy mass which is somewhat acid. In technical terms, the pH — a measure of acidity — changes from 6.5 to about 4.5.

Research on dead chicken disposal is supported in part by grants from DPI.

Fruit Showcase Emphasizes 'Varieties For '90s'

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — What fruit varieties will be popular in the 1990s? How should commercial growers choose from the many promising new selections and crosses?

The 1990 Mid-Atlantic Fruit Variety Showcase can help growers and others find answers to these questions. The September exhibition also will provide a first-hand look at new fruit varieties on the horizon.

The Variety Showcase will be presented on Thursday, September 6, 1990 at the Pennsylvania State University Fruit Research Laboratory in Biglerville. Growers, fruit breeders, nursery operators, researchers, extension professionals, and orchard support industry representatives have been invited to participate.

The showcase will feature apple, pear, peach, nectarine, and some small fruit varieties that have potential for future fresh or processing markets. The program is co-ordinated by the Cooperative Extension of the Penn State University, University of Maryland, Rutgers University, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, and the USDA-Appalachian Fruit Research Station and West Virginia University.

Registration and fruit display set-up will be from 9 a.m. until 10:15 a.m. The schedule includes a tour of the apple variety and rootstock trial plots, a picnic lunch, a variety forum, and a complete exhibition of fruit varieties. The variety forum is a new addition to the showcase this year. During this forum the main varieties will be discussed in detail by exhibitors, extension professionals, nurserymen, and growers.

The tour will be offered in the morning from 10:30 a.m. until noon. Penn State University pomologists, Dr. George Greene and Dr. Rob Crassweller, will show the apple variety and rootstock plots located on the Fruit Research Laboratory. Fuji, Mutzu, Nittany, and various other varieties will be observed in the plots.

Anyone wishing to participate in the Showcase should collect 20 high-quality specimens of each variety. An "88 tray" will be provided for each entry, plus each exhibitor will be asked to complete a brief information form on each variety. Although most fall apple varieties will not be ready to harvest, the sponsors encourage participants to bring these selections as well.

In conjunction with the 1990 Mid-Atlantic Fruit Variety showcase, a Mid-Atlantic Fruit Variety Testing Program is being organized, and all growers, nurserymen, and extension professionals are invited to participate. The primary benefit individuals will receive by participating in the variety testing program is the exchange of information important to the future of the orchard industry. Variety testing participant application forms will be available at your local county extension office.

USDA Seeks Egg Board Nominations

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has asked certified egg producer groups for nominations to fill nine member and nine alternate positions on the American Egg Board for the 1991-1992 term.

Daniel D. Haley, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said 51 producer groups are certified to submit nominations under the egg research and promotion order. Nine members and nine alternates of the current 18-member board will continue serving though 1991, he said.

Nominations are sought for two members and two alternates each from Area 1 (North Atlantic), Area 3 (East North Central), and Area 6 (Western); and one member and one alternate each from Area 2 (South Atlantic), Area 4 (West North Central); and Area 5 (South Central).

The egg research and promotion order provides that certified egg producer organizations within each geographic area can meet jointly to nominate members and alternates. The caucus chairperson in each of the six areas should submit nominations to USDA by Aug. 1.

Individuals who wish to submit their name or any other person's name in nomination may do so through their area certified organizations. To be eligible, nominees must be producers or representatives of producers.

Any questions regarding the nominations may be directed to Janice L. Lockard, chief, Standardization Branch, AMS, USDA, Rm. 3944-S, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, D.C. 30090-6456, (202) 447-3506.

Lititz Breeder To Exhibit Angus At National Show

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Ms. Nichole High, Lititz, Pennsylvania, will exhibit Angus cattle at the 1990 Northeast Regional Junior Angus Preview Show in Rhinebeck, New York, June 29-July 1, reports Richard Spader, executive vice president of the American Angus Association.

Nichole, a junior member of the American Angus Association with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri, is one of 67 young Angus breeders who have entered a total of 142-head to compete for championship honors being awarded.

Jack Ward, Midway, Kentucky, will judge divisions for bred-and-owned heifers, bred-and-owned bulls, cow-calf pairs, heifers owned by the exhibitor, and registered Angus steers.

The Northeast Regional Junior Angus Preview Show is sponsored by the American Angus Association and the New York Junior Angus Association. It is one of four regional junior Angus shows the national organization sponsors each year for its nearly 7,000 active junior Angus members in the United States.

Mycogen, Monsanto Will Develop Nematode-Resistant Plants

SAN DIEGO, CA — Mycogen Corporation (NASDAQ: MYCO) and Monsanto Company (NYSE: MTC) announced recently that they signed an agreement to collaborate on the development of plants genetically improved to resist certain plant parasitic nematodes.

Plant parasitic nematodes are soil-borne, microscopic roundworms that feed on the roots of plants, reducing yields of many important crops, including soybeans, tomatoes, and potatoes. Annual worldwide crop damage due to these pests is estimated in the billions of dollars.

Under the terms of the agreement, Mycogen will isolate genes form the bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis (B.t.) responsible for the production of proteins active on plant parasitic nematodes. Monsanto Agricultural Company will transfer and express these genes in crop plants.

"We believe that genetically modified plants are the most practical delivery system for fighting nematodes with B.t.," said Leo Kim, Ph.D., Mycogen's executive vice president, research, and chief technical officer. "Our agreement with Monsanto, a leader in the development of genetically improved plants, should provide an opportunity to evaluate this technology and to realize its potential for plant protection."

"Monsanto has demonstrated, over a period of several years, marked success in developing genetically improved plants for pest resistance," said David Fischhoff, Monsanto plant sciences group leader. "Mycogen's nematode-active B.t. proteins represent a unique opportunity to address a major source of crop loss."

The primary control measures for plant parasitic nematodes are chemical fumigants and traditional plant breeding. However, recent restrictions on chemical nematicides because of environmental and safety concerns have limited their availability. Nematodes have also developed resistance to some chemical nematicides.

Traditional plant breeding is a lengthy process which can limit its utility. The genetic procedures developed by Monsanto will speed up this process.

"Plants that produce the nematode-active B.t. protein in their roots would give growers the best of both worlds — combining the advantages of traditional plant breeding methods while offering an effective, more environmentally compatible alternative," Kim said.

Nematodes feeding on the roots of these plants would ingest the B.t. protein and die. While highly specific for the targeted species, B.t. has been shown to not be harmful to humans, wildlife, or beneficial species such as honeybees.

Mycogen first announced the discovery of B.t. strains that produce these plant nematicidal proteins in September 1989. Monsanto plant biotechnologists have demonstrated the feasibility of gene transfer and expression of B.t. proteins active on insect pests in tomatoes, cotton, and potatoes.

Mycogen will receive funding from Monsanto to support research efforts and will also receive additional benchmark payments and royalties on plants commercialized under agreement terms.

Reduce Farm Machinery Costs

ITHACA, N.Y. — Small farmers often cannot afford new farm equipment. Operators of larger farm businesses generally have larger cash flows to obtain machinery, and higher production levels to offset rising equipment costs.

But a number of options are available to small farmers who wish to overcome some of these competitive disadvantages. "Farm Machinery Days for Small and Part-time Farmers" (NRAES-45) discusses these options and outlines methods to help farmers reduce their machinery costs.

The 56-page bulletin includes five articles written by specialists in the fields of farm business management and agricultural engineering, as well as five articles by professionals in the farm machinery and farm finance industries. Each article discusses a different topic of interest to small farmers who wish to make more cost-effective use of their farm machinery.

The bulletin emphasizes the variety of methods small farmers can use to obtain machinery and equipment and lists common errors for first-time machinery purchasers to avoid. A list of references for farmers who need help with their machinery concerns is included, along with special sections on machinery maintenance, farm machinery safety, and farmers' rights as consumers.

"Farm Machinery Days for Small and Part-time Farmers" is available for $10 from the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES), 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Cooperative Extension, Ithaca, New York, 14853. Please make checks payable to NRAES, or call (607) 255-7654. Call or write for a free publication catalogue.

Deere & Company Elects Officers

MOLINE, IL — The Deere & Company board of directors today elected Hans W. Becherer, currently the company's president and chief executive officer, to the position of chairman and chief executive officer.

Becherer succeeds Robert A. Hanson as Deere & Company's chairman. Hanson had previously announced his intention to retire effective June 1.

In other action today, the company's board also elected David H. Stowe, Jr. to the position of president and chief operating officer. Stowe formerly served as Deere & Company's executive vice president, worldwide agricultural equipment and consumer products.

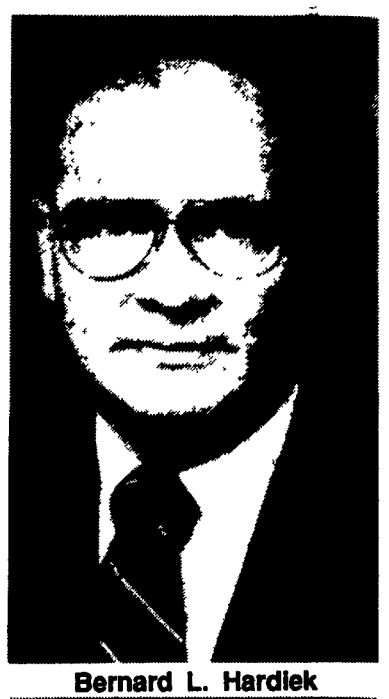
Additionally, the board of directors elected Bill C. Harpole to succeed Stowe as executive vice president, worldwide agricultural equipment and consumer products. Harpole had previously been senior vice president, worldwide parts and logistics division. Harpole was also elected to Deere & Company's board of directors.

The board also elected Bernard L. Hardiek to the position of senior vice president, worldwide parts and logistics division, succeeding Harpole. Hardiek previously served as Deere & Company's vice president for business development, planning and taxation.

The board also elected Crandall C. Bowles to membership on the Board of Directors. Since 1982, Bowles has served as president of The Springs Company, a South Carolina-based business with a variety of manufacturing and insurance operations, including a railroad, machine tool operations, an insurance company, and real estate developments.

"Under Bob Hanson's guidance, Deere & Company met the tremendous challenges of the 1980s in our major market, the U.S. farm economy, and emerged as a stronger, more productive organization," Becherer said. "Now, working with Dave Stowe and the rest of our management team, and building upon the contributions of our outstanding employee group, we look forward to the challenge of extending Deere & Company's long history of leadership and excellence."

David H. Stowe



Bernard L. Hardiek

Bill C. Harpole

Becherer joined Deere & Company in 1962 and served in a variety of marketing and management positions in Europe. He was elected vice president responsible for marketing operations in Latin America, Australia, and the Far East in 1977. In 1983, he was elected senior vice president of the overseas farm and consumer products division, and in 1986 was elected executive vice president, worldwide farm equipment and consumer products.

Becherer joined the company's board of directors in February, 1986, and was elected president and chief operating officer in April, 1987. He was elected president and chief executive officer in August, 1989.

Stowe joined Deere & Company in 1968 and served in several management positions in both the North American and overseas operations. He was appointed vice president in charge of overseas marketing for the industrial equipment division in 1981 and was elected senior vice president in charge of the division in 1982. In 1987, Stowe was elected executive vice president of the worldwide agricultural equipment and consumer products division. He joined the company's board of directors in 1982.

Harpole joined Deere & Company in 1955 and served in a variety of management positions in the company's financial services and overseas operations. In 1983, Harpole was elected vice president for Latin America, Australia, the Far East, and export operations. He was appointed vice president for business development and planning in 1987, and senior vice president for the worldwide parts and logistics operations in 1988.

Hardiek joined Deere & Company in 1979 as director of taxes, following 17 years of service with the Internal Revenue Service. In 1987, Hardiek was elected vice president, accounting and taxation, and in 1988 was appointed vice president, business development, planning and taxation.

Consultants Assist Feed Producers

WARRENTON, Va. — A professional with 20 years' experience in the feed ingredient business has established Ingredient Quality Consultants, Inc. (IQC) to assist small to medium-sized feed producers in assuring a high level of feed quality and recovering cash claims from ingredient vendors.

"We estimate that an aggressive claims program by IQC can yield small to medium-sized producers a recovery of $20,000 to $30,000 annually," said Wayne A. Whittaker, president of IQC. "For years, large feed producers have benefitted financially from ingredient quality claims filed by their own internal analysts. Now, IQC is pleased to offer the same services and benefits to smaller producers."

Whittaker is an executive with 20 years experience in the feed ingredient business. He was formerly vice president of marketing with Valley Proteins in Winchester, Virginia; vice president of marketing with Carolina By-Products Company in Greensboro, NC; and manager of buying with Ralston Purina Company in St. Louis, MO. Much of his experience lies in selling rendered animal byproducts and soybean meal to feed millers.

"The success of IQC will rely heavily on an excellent level of service for our clients," Whittaker said. "We believe that our extensive experience in the feed ingredients field, combined with a thorough commitment to service, will result in an improved feed grain quality and substantial cash recovery for each of our clients."

IQC will train its clients in proper ingredient sampling techniques, assist in forwarding samples to an independent commercial analytical laboratory, receive the results of the analysis, and compare the results with the ingredient vendor's quality guarantees.

If a sample is deficient, the company will calculate the claim amount, file the claim with the vendor, and negotiate and collect the claim on behalf of its client.

"This service has never been offered before, yet there are an estimated 1500 feed mills across the nation that can benefit from this service," said Whittaker.

NCGA Meets Gorbachev

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Leaders of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) are very optimistic that future U.S. corn sales to the Soviet Union will continue to grow after attending meetings in Moscow and Minneapolis with Soviet President Gorbachev and other high ranking U.S.S.R. government officials.

"Gorbachev emphasized that cooperation between the U.S. and U.S.S.R. is increasing due to interpersonal relationships through economic programs, agribusiness ventures, and farmer-to-farmer technology transfer," said NCGA President Alan Kemper, a Lafayette, IN., corn grower who was among the 90 business leaders who met with Gorbachev in early June in Minneapolis. "These relationships will continue to benefit U.S. agriculture, and in particular the U.S. corn industry."

U.S. corn sales to the U.S.S.R. have reached a new record of 16.2 million metric tons during the current marketing year, and prospects of additional near-term sales to the Soviets look promising, according to Kemper.

Having recently returned from four days of U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council meetings in Moscow, NCGA Chairman Steve Wentworth and NCGA Executive Vice President Keith Heard also see tremendous opportunity for U.S. corn sales to the U.S.S.R.

Wentworth and Heard were among 200 U.S. business, university, and government leaders who participated in the meetings.

"These sessions allowed us to see first-hand the complexity of Soviet problems, and allowed us to meet with new U.S.S.R. leaders," Heard said. "We met with leaders of the newly formed Council of Ministers for Food and Production, and came away from the meeting with a great deal of appreciation for the challenges the Council faces in both domestic food production and importation. The state of affairs are in a tremendous flux in the Soviet Union right now. It's anyone's guess whether the country will develop a rigid market economy, or if a violent revolution will occur."

"The food supply is very short in the Soviet Union," Wentworth said, "as we saw grocery shelves nearly empty, and lines four blocks long at the new McDonald's restaurant.

"That spells opportunity for U.S. agricultural products, especially corn, that can produce much needed meat, milk, and eggs for Soviet diets," Wentworth said. "The Soviets are very interested in greatly expanding their poultry and pork production, which will require feed grains and oilseeds that cannot be produced efficiently in their country."

After attending a banquet at which President Gorbachev spoke, both Wentworth and Heard were equally impressed with his openness and friendliness. They also observed similar attitudes among other Soviet officials.

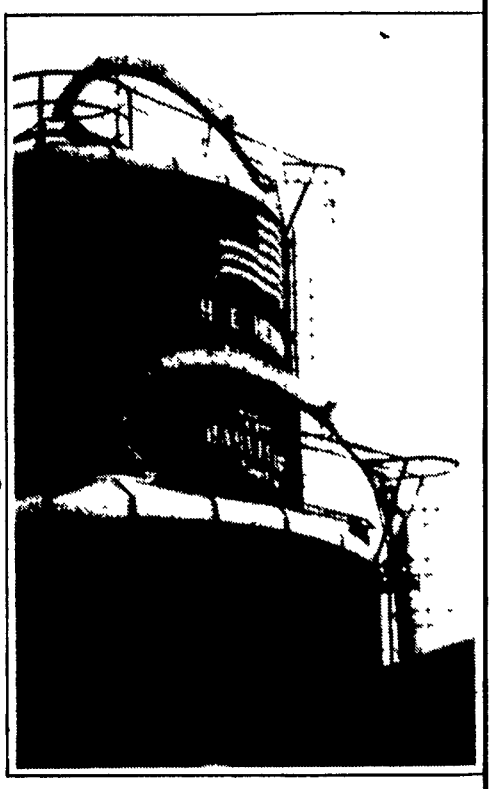
Our 12 inch gooseneck improves your Harvestore®



Lancaster Level-Flo's replacement gooseneck lets you fill your silo faster and easier. It has a 33% larger capacity than original Harvestore® goosenecks and its high-profile shape improves flow. You can actually blow in 3 tons of haylage a minute without plugging the Level-Flo 12" gooseneck. Yet it attaches easily to a standard 9" fill-pipe.

Our gooseneck's completely enclosed design keeps silage off the roof of your silo. Not only does this eliminate waste, it extends the life of the silo roof.

With an outer shell of galvanized steel, the Level-Flo 12" gooseneck stays bright and shiny for years. And it contains an inner liner of extremely wear-resistant stainless steel.

- Designed with final section straight and vertical to put silage in the center of your silo.
- And it's almost 50% less expensive than a Harvestore® replacement gooseneck.

Keystone Hires Officer

Steven Gehman

SHOEMAKERSVILLE (Berks Co.) — Steven W. Gehman has been hired as a Loan Officer by the Fogelsville Branch of Keystone Farm Credit, ACA.

A Leghigh County native, Gehman is the son of Wiley (a former Keystone Director) and Leah Gehman of Emmaus. After graduating from Emmaus High School in 1980 he attended Grace College in Indiana. Prior to joining Keystone's Fogelsville Branch, Gehman farmed Gehman Farms with his father.

Vice president of the Lehigh County Farmers' Association, Gehman is also active in the Faith Evangelical Free Church in Trexlertown. He resides with his wife and son in Macungie. Gehman is servicing the agricultural community in southern Lehigh and eastern Berks counties.

Keystone Farm Credit, ACA serves approximately 4,800 farmers and rural residents in the 15 county southeastern Pennsylvania area with short-, intermediate-, and long-term loans, country home loans and various other financial services.

New York Maple Tour Set

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y.— The 1990 New York State Maple Tour will be held in Clinton County on Monday and Tuesday, July 23 and 24. Located in northeastern New York, Clinton County ranks second highest in New York maple syrup production according to the most recent summary by the New York Crop Reporting Service.

The tour will be headquartered in Plattsburgh, which offers the traveler an ideal base for a northern vacation. it is less than an hour's drive from the continental city of Montreal and the Olympic Village of Lake Placid. Assembly and registration will take place at the Clinton County Fairgrounds.

Pre-registration is essential for scheduling this event. A registration fee of $40 per person ($32 for children under 12 years of age) provides bus transportation both days, lunch and dinner on July 23, and refreshment breaks throughout the tour. There will be a late fee ($10 per family) for registrations received after July 6, 1990.

The tour takes place during the busy tourist season, so please make lodging reservations early.

The 1990 Vermont Maplerama will be held in the St. Albans area of northwestern Vermont, July 27 and 28, 1990. For those planning to remain in the area for both maple events, a tour of the Uihlein Sugar Maple Research and Extension Field Station of Cornell University at Lake Placid, NY, can be arranged for Wednesday, July 25, 1990.

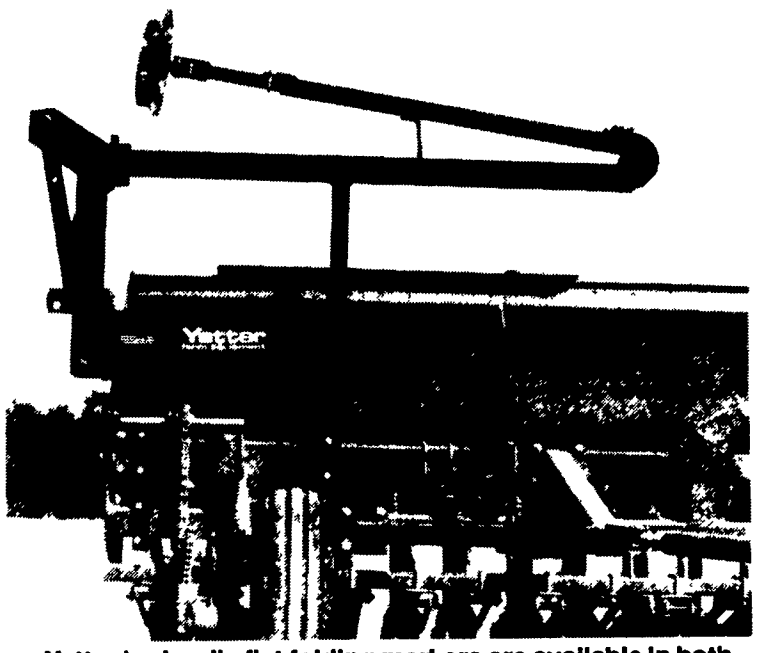
Markers Fit All Tillage Practices



Yetter hydraulic flat folding markers are available in both bi-fold and tri-fold models to fit 14-foot to 30-foot wide implements.

COLCHESTER, Ill.— Yetter hydraulic flat folding markers are available in both bi-fold and tri-fold models to fit 14-feet to 30-feet wide implements.

The hydraulic system is totally enclosed for protection and includes hoses to the center of the implement and a sequence valve. Built with strength and rigidity, the marker also includes a break-away hinge that helps prevent damage from obstructions.

The marker disc is equipped with heavy duty bearings and hub assemblies and has depth bands for uniform operation. The unit flat folds 180° after each sequence. Suitable for all tillage practices, the drill marker comes in sizes and models to fit most popular drills and planters.

For information, contact Yetter Mfg. Co., Colchester, IL 62326-0358, toll free outside Illinois, (800) 447-5777; in Illinois, (800) 325-7165.

Yetter Mfg. Co. is observing its 60th anniversary this year. The company was founded in 1930 by Harry and Etta Yetter in a small machine shed on the couple's farm near Colchester.

Mr. Yetter had invented a scraper to remove mud from the iron cleated tractor wheels then in use. These became popular with neighboring farmers and demand grew so much that the Yetters set up a company to produce them. That was the beginning of Yetter Manufacturing Company.

The young company soon started making and marketing coulters, culti-guards, weed mowers, and other agricultural products. The growth continued, and today, the firm, still family owned, manufactures and markets a complete line of conservation tillage products throughout the U.S. and Canada. Yetter products include an extensive line of fertilizer and residue cutting coulters, row crop cultivators and rotary hoes, row crop planter units, weight transfer toolbars, coulter carts and accessories, sub-tillers, and other equipment.

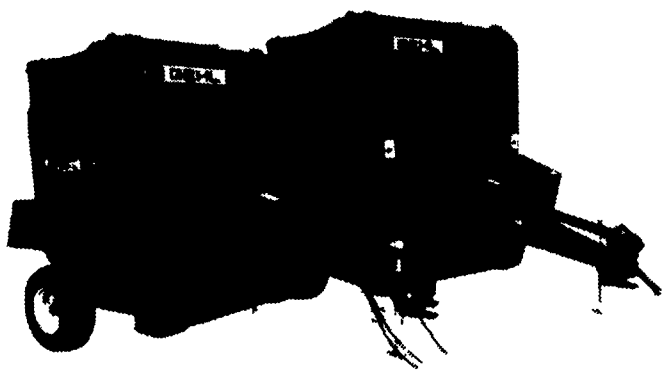
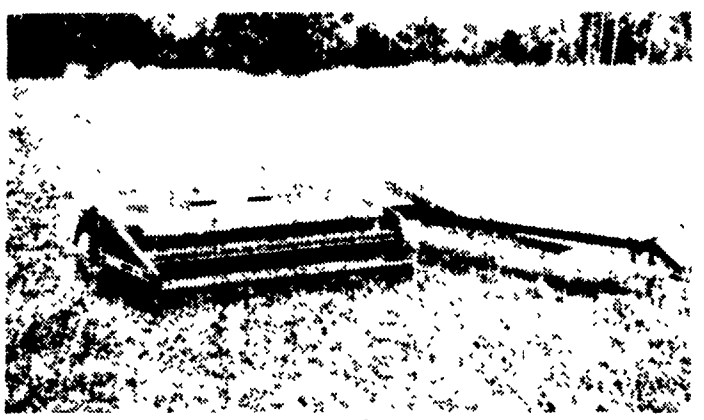
GEHL



TDC. Round Balers Only From Gehl

TDC® —Total Density Control, is a patented "air-draulic" bale density system exclusively on Gehl round balers. This remarkably simple system allows you to vary bale density and core size to adapt to changing crop conditions — giving you the flexibility you need to make quality round bales. Both the 1870 and 1470 feature texturized belts, constant velocity driveline, and the optional manual or Auto-Electric Twine-wrap. STOP BY FOR A DEMONSTRATION TODAY!



Thoroughly Conditioned

The Gehl 2140/2170 mower conditioners will thoroughly condition your hay. These pull-type mower conditioners are built for fast cutting, fast drying and worry-free performance. The wide, intermeshing rubber rolls with intermittent ribs give you 35% more working edges than continuous-ribbed rolls, for more thorough conditioning. That means shorter drying time with less leaf damage. See your Gehl dealer today on how the 2140, with a 7 ft. cutting width, and the 2170 with a 9 ft. 3 in. cutting width, will fit into your haymaking operation.

0% INTEREST

Please take no interest...

...for a full year when you finance your Gehl equipment with our special 0% interest, 12-month payment plan. We also offer other money-saving plans of limited interest — including 24, 36 and 48 month terms, or no payments until December 1, 1990*

Consider, too, the benefits of GEHLease™. This flexible program gives you all the advantages of owning but with a lower downpayment and significant tax savings. For complete information on all Gehl financing options, see your participating Gehl dealer.

The Cost Of Feeding Cattle Beyond Choice Grade

Dr. Harold Harpster from Penn State presented some information of the Feeder's Symposium that bears a closer look.

He made some comparisons of feed efficiency and weight gain in steers fed beyond choice quality grade to 2 yield grades.

For daily gain, the steers that were at 3.1 yield grade and 1050 pounds had a value of 100. When these same steers were fed to a yield grade of 3.6 and 1150 pounds, the gains were 11 percent lower. As they went to 1350 pounds and approached yield grade 5, the gains had been reduced by 28 percent.

For feed efficiency, going from 1050 pounds to 1150 pounds reduced efficiency by 12 percent, and that reduction in feed efficiency had increased to 38 percent as the steers went to 1350 pounds. The important point is that reduced gains and higher feed requirements should be expected as cattle are fed beyond the optimum endpoints. These factors cost money in additional feed and ownership costs.

This information shows that prices must be $3-4 higher for the heavier cattle to just break even.

Ivomec Drench Introduced As Alternative

IVOMEC is now available as an oral drench formulation for use in sheep. It was previously available only as an injectable formulation for cattle and swine.

The approved product is a clear liquid, ready for use in conventional drenching equipment. The product controls a broad spectrum of parasites, including gastrointestinal roundworms, lungworms, and nasal bots, and available from MSD AGVET, a division of Merck & Co., Inc.

A nationwide survey of sheep producers showed their number one concern is the control of gastrointestinal parasites.

Sheep/Lamp Checkoff Due

Now that spring is finally here and the traditional Easter sales of lamb are over, the Pennsylvania Sheep/Lamp Marketing Board would like to remind the sheep producers of our state that in order to be in compliance with the law they should remit their quarters to the Marketing Board.

Producers should send their name, address and total number of animals sold along with the check to Pennsylvania, Sheep/Lamb Marketing Program, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408.

Ten Square Feet Optimum For Finishing Pigs On Partial Slats

Market weights have increased over the last few years because of increased packer demand and because feed costs have been low.

Researchers at Kansas State University recently compared hog performance with space allowances of 6, 8, 10 and 12 square feet. Pigs were placed on trial at 130 pounds and marketed when the pen average reached 250 pounds.

As space increased, average daily feed intake and average daily gain also increased. However, pigs given 10 or 12 square feet had similar growth rates, feed intakes, and feed:gain ratios.

This suggests that when marketing an entire pen of pigs at a 250-pound weight, 10 square feet is the optimum space.

In a previous experiment the same researchers allocated 7, 9, or 11 square feet per pig. But instead of marketing the entire pen at an average weight of 250 pounds, individual pigs were marketed when they reached 250 pounds.

Under that management system, 7 square feet was inadequate to maintain optimum weight gains. But no differences in performance were observed in pigs given either 9 or 11 square feet.

Flushing Increases Litter Size In Gilts

Many producers increase the energy content of the ration prior to breeding (flushing) in hopes of increasing litter size. Does flushing really work?

A recent Kansas State University study examined the effect of flushing on ovulation rate and litter size in gilts. Thirty-nine gilts were flushed with 3.4 pounds of ground milo in addition to a 4-pound basal diet for two weeks prior to breeding. Forty-two more gilts were fed just the 4-pound basal diet. All gilts were bred on the first heat after the start of the trial and then classified as to whether they were bred on the first of subsequent heats.

Flushed gilts bred on the first heat ovulated more eggs (14.4 vs 13.3) and then farrowed larger litters (9.4 vs 8.3) than gilts that weren't flushed. Flushing had no significant effect on ovulation rates or litter size in gilts bred on their second or subsequent heats, although ovulation rates tended to be higher.

It appears that flushing may increase litter size in gilts on most farms, especially if gilts are bred at first heat.

5 Acre Corn Club

Now is your last chance to give participating in the 5 Acre Corn Club some consideration. Full details of the program are available from the extension office, but remember you need at least a 5 acre field or a combination of strips totaling at least 5 acres. You will also need a current (1989 or 1990) soil test of the field. The corn variety must be commercially available.

This program offers you the opportunity to compare your production techniques to other corn producers in the county and across the state. This is not meant to be a yield contest but rather an educational program. The cost of production is as important as the total yield and because of this, county participants will be expected to provide both cultural and financial production information. (All financinal information will be treated confidentially and used only in combinations such as county averages.)

Contact the extension office for full participation details and enrollment information. Entry deadline is July 1, 1990.

Check Your Corn Fields

Mother nature has blessed us with good weather this spring and many of us have taken advantage of that and gotten a lot of corn in the ground already.

This timely planting will help to set a high yield potential for many fields. Now it is up to you to maintain that yield potential by minimizing the problems and pests that are encountered by the crop.

Take some time now and check your fields during the first few weeks after emergence. By finding problems early, you can often come up with less expensive and more effective solutions. You may also find out some things that can help you adjust your program for later planted corn or next years corn.

What should you be looking for now? Start with population. What population do you have? Mark out several 1/1000 acre row lengths (30 inch rows 17.4 ft. - 36 inch rows 14.5 feet) and count the plants.

What percent of the seeds you planted emerged? We normally figure about an 85 percent or so emergence rate for calculating seeding rates but under your conditions this may not be accurate.

The only way you'll know is to check it out in several places. Another thing to look for is uniformity — skips or frequent doubles can indicate a planter or seed size problem that you should try to correct in the future. If the population is not what you desired then it's time to diagnose the problem. Look for patterns in the skips or dig up part of the row where seedlings are missing. Here are some things you may find:

- No seeds — planter malfunction or they may have been eaten by crows or other birds.
- Seedlings dug up or chewed off — mice, chipmunks, birds, or woodchucks.
- Kernels hollowed out or eaten — seedcorn maggots or wireworms. Use at least a seedbox insecticide treatment if replanting is necessary.
- Kernels rotted — usually only occurs with cool, wet conditions for an extended period of time.
- Kernels not sprouted, skips in the row, and/or stunted seedlings — can be caused by fertilizer placed to close to the seed, either starter or anhydrous ammonia.

LEADERSHIP AT WORK

Forage Crops Are Big Eaters

EDWARD J. WOODS
County Agricultural Agent

Hay and silage crops are big eaters. Unless the soil is well supplied with the needed plant nutrients, both yield and quality will suffer. The amount of fertilizer required to replace the amount of nutrients removed by a ton of hay varies with species.

A ton of alfalfa removes about 13 pounds of phosphate and 60 pounds of potash per acre. This means that if your hay yield is 4 tons per acre, you are hauling the equivalent of about 600 pounds of an 0-10-40 fertilizer off of each acre.

A ton of grass hay removes about 50 pounds of nitrogen in addition to about 15 pounds of phosphate and 60 pounds of potash per acre. Here again you are hauling a considerable amount of nutrients off of each acre.

To maintain yields and quality at a high level, these nutrients need to be replaced in the soil. The best guide for planning a maintenance fertilization program for your hay fields is to have your soil tested. If you are planning to fertilize after the first cutting, you should get your soil test in right away.

Topdress the recommended fertilizer now after first and/or last cutting. Split applications, one-half in the fall or early spring and one-half after first cutting, may result in more efficient use of the fertilizer. Nitrogen fertilizer for grass hay should not be applied in the fall because significant amounts of nitrogen can be lost over the winter. Your fertilization program for alfalfa should also include about two pounds of boron per acre per year.

Remember, continued high yields of quality forage require a sound fertility maintenance program.

Corn needs nitrogen

Nitrogen is very critical in the production of corn. We normally figure you need one pound of nitrogen to each bushel of corn. Thus, if your goal is 125 bushels of corn, 125 pounds of nitrogen is needed.

Considering all the rain we have had to date, the potential that some of the nitrogen applied at planting time may have leached out. Thought should be given to side dressing corn with additional nitrogen. Penn State has developed a nitrogen test for corn. We have the equipment in our office to test your fields free of charge. Now is the time to add additional nitrogen to ensure a good crop this fall.

Procedure is simple. 1. Take 10-20 core samples across the field to a 23 inch depth, if possible, between the rows. Crumble the cores and dry the samples as quickly as possible, less than 1 hour after sampling. Samples can be dried in the microwave for 5-8 minutes at high setting. Bring samples to our office and we will test them.

Complete the USDA Annual Farm Survey

Nearly 3,000 Pennsylvania farmers will be asked to participate in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Annual June Survey. A total of 117,000 of the nation's more than 2 million farmers will be asked to answer the survey. The information gathered in the survey will be used to make state, regional, and national estimates of crop acreage, grain stocks, livestock inventories, the number of farms, and the amount of land being farmed.

The survey is important in making accurate crop and livestock estimates, so I would encourage you to complete it to the best of your ability. These estimates are the basis for the development of marketing programs by the USDA. In addition, the information is used by state and federal government in developing rules and guidelines. The June survey is considered the most important survey of the year by the Department of Agriculture.

Facts about individual farms are strictly confidential and used only in combination with reports from other farms to produce agricultural statistics for the state and nation. If farmers have questions about the survey, they can contact the Department of Agriculture at (717) 787-3904.

Wolff To Serve As Vice President Of NEASDA

VERGENNES, Vermont — Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff was elected to serve as vice president of the Northeastern Association of State Departments of Agriculture (NEASDA).

Wolff was chosen to serve during NEASDA's annual Summer Conference held here this week.

"I am proud to be chosen to help lead an organization that promotes agriculture by helping states coordinate and cooperate," said Wolff.

During the meeting here, delegates selected Massachusetts Commissioner of Agriculture, Gus Shumacher, to be president of NEASDA, and they selected New Hampshire's Commissioner Steve Taylor to be secretary/treasurer.

Much of the discussion during the Summer Conference centered on the new Farm Bill. Delegates received a Farm Bill briefing from Senator Patrick Leahy's staff. In addition, the conference featured discussions of environmental and international trade issues.

Livestock Notes

• Kernels sprouted, shoots twisted or leaves opened underground — these can result from a cracked seed coat, planting too deep, or a soil crust. A crust can be broken with a harrow, cultipacker, or rotary hoe if rain is not in the forecast.

Another thing to look for now is the effectiveness of your weed control program. Escape weed seedlings are small now and sometimes hard to see, but most are easy to control if properly identified. Try to diagnose the reason for lack of control.

Common problems encountered include triazine resistance, low soil pH, the wrong herbicide program for the weeds present in the field, poor calibration or application, or excessive rainfall following application.

Also begin to start to look out for slugs and cutworms. Slugs damage will appear as shredded lower leaves on seedling plants. No chemical control measures are labeled for slug control, however. Cutworms can cut plants off at or below ground level.

Be especially wary in scouting for cutworms on trashy fields or those that had heavy chickweed or other green weeds growing on them before planting. When more than 3 percent of the plants have been cut off and the cutworms are less than 1.5 inches long, a control treatment is recommended.

Most problems are relatively simple to overcome if caught early in the season. The important thing right now is to take some time and visit those fields and make sure everything is going as planned.

Tractor Clinic

Successful combine clinics held during the past two summers have prompted an invitation to Dr. Gary Smith, extension agricultural engineer from the University of Maryland, to return again this summer. But instead of a combine clinic, this session will be a tractor clinic.

Smith has conducted many of these clinics in several states throughout the country. The importance of tractor maintenance and safety will be stressed. Tractors will be tested on a PTO-dynamometer, serviced and adjusted as necessary, and then retested to demonstrate improved efficiency.

The clinic is scheduled for July 24, 1990 at Quaker State Farms' garage along Rt. 25 between Sacramento and Gratz.

Herbicide Injury to Corn

Although we had excellent conditions to plant corn in April, conditions for plant growth in recent weeks have not been ideal (rain, cloudy, cool).

Many corn plants were emerging as this weather occurred. We know from experience and research that heavy rainfall at emergence and cool, cloudy conditions will produce the potential for herbicide injury.

There is Dual, Prowl, and Banvel injury. I have also noticed a difference in the amount of injury depending upon hybrid and the amount of apparent soil compaction.

Corn no-tilled into soybean stubble are showing the most symptoms, and this year these fields seem to have soils that are more compact than usual. Soil compaction exacerbates any injury to the corn plant.

Purina's new high energy, all natural protein dairy concentrates formulated to match your type of forages.

Purina® Hi-E Milking Concentrates are the newest products designed to deliver high energy, all natural protein and the correct mineral and vitamin balance—which is exactly the formulation many dairymen have been looking for. This new line has the added advantage of being forage-specific, a feature that makes it nuritionally complete for either corn silage or alfalfa hay/haylage feeding programs. Looking for a way to get more energy into a milking ration? Want to feed all natural protein? Now there's a way to do both — with the Purina Hi-E Milking Concentrate that's precisely right for your needs.

NO UREA

Purina Hi-E Milking Concentrate B31
For alfalfa hay/haylage programs.
The nutrient balance in Hi-E B31 has been adjusted to provide additional amounts of vitamins A and D, trace minerals, and phosphorus. It has 31% crude protein.

Purina Hi-E Milking Concentrate B35
For corn silage programs.
This Hi-E B35 version contains the elevated calcium and protein levels needed to balance a corn silage ration.
